—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE NEW YORK TIMES, commenting on the nomination of Roosevelt and Garner, has, on its front page, undertaken to explain the part played by W. R. Hearst. Because his group of twenty-five million Hearst newspaper readers can carry any election, if they choose, you are interested in the following telegram received by the writer from W. R. Hearst, yesterday.

Los Angeles, July 3.
ARTHUR BRISBANE,
New York American:

I personally will not reply to the articles in the Times or to any such insinuations. The reason the California delegation went for Roosevelt was because he was obviously the choice of a majority of the Democrats in the convention hall and throughout the country.

A Democratic party which is not governed by the wishes of a majority is simply and plainly not democratic. It has usurped a name to which it has no right.

The fundamental principle of democracy is the rule of the majority, and it is a disgrace to the democracy of this nation that the Republican party should be, in this essential respect of majority rule, more democratic than the Democratic party.

I said in my articles during the convention that I favored Garner for President and I worked for him earnestly, ardently and unremittingly. However, when a man submits a candidate for the consideration of a convention, he must in honor and ordinary decency abide by the result of the convention; so I promised to support any genuine Democrat nominated by the convention.

Therefore, I am going to support Roosevelt.

He complies with the required conditions. He is a genuine Democrat in spirit and in record and he was duly and properly and overwhelmingly nominated by the convention.

He is not the hired man of high finance and that is the reason why high finance and its hired men will not support him. But it also is a good reason why genuine Democrats will support him.

Therefore, I look to see all loyal Democrats everywhere support Gov. Roosevelt because he is a rightful and regular Democrat, rightfully and regularly nominated by a rightful and regular Democratic convention.

I do not know whether Smith will support him or not. I do not know how loyal and regular Smith is.

However, Smith and Roosevelt have loyally supported each other in times past and political rivalries do not create permanent enmities in liberal-minded men.

Smith cannot always be nominated for President. Some of the time he will be called upon to support those who have loyally supported him. It is only by loyalty that one gains loyalty.

Smith has always prided himself on being regular. It is not regular to be a renegade.

Smith will support Roosevelt all right, unless the brown derby has gone yellow; and of course it has not.

Smith is a pretty able citizen and he knows that he would not amount to anything, now or hereafter, if he read himself out of the Democratic party.

However, that is something for Smith to consider. Roosevelt is going to be elected in any case.

W. R. HEARST.

THIS WILL be a radio campaign. The county fair, the "patriotic outpouring of voters," will see little of the candidates, and they will see nothing of torchlight parades. President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt will talk through the air, and campaign speeches will change, and improve.

You must choose your words and arguments carefully when you can no longer make faces, pound with your fist, wave your arms, or toss back your leonine mane, to impress.

BOTH HOOVER and Roosevelt have made a careful study of the radio and its possibilities.

Both use the radio with excellent effect. President Hoover, apart from politics, made a careful study of the radio, as part of his job, when he was secretary of commerce.

On the radio, abuse, or even too severe criticism of your opponent, often helps the opponent. And humorous anecdotes that begin "it seems there were two Scotchmen," are not acceptable.

Radio campaigns make substantial campaign contributions necessary, since each party will need at least a million dollars for radio expense alone. That is more costly than the ancient "blocks of five" bribery system.

The radio promotes thought, eliminating the mob spirit of old political meetings.

IN NEW YORK'S Bronx zoo, the snake manager has a good idea. Snakes in cages discover that life is simple. Some one brings live mice, or whatever they eat, at regular intervals, no one disturbs them.

So they lie down, make no effort, and do not amuse the visitors.

Also they get no exercise. A small zoo island has been arranged and 42 snakes let loose on it. If they swim in the water, they cannot escape because of a rim around the outside of the

BEAUTY SOBS STORY OF KILLING

Fighting Gallows, London Society Woman Testifies Dying Victim Absolved Her

International News Service.

LONDON, July 5.—Mrs. Elvira Dolores Barney, daughter of a multimillionaire nobleman and wife of an American radio singer, denied today, in a dramatic lone-handed fight to escape the gallows, that she had murdered Michael Scott Stephen, London society figure.

Relating her story of the killing, which occurred in her exotically furnished bedroom after a cocktail party, Mrs. Barney testified that with his dying breath Stephen told her she was not to blame.

While the crowded courtroom listened in rapt attention, the and with tears coursing down her cheeks, described Barney's last words. She asserted:

"He said: 'I wish a doctor would hurry. I want to tell him it was an accident and wasn't your fault.'

"He repeated this over and over again."

As these words echoed through historic old Bailey Court, the defense abruptly closed its case and turned the prisoner over to the prosecution.

During 50 minutes of direct examination, Mrs. Barney told dramatic details of her love for Stephen, a young Irish sportsman, telling how she had given him money which he gambled away with another woman.

The climax came when Mrs. Barney was asked to describe in

GOV. ROOSEVELT TO RAP HOOEVR

By RAYMOND I. BORST

ALBANY, N. Y., July 5.—(INS.) Refreshed after his first good night's sleep in nearly a week, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, democracy's candidate for the presidency, today settled down to the task of answering the thousands of congratulatory messages which have deluged the Executive Mansion since his nomination at Chicago.

While he has not heard from former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Mr. Roosevelt is firmly convinced all of the wounds of the convention will be healed long before the November election and that all elements in the Democratic party will be lined up solidly behind him in his drive for the White House.

WAR ON HOOVER

Having taken the offensive in his battle against what he has characterized as the "Republican leadership," Gov. Roosevelt intends to carry the fight to President Hoover's door from now until election day.

He is determined to make this a campaign that will long be remembered by the American

GOV. PINCHOT says 1,150,000 Pennsylvanians are unemployed and nearly 1,000,000 working only part time.

The Remedy

A $5,000,000,000 bond issue by the United States to build great public works, employ several million men, start the nation back to prosperity.

Chatterton Romance Wrecked by Pajamas

ACTRESS RUTH CHATTERTON . . . PAJAMAS VS. STIFF SHIRTS

Quarrel Over Dinner Attire Blamed For Rift

By WILLIAM PARKER
International News Service.

PARIS, July 5.—Her English-born husband's rigid adherence to the custom of "dressing for dinner" was one of the factors leading to the rift between Ruth Chatterton, film star, and Ralph Forbes, International News Service learned today.

The beautiful actress, who, according to reports, will marry George Brent, also an actor, when she obtained her divorce from Forbes, liked to relax in filmy pajamas when she returned home from a hard day in the studios.

But Forbes was a stickler for correct attire and as Ruth was equally determined to take it easy in pajamas—one thing led to another.

Miss Chatterton has confided to close friends that she still entertains a high regarad for Forbes, but that their romance is over.

Miss Chatterton, it was learned, has already purchased a home of her own in the fashionable Tolucca Lake district outside of Hollywood, where she will take up residence when her divorce becomes final.

The actress met Brent, her friends declared, during the filming of "The Rich Are Always With Us."

Attorney to Ask New Curtis Trial

TRENTON, N. J., July 5.—(INS.)—Lloyd Fisher, attorney for John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk (Va.) shipbuilder, will plead before the Court of Appeals today for a new trial for his client, convicted of obstructing justice through his hoax story of his negotiations with the supposed Lindbergh baby kidnapers. Curtis was in jail in Flemington, N. J. Should the move for a new trial fail, Curtis was to be sentenced on July 11.

MOSCOW, July 5.—(INS.)—Reports current in Paris that Joself Stalin is gravely ill were ridiculed in official circles today.

150 INJURED IN 'SAFE' FOURTH

Scores of Children Taken To Hospitals for Hurts By 'Banned' Firecrackers

The Independence Day accident toll—marking the second such celebration of the holiday under the city ordinance prohibiting the sale of firecrackers—it was estimated today claimed 150 burned and maimed.

The list of injured, approximating last year's total, included about 80, treated in hospitals. Several were burned seriously. Many were given the anti-tetanus serum by neighborhood physicians. The majority hurt were children.

One life was claimed by drowning, two by automobile accidents, while the latter also caused many injuries.

More than 150 were reported hurt in the July Fourth celebrations last year, prior to which City Council had passed an ordinance prohibiting the sale of fireworks. The law is still on the statute books.

Light Firm Offers New Rate Cut

As a resolution was presented to City Council for an appal to Gov. Pinchot for change in public utility rate structure, the Duquesne Light Company today submitted a new reduction offer.

A complicated table of rate changes was offered by the company as a substitute for the average reduction of 10 cents per month per customer offered several months ago. That offer was never acceptd by Council.

Those familiar with light rates said the new offer constituted a reduction ranging from five to 15 per cent dependent on the amount of consumption. It was considerably greater than the previous offer, they stated.

The new offer, based on a house of seven rooms, was as follows:

Ten kilowatt hours, new rate 60 cents, old 80 cents; 20 kwh., new $1.20, old $1.35; 30 kwh., new $1.80, old $1.90; 40 kwh., new $2.20, old $2.30; 50 kwh., new $2.60, old $2.70; 60 kwh, new $3.00, old $3.10; 80 kwh., new $3.60, old $3.70; 100 kwh., new $4.20, old $4.30; 120 kwh., new $4.80, old $4.90; 140 kwh., new $5.40, old $5.50; and 160 kwh., new $6.00, old $6.10.

The offer outlined that the rates for 160 kwh. in an eight-room house would be $6.16 rather than $6.49; 10-room house, new $6.48, old $7.27; nine-room house, new $6.32, old $6.88; 11-room house, new $6.64, old $7.66.

KLINE'S APPEAL SET FOR BUTLER

Arguments on the appeals of Mayor Charles H. Kline and Bertram L. Succop, his deposed supplies director, will be heard in Butler, it was reported today.

Judge Thomas D. Finletter, of Philadelphia, before whom they were convicted in Butler County, who was to hear the arguments in Philadelphia on Friday of next week, it was reported, has returned the case to Butler County.

Decision to hear the arguments in Butler County was reached, it is said, because of a question raised as to the right of a judge, especially assigned, to sit outside of the county in which the case was tried, to hear arguments on motions.

The commonwealth will be represented at the argument by District Attorney Andrew T. Park and his chief assistant, George F. P. Langfitt, and Attorneys Earl F. Reed and W. D. Stewart, special counsel. Attorneys Charles B. Prichard, E. G. Coll and Col. E. L. Kearns will argue for the defendants.

Garner Gets Great Ovation From House Colleagues

WASHINGTON, July 5.—(AP.)—Speaker John N. Garner, Democratic vice presidential nominee, was greeted with a tremendous burst of applause today as he walked into the House chamber to take the chair for the first time since his nomination.

By previous arrangement, an unusually large number of members were present, both Democrats and Republicans.

Garner took the chair, laid his glasses on the desk and rapped for order in vain. At first he stared fixedly at a small card as if embarrassed, but finally looked up and smiled as the ovation continued for several minutes, punctured by rebel yells and shouts.

Finally order was restored for the opening prayer. Immediately afterward, Representative Snell, the Republican leader, came forward to the desk and personally congratulated Garner.

This was the signal for another outbreak of applause from the Democrats, who arose to their feet with cheers. Snell was permanent chairman of the Republican national convention.

Later at his press conference, Garner said there was "not going to be any expense" attached to his formal notification of the nomination. He said, with a smile:

"I thought I was through with it when I sent a telegram to Representative Sam Rayburn, chairman of the Texas delegation, thanking them for the nomination."

The Speaker said Senator Walsh, of Montana, the permanent chairman of the convention, "is over in the Senate and it does not cost anything for bus fare or any other kind of transportation to come over to the House from the Senate."

Is Roosevelt Safe?

IS ROOSEVELT a safe candidate?

This question echoes a similar inquiry which used to reverberate through Wall Street concerning the Democratic nominee's illustrious cousin.

Before the query can be satisfactorily answered, one might counter "SAFE" FOR WHOM?

If Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's conduct as president, if elected, squares with his past acts and expressions, he will not be altogether safe for heartless, heedless speculators and pyramiders and blue sky operators or for the greedy gangsters in the power industry who seek to appropriate to themselves public facilities.

Gov. Roosevelt's "forgotten man" radio speech indicates that he will not be complacently safe for and in smug harmony with those who, like President Hoover, preach the doctrine of "rugged individualism" to needy persons who are without employment, while practicing tender paternalism in the direction of financing the financiers.

BUT EVERYTHING IN Gov. Roosevelt's record and program indicates clearly that he will be constructively and comfortingly safe for honest, conscientious business men and financiers.

As a matter of fact, at this crucial time when intelligent innovation is essential, there is a safety valve in Gov. Roosevelt's economic liberalism.

A survey of Gov. Roosevelt's utterances on economic questions since the depression indicates that he had a much better insight into the course of events than the incumbent in the White House.

While President Hoover was predicting wrongly and refusing to acknowledge the gravity of the situation, Franklin D. Roosevelt was in a fact facing mood, and was doing his share to awaken the public to the need of more intelligent industrial planning and economic co-ordination.

TO SPEAK FRANKLY, the intelligent business community, in considering who is safe and who is unsafe, should recognize that a president who can see economic events clearly and plan ahead intelligently, is infinitely safer than one who acts on false assumptions and miscalculations.

Scarcely a fortnight before President Hoover blundered in issuing his statement indicating his belief that the worst of the unemployment crisis would be over in sixty days, Gov. Roosevelt, in a speech at Ithaca, N. Y., on February 14, 1930, realistically pointed out:

"Many economists are seriously questioning whether we have not for the time being reached the saturation point of industrial production calling for a period of digestion for a number of years to come. No matter how anxious we may be to prevent any panic of thought over the unemployment situation at this time, we must nevertheless recognize the fact that there are more people in the cities of the United States who are walking the streets looking for jobs than at any time within many years."

AS THE PRESIDENTIAL election looms, economic and labor problems are the dominant issues of the campaign. If voters want to use intelligent discrimination, they will examine the record to test how Messrs. Roosevelt and Hoover reacted to the economic catastrophe.

In short, President Hoover took the position that the business car had temporarily jumped the track, and would soon get back. On the other hand, Gov. Roosevelt diagnosed the defects in our economic organization, and developed a constructive program for correcting them.

Now that time gives an opportunity to check up on the prognostications of the two men, the record plainly shows that Mr. Roosevelt has been far nearer right than Mr. Hoover.

In time of crisis, it is prudent to rely on men of proven worth, not on bunglers.

Franklin D. Roosevelt is SAFE FOR THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES.

BULLETIN.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., July 5.—(AP.)—Two American aviators, James Mattern and Bennett Griffin, were fighting valiantly to defeat a thick fog and reach Harbor Grace today. After being reported forced down in the fog near Wesleyville, they were sighted over Cape Freels, and Griffin dropped a note reading: "Please point direction of Harbor Grace Airport."

NEW YORK, July 5.—(AP.)—James Mattern and Bennett Griffin took off today in an attempt to beat the world-girdling flight record of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, but they lagged well behind on the first stretch of their long flight.

Post and Gatty made the first leg of the world flight, New York to Harbor Grace, N. F., a distance of 1,132 miles, in 6 hours and 25 minutes.

MIGHT REGAIN TIME

Mattern and Griffin left New York at 5:01 a. m. (Pittsburgh time) and to equal the Post-Gatty time would have to reach Harbor Grace at 11:53 a. m. They had not arrived at that time, however.

At 10:55 a plane believed to be theirs passed over Scateri Island in Nova Scotia, still approximately 300 miles from Harbor Grace. If this plane was indeed the Mattern-Griffin ship it seemed probable the new record seekers would be about two hours behind the

14 SAFETY MEN CONTEST AX

An angry and discontented vanguard of police and firemen, among the 260 fired last week by Mayor Kline, today struck back at the Mayor by signing appeals to the Civil Service Commission.

Nine firemen and five police signed appeals in the office of their attorney, Alexander P. Lindsay. All said their notices of dismissal had failed to give a reason. One said a political boss had told him he was discharged for opposing the Mayor politically; another was told he was dismissed for moving from one ward to the other.

More of the jobless men are expected to sign appeals later. These will be argued before the Commission by Attorney Lindsay. Some of these are expected to contend they were fired for disabilities they incurred in the city service and which, they claim, is insufficient reason for dismissal.

Attorney Lindsay said:

"These men were fired for political reasons and I believe we can prove it."

Dates for Voters To Qualify for November Polls

Here are the dates on which residents of Allegheny County may qualify to vote for President and other offices at the November election:

September 7—Last day to be assessed for payment of poll taxes, a tax receipt being necessary to register.

September 8—First registration day in second and third class cities, including Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne and Clairton.

September 20—Second registration day.

October 8—Third and last registration day, also last day to pay poll taxes.

September 6 and 7—Register assessors will sit at polling places in boroughs and townships to list those who may have been omitted in house-to-house canvass.

PINCHOT, BORAH AND SUNDAY BOOMED TO HEAD DRY PARTY

PROHIBITIONIST GROUP OPENS CONVENTION

Bishop Cannon at Session; Ford and Kresge Among Others Urged to Run

International News Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 5.—Gifford Pinchot, Governor of Pennsylvania, or Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, for President, and William (Billy) Sunday for Vice President, was the aim of the leaders of the Prohibition party, which opened its national convention in Cadle Tabernacle here today.

Although less than 500 accredited delegates from all parts of the nation sat in the big hall when National Chairman D. Leigh Colvin, of New York City, pounded his gavel to open the session, there was much enthusiasm for the party's future.

Delegates talked glibly of 10,000,000 votes that Senator Borah would draw if he accepted the presidential nomination.

CANNON ATTENDS

Prominent among the notables at the convention was Bishop James Cannon. He explained, however, that he was present merely as an observer, the same capacity in which he attended the Republican and Democratic National Conventions.

Convention leaders refused to discuss the outcome of conferences with Pinchot, Borah and Sunday, but said the outlook was bright. Balloting on the presidential and vice presidential candidates starts tomorrow.

Clinton N. Howard, of Boston, temporary chairman, delivered the keynote speech in which he scored President Hoover for betrayal of the dry cause and predicted that millions of disgruntled drys of the two major parties would flock to the Prohibition party's standard.

FORD BOOMED

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Henry Ford for first place and either S. S. Kresge, the 5 and 10 cent store magnate, or J. C. Penny, another chain store man, for second place on a Prohibition party ticket was urged today upon D. Leigh Colvin, chairman of the Prohibition party's national convention in Indianapolis by James Martin Miller, formerly a staff member of Ford's magazine. Miller said Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, would not accept the dry nomination and said Ford would give $1,000,000 to the campaign fund, which would be matched by either Kresge or Penny.

Organized Drys To Meet on Strategy

WASHINGTON, July 5.—(AP.)—Organized drys will attempt to agree on presidential campaign strategy at a meeting here July 14 and 15.

Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, executive secretary, issued a call today to the National Prohibition Board of Strategy, war council of 30 prohibition groups. He said:

"I have seen and heard nothing to indicate any likelihood of the organized drys of the country attaching themselves to the Prohibition party."

Racketeer Hunted In Canada, Mexico

NEW YORK, July 5.—(INS.)—Canadian and Mexican authorities were asked by local police today to help in the hunt for "Owney" Madden, reputed racketeer, sought as a parole violator. Madden was believed to have fled this country, probably by plane, after the Appellate Division ruled he would have to be returned to Sing Sing for failure to make proper reports to the parole board.

detail the events which preceded the shooting. She said:

"Michael lunched at the apartment that day. In the afternoon we went out together to purchase things for a cocktail party.

"Michael hadn't been kind to me. He wanted money to go out and gamble. I begged him not to. I became more and more unhappy and the subject was finally dropped."

When the cocktail party was over, she said, she and Stephen went out to dinner, after which they returned to the flat. She said:

"We were on friendly terms, and at first Michael was kind to me.

"He made love to me, but after a time he became most angry because I didn't respond the way he wanted me to. He said that perhaps my feelings had changed. I told him it was only because I was unhappy.

"That made him angrier. He told me he would leave next day and not see me at all."

RUSHES FOR GUN

Sir Patrick Hastings, her attorney, asked:

'Did he prepare to go?"

Mrs. Barney replied:

'He got up after some time. I asked him not to leave me.

"Then I threatened to kill myself. Michael dashed for the armchair where he knew I kept my revolver, saying:

"'Anyway, you won't do it with this.'

"He picked up the revolver and ran out of the room. I ran after him. The revolver was in Michael's hand. I went up to him and we struggled for the revolver.

"I wanted it back. I kept saying, 'give it to me,' but he tried to get away. I was crying—"

NEARLY COLLAPSES

Here the defendant faltered and seemed on the verge of collapse. But she recovered herself and continued her narrative:

"Suddenly I heard a shot.

"Michael looked at me with an expression of astonishment. He went upstairs to the bathroom and remained a moment in the half-opened door.

"'Better send for a doctor,' he said.

"It was the first time I had any idea he was hurt."

Mrs. Barney vigorously denied that she shot Stephen or that she ever at any time had a motive for shooting him.

Sir Percival Clarke, the crown prosecutor, launched into his cross-examination with questions regarding the "other woman" with whom Stephen was alleged to have gambled away Mrs. Barney's money.

DENIES JEALOUSY

The prisoner heatedly denied that she was jealous or that jealousy was the cause of their frequent quarrels. She said:

"Money and gambling were responsible. But in between, I was perfectly happy."

Under cross-examination, Mrs. Barney said that the woman who encouraged Stephen to gamble was not at the cocktail party. Sir Percival referred to her as "Miss C.," keeping her identity a secret. He asked:

"After the shooting, did Stephen say: 'My God, what have you done?'"

"No. His first words were 'fetch a doctor.'"

The prosecutor thundered:

"I guess that in anger with him for saying he would leave you, you said 'get out or I'll shoot' and you shot."

The defendant, amid tears, said:

"No, I didn't."

BINGHAM BEER TEST TODAY

WASHINGTON, July 5.—(AP.)—Senator Bingham told newspapermen today he planned to demand an immediate vote on his proposal to legalize 3.2 per cent beer.

The Connecticut Republican said he intended to call up during the day his amendment to the home loan bank bill to permit beer and that he expected opponents to move immediately to send it to a committee in an effort to kill it.

Asked in the House whether it would be possible to consider immediately beer-for-revenue legislation, Speaker Garner replied:

"No bill of that character has been reported to the House."

Representative Britten, (Rep.), of Illinois, had profounded the question, gaining recognition by saying he had a "parliamentary inquiry." When Britten then referred to the O'Connor-Hull bill, the Speaker replied, rapping his good:

"That is not a parliamentary inquiry and the gentleman has been here long enough to know it."

That ended the discussion.

Vets Enter Still In 'Fourth' Parade

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., July 5.—(AP.)—Mounted on a flat a still was drawn through the streets here yesterday in a parade in honor of the one hundred fifty-sixth birthday of the United States. ITALY'S STAND BRINGS ROW AT DEBT PARLEY

Britain Flatly Refuses to Wipe Slate Clean Unless U. S. Backs Cancellation

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT
International News Service.

LAUSANNE, July 5.—The inter-allied debt squabble feared as the result of Italian Foreign Minister Dino Grandi's demand for complete cancellations of all European post-war financial obligations broke in full force today.

Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald, of Britain, flatly refused Grandi's demand that the slate be wiped clean. Great Britain, he said, cannot cancel debts due to her unless the United States does likewise.

Grandi precipitated the discussion by asking Premier MacDonald to agree never to demand renewal of war debt payments by Italy, in line with the policy he outlined yesterday as the ideal of Premier Benito Mussolini.

Premier MacDonald replied politely but firmly that Great Britain is bound by the Balfour declaration, which sets forth that Britain shall ask from her debtors only as much as she needs to pay her own war debts.

While she has to continue payment of her own debts, he said, Britain cannot agree to wiping the international slate clean.

Premier Edouard Herriott, of France, who arrived here today from Paris, immediately joined Premier MacDonld against the Italian demand, preferring a united front with Britain against America's claims.

To obtain this Franco-British front, International News Service learned, Herriot has agreed to a reduction in the amount of reparations demanded from Germany.

Hoover's Navy Views Opposed by Britain

GENEVA, July 5.—(INS.)—Great Britain finds the naval clauses in President Hoover's disarmament plan "unacceptable" without important reservations, but accepts "in principle" the land and air clauses, provided allowances are made for the special conditions of each country, it was learned on reliable authority here today.

In the first direct statement regarding Britain's attitude, British Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon informed United States Ambassador Hugh Gibson to this effect during a half hour's conversation.

The meeting was considered highly significant in view of the fact the steering committee of the disarmament conference was convening at 4:30 p. m. mainly to draw up the agenda for Thursday's session of the general committee. Sir John is expected to outline Britain's objections in detail at the Thursday meeting.

Shoots Self Trying To Collect for Food

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 5.—(AP.)—James A. Sansone was incensed when four men drove away from his barbecue sandwich place without paying for food they had eaten. He seized a revolver, jumped into his automobile and started in pursuit.

A few blocks away he overtook the quartet, pulled the trigger of his weapon and shot himself in the foot. The men continued their flight while Sansone went to a hospital.

record they are trying to break when they reach their first stop.

Post and Gatty stayed 3 hours and 40 minutes in Harbor Grace before starting the flight across the ocean. However, Mattern and Griffing might pick up some of their lost time, if not all of it, by speed in refueling.

WEATHER FAVORABLE

Dr. James H. Kimball, veteran weather man, who is unofficial starter of long-distance flights, told them that, despite rain over Nova Scotia, they could expect satisfactory conditions.

Mattern, who hails from Fort Worth, Tex., and is 27 years old, sat 15 feet away from Griffin, 36-year-old Oklahoma City man. Between them were huge gasoline tanks.

The plane has dual controls, however, and the pilots planned to communicate with each other by means of notes placed in a small tube and slid along a cable. An abundance of compasses and a pair of ice indicators were among their instruments.

The pilots plotted a course across the Atlantic to Ireland, over Europe to Siberia, across the length of Asia to the Pacific and homeward by way of the North Pacific and Alaska.

For the ocean flight it was a question of "make it or bust," for they carried no lifeboat, parachutes or fire extinguishers.

Ends Romance With 'What-a-Man;' Will Not Pay His Bills

HERMOSA BEACH, Cal., July 5.—(INS.)—Mrs. Minnie (Ma) Kennedy-Hudson, mother of Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, wept today in her lonely love nest by the sea as she admitted that her blazing romance of a year with Guy (What-a-Man) Hudson had ended. She sobbed:

"I'm cutting loose. I'm getting out from under. And I won't be responsible for his debts.

"Our married life has been just a comic strip, and getting funnier any funnier.

"I want it understood that Guy will always be welcome in my home as long as there is a crust of bread. But when a person runs out of money that person is broke. And Guy's trips to various places looking for work have cost me a lot of money."

Mrs. Kennedy-Hudson did not indicate whether she planned to seek an immediate divorce.

Hudson declared:

"You can say for me if there is a separation or divorce in this family it's not because I want it. Imagine a woman letting a man go downtown to look for work without a dime in his pockets!"

HUTTON STUNG, FACES QUIZ

LOS ANGELES, July 5.—(INS.)—Although David Hutton, Jr., music master husband of Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, the evangelist, was stung by bees during his Fourth of July holiday in the mountains, he was expected to appear in court today for the resumption of trial in Myrtle Hazel Joan St. Pierre's $200,000 love balm suit against him.

Lorrain Andrews, attorney for Miss St. Pierre, smiled in anticipation over the fun he said he was going to have cross-examining Hutton. He said:

"Mr. Hutton is certainly an immaculate young man. It is certainly unusual to see an unmarried young man going around with an unmarried young woman and never even holding her hand.

"When I get through with Mr. Hutton I will call three surprise witnesses who will knock his testimony into a cocked hat."

SENATE, HOUSE GROUPS AGREE ON RELIEF

Rumors Increase That Bill Will Be Vetoed If Passed As Drawn by Conferees

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—(AP.)—Senator Watson, the Republican leader, said today that President Hoover would veto the $2,100,000,000 unemployment relief bill and insist that Congress stay in session until a new measure has been passed.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—(AP.)—The $2,100,000,000 compromise unemployment relief bill was finally approved today by House and Senate conferees.

Rumors, meanwhile, were increasing that President Hoover intended to veto the bill if the conference report is approved in its present form.

Representative Rainey, of Illinois, the Democratic leader and a member of the conference committee, said the report would be taken up tomorrow by the House.

The conferees approved the final draft of the compromise agreement in the same form in which it was tentatively agreed to last Saturday, carrying $300,000,000 for direct relief loans to states, $322,000,000 for public construction and $1,500,000,000 for loans through the Reconstruction Corporation, both public and private.

All the conferees signed the bill except Representative Treadway (Rep.), of Massachusetts, a strong administration supporter.

His refusal to sign added strength to the reports that President Hoover would veto the measure.

A copy of the compromise measure was sent by the conferees to the White House today for President Hoover's study. Sponsors of the legislation continued to maintain confidence that he would sign the measure.

The text of the compromise bill was withheld until presented in the House.

Hoover Asks $120,000 For Job Aid Board

WASHINGTON, July 5.—(AP.)—President Hoover, in a brief message to Congress today, asked for a special appropriation of $120,000 to continue the activities of the President's organization on unemployment relief.

The chief executive pointed out that Congress had omitted an appropriation for the unemployment organization, headed by Walter S. Gifford, in the second deficiency bill recently enacted.

Should no appropriation be given, Mr. Hoover said, "there would be grave danger of national, state and local volunteer groups concluding that services such as they have rendered were no longer necessary."

The committee is composed of leading men and women in every state, whose effort has been to stimulate private aid and coordinate local activities.

MELLON SEES U. S. UPTURN

LONDON, July 5.—(AP.)—Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon told the American Society last night confidence will return in the United States "just as soon as we are able to think again in terms of what we have and what we are, rather than what we have lost."

The Ambassador was speaking at the society's Fourth of July dinner, which was also addressed by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia University, New York. Mellon said:

"Today we are suffering from a lack of confidence, not as regards fundamentals, but only as regards the best means of overcoming the difficulties immediately ahead. These difficulties we shall overcome in time.

"All sources of our national wealth are still there. We still have our vast natural resources, our great industrial organization with its complete and modern equipment, and as efficient laborers as any to be found in the world."

Dr. Butler declared:

"The interdependence of nations is the Twentieth Century corollary of the Declaration of Independence."

Boards Wrong Airplane, Gets Bargain Ride

Dr. Andrew B. Speer, of Franks-town road, Wilkinsburg, had a bargain airplane ride yesterday. Making his first flight, he traveled for one dollar to Columbus, O., and back to Pittsburgh, and had a box lunch.

Dr. Speer went to the City-County airport yesterday and paid his dollar for a five-minute sightseeing trip. He stepped into one of three planes lined up at the walk. Busy porters and ticket checkers failed to note what sort of a flight his ticket called for.

He was up several minutes before he remarked to a fellow passenger that the flight was long for a dollar. It was then he learned he was on a longer trip than he suspected. The pilot told him there was nothing to do but to go on to Columbus, and take a return plane.

During the flight he was served with a box lunch and at Columbus he found another transport plane of the same line. The Transcontinental and Western Air, ready to return. He boarded the ship and was back a short time later.

Lost Fliers Found Safe In Australian Bush

SYDNEY, Australia, July 5.—(AP.)—Capt. Hans Bertram, German aviator, and his mechanic, whose name is Clausman, were found alive yesterday after having been missing since May 17.

On that day they took off in Bertram's plane from Kupang Island on a flight to Darwin. They did not arrive and were given up for lost when a search revealed no trace of them.

Two weeks ago natives turned over to a missionary a handkerchief and a cigaret case with Bertram's initials. They said they had found them about 100 miles north of Wyndham, where they also had seen the footprints of two men going south.

This spurred the search anew and the abandoned plane was found with a message that the fliers had gone into the bush. It was feared that they had been slain by hostile natives, but the search continued.

Meanwhile a tribe of natives had found the men and supplied them with food before sending for help.

VETS AGAIN MARCH ON CAPITOL TO DEMAND BONUS CASH

ATTACK MADE ON RED CROSS BY LEADER

Thousands March Silently Along Pennsylvania Ave.; Warning Against Reds

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Under a blazing sun, thousands of hungry World War veterans, some accompanied by wives and children, gathered before the Capitol today, restate their demand for cash payment of their adjusted service compensation certificates and cheered slashing verbal attacks on the administration by their leaders.

The mass meeting was in the nature of a last stand so far as the present session of Congress is concerned. Congressional leaders hope to adjourn this week. The veterans marshaled their forces to protest such action unless provision is made for their bonus army.

TWO-MILE LINE

A parade, more than two miles in length, brought the thousands of veterans to the broad plaza before the Capitol. They formed columns of four, two blocks back of the White House, and marched silently into Pennsylvania avenue and down its length to the Capitol. Perfect order prevailed, and Communistic demonstrations expected when the veterans gathered at the Capitol failed to develop.

President Hoover, Secretary of War Hurley, former Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, J. P. Morgan, W. W. Atterbury, the Red Cross and the American Legion came in for the bitterest sort of attacks by the veterans' leaders.

National Commander Walter W. Waters, in New York on a quest for food for his men, was not at the mass meeting and Harold B. Foulkrod, of Philadelphia, legislative representative, and Doak Carter, of Cleveland, chief of staff for Waters, made the speeches.

WARNS AGAINST REDS

Foulkrod warned the veterans against communistic influences and then launched his attack. He said:

"If this wasn't a general election year, a presidential year, don't you know we would have all been kicked out of here long ago? The political bosses would have thrown us out. We want our bonus and we've got to fight for it. We have got to stay here and show them, show them all, we are determined, we are orderly and that we aren't going to leave until we get the bonus.

"Don't pay attention to these politicians. American Legion men come here. They tell the powers that be that they represent four million veterans. They don't represent anybody but a lot of crooked politicians.

"And the Red Cross. This is the organization that can feed the Austrians, feed the Belgians, feed the Chinese—feed everybody on earth but the American soldiers. Look at its head, John Barton Payne. He's a political parasite, a political tool. He's just like W. W. Atterbury, J. P. Morgan and Herbert Hoover."

West Va. Floods Block Highways

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 5.—(AP.)—Southern West Virginia anxiously watched its rivers today as they tore along out of their banks, causing much damage to highways, farm lands, homes, railroads and telephone lines.

Five inches of rain in 24 hours yesterday brought flood stages to all the smaller streams and caused the rivers to reach unusual heights. Only one road was open toward the north from Charleston, that by way of Point Pleasant, and hundreds of tourists were stranded in little towns along the principal routes.

BONUS LEADER TO SPEAK HERE

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Walter A. Waters, commander-in-chief of the Bonus Expeditionary Force, has plans for the first of a series of personal appearances, beginning in Pittsburgh within the next few days to present a statement of policies and aims of his 25,000 encamped comrades.

The invitation to Pittsburgh was extended by Cyrus A. Davis, flying attorney of that city, who has embraced the cause of the veterans with high energy.

Recruiting of 100 men, women and children to join the Bonus Expeditionary Forces in Washington began at daily meetings which opened today in West Park, North Side.

Bonus army leaders, under Mrs. George Huey, whose husband is in the camp at Washington, were arranging to obtain transportation. Meetings will be held each morning and afternoon this week, Mrs. Huey said. Today's group included about 20 women, wives of veterans, and a dozen children, leaders said. It is expected the next contingent will leave late this week.

Davila Suppresses Army, Navy Coup

BUENOS AIRES, July 5.—(INS.)—The provisional republican junta in Chile, headed by Dr. Carlos Davila, former ambassador to the United States, still functioned today despite an attempt by military and naval leaders to stage a coup d'etat.

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 5.—(INS.)—An official communique issued today stated that the situation was quiet. The government denied reports of an attempted military coup d'etat.

Hay Fever Mars Coolidge Birthday

PLYMOUTH, Vt., July 5.—(AP.)—Calvin Coolidge spent his sixtieth birthday in his homestead yesterday nursing an attack of hay fever and watching a steady rain beat against the window panes. The former President's son, John, and his wife were week-end guests, but they left late in the afternoon.

HOLIDAY DEATHS IN NATION 240

Associated Press.

America celebrated the one hundred and fifty-sixth anniversary of the birth of the nation at a cost of more than 240 lives.

But the toll was only about half of that of 1931, when nearly 500 persons paid with their lives for their celebration of the Fourth of July.

As in recent years, a comparatively few of those who died this year were the victims of fireworks, which caused but 10 deaths in all. Automobile accidents were the chief cause, 111 being killed in motor mishaps.

Total drownings—81—for the nation fell off considerably from the previous year.

The Middle West led all other sections in the number of deaths, with more than 90, of which 53 were due to automobile accidents and 31 to drownings. About 50 persons, mostly children, were injured by fireworks in Chicago.

Of the 10 fatalities from fireworks, six occurred in Butte, Mont., where a pile of dynamite caps exploded. William and Joseph Crnich, each 19; Rudolph Kavhan, 19; Stanley Strizic, 18; Joseph Mufich, 18, and Stanley Serich, 18, were the victims.

MME. SYLVIA, ACTOR WED

NEW YORK, July 5.—(AP.)—The marriage of Mme. Sylvia Ulvect, former Hollywood masseuse and beauty advisor to motion-picture stars, to Edward Leiter, actor, was announced today.

The ceremony was performed at Egremont, Mass., July 1. Charlotte Granville, actress, was the only attendant. The couple plans to return to New York after a brief honeymoon.

Mme. Sylvia, as she is known in Hollywood and on the radio, left Hollywood several months ago, coming to New York to devote her time to radio and writing.

The bridegroom is a son of Mrs. Ella Leiter, of Los Angeles, and a nephew of the late Joseph Leiter, Chicago financier.

2-CENT STAMP RUSH ON

A mail rush marked the last day for the two-cent stamp, today. Business houses taking advantage of the old rate flooded the main postoffice and sub-stations with outgoing first class letters on which there must be a three-cent stamp after midnight, in accordance with provisions of the recent tax bill passed by Congress.

Letters without the three-cent stamp, postmarked after midnight, will be returned to the sender if the letter bears the address. Otherwise it will be forwarded to the address and held until the extra cent is paid.

The new stamps, on sale today, bear the likeness of George Washington. There is a slight increase in air mail rates and in insurance on parcel post packages, but none in the parcel rates.

Jailed in Fatal Ball Game Fight

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va., July 5.—(AP.)—Hugh Montgomery, 30, is in jail here charged with killing Dewey Riffle, with a baseball bat. The slaying occurred in a fight after Montgomery had taken exception to a remark made to his wife by Riffle at a game yesterday.

AKRON ON WAY TO HUNT FOR LOST YACHT

Ocean Combed for Ketch, 4 Days Overdue in Race; Amateurs Make Up Crew

NEW YORK, July 5.—The Navy dirigible Akron today set out from Lakehurst, N. J., to join in the sea hunt for the ketch Curlew, missing with six amateur sailors aboard.

Seaplanes, Coast Guard cutters, destroyers and patrol boats already had begun the search for the craft, which left Montauk Point on June 25 as one of the entrants in a yacht race to Bermuda.

The Curlew is four days overdue at Bermuda. All the other 25 yachts in the race have made the port or been accounted for. In the searching party for the missing craft are 168 rum patrol ships.

At dawn this morning the Coast Guard fleet began to cross-hatch the Atlantic, from the shore line 100 miles out, seeking trace of the yacht. All parts of the ocean between Montauk Point and Bermuda will be searched.

Co-operating with the surface vessels, seven seaplanes of the Coast Guard service put out from Cape May, equipped with radio, to seek sight of the ketch, and guide the cutters on their work of rescue.

U. S. to Hear Shaw On Radio Monday

NEW YORK, July 5.—(INS.)—George Bernard Shaw will be heard in America on the radio next Monday. Broadcasting station officials said today the famous dramatist and critic agreed to talk about how he rose to world prominence in journalism and literature.

Weather Conditions.

Light to moderately heavy showers and thunderstorms occurred nearly everywhere from the plains states eastward to the coast during yesterday and last night and it is raining this morning at scattered places in the Ohio Valley states. Over the Rocky Mountain states the weather is clear and cool. Frost is reported at Yellowstone, with a minimum temperature of 34 degrees. There was a slight drop in temperature over most of the country since yesterday morning. In Kansas temperatures ranged from 90 to 104 degrees yesterday afternoon. High pressure is centered over the lake region and extends southward over the Upper Ohio Valley states to the East Gulf states, while lows are centered over North Dakota and New Mexico and the North Atlantic.

River Conditions.

Generous rains over the district Sunday night started the upper rivers rising and these rises are now apparent in the main rivers. Stage at Franklin is 1.8 feet; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 13.1; Pittsburgh, 10.9; Dam No. 4, 9.4; No. 6, 8.1; No. 10, 9.0 and No. 12, 7.8. The dams are up.

FALLS TO DEATH REACHING FOR SPECTACLES

Erie Attorney Plunges From 14-Story Window; Native of Burgettstown

ERIE, Pa., July 5.—Plunging 14 stories from the Erie Trust Building, Erie's tallest structure, George W. Lutterell, 29, Erie attorney formerly of Burgettstown, Washington County, was killed this morning.

As hundreds of persons were passing the trust building Lutterell's body went hurtling from the high window, landing on a two-story building adjoining.

Firemen removed Lutterell from the roof. He was still living when admitted to Hamot Hospital, but died shortly after.

According to members of his law firm, Lutterell was standing near a window, adjusting his glasses. The spectacles slipped from his hand, and, in an effort to retrieve them, he lost his balance and plunged.

A stenographer heard a scream and turned just as Lutterell disappeared.

Coroner W. G. Stroble returned a verdict of accidental death. He attributed the attorney's plunge through the window to his impaired vision.

Lutterell was one of the younger members of the Erie County Bar Association. He was a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh Law School, and was admitted to the Erie Count bar in 1926.

He leaves his mother, residing in Burgettstown; a sister and a brother.

AVIATRIX FALLS 18,000 FEET

Mary Cebek, young flier, failed to establish a new women's altitude record, but made an even more remarkable record at Bettis Field yesterday, falling 18,000 feet and cracking up her plane without injury to herself. She said today:

"I took off shortly after 4 p. m., climbing steadily to 18,000 feet. At this level the air was very bumpy, visibility was extremely poor, and there was heavy rain. I turned on the oxygen and attempted to climb to 19,000 feet. The rain turned to ice on the wings, the controls froze, and I fell into a spin."

Coming out of the spin, Miss Cebek found she was far from her starting point and nearly out of gas. On the farm of W. F. Hutchison, near Zelienople, she landed in a hay field. The tall grass hid a tree stump, and her plane nosed over, cracking a wing, landing gear and propellor. She was unhurt.

Miss Cebek, who is 20, came to Pittsburgh from Clarksburg, W. Va., in the attempt to establish the new record. She broke all marks for the Pennsylvania district, but her record must remain unofficial, since she did not land on the same field from which she took off. She has been flying less than a year.

Another Girl Quits Dance Marathon

After reaching a record of 324 hours for solo dancing, Miss Florence Franchina today was teamed with Ed Bonach as his partner, Miss Lucy Demicola, was forced to retire in the marathon dance at Motor Square Garden. Miss Demicola had danced 676½ hours. Fourteen couple, remaining in the endurance contest, will reach the six hundred and ninety-sixth hour at 9:30 o'clock tonight. The management plans to reduce rest periods next week.

Cameraman Held In Killing of Pair

LOS ANGELES, July 5.—(INS.)—Erwin Liner, 43, motion picture cameraman, was booked today on a charge of suspicion of murder in connection with the "shambles killings" of Edwin H. Clark, 45, retired telephone company official of New Jersey, and his wife, Mrs. Kendaci Clark, 43, in their bungalow here last night.

Liner insisted Mr. and Mrs. Clark had been killed by two burglars who had invaded their home where he was a roomer.

VALLEE TO GIVE UP 'SAX' FOR LAW

'Crooner Cons Heavy Tomes Between Jazz Numbers

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Dear Rudy:

Wait a minute before you toss away that megaphone—we're going to tell on you!

We stole into your dressing room between shows, just to say hello, and caught you in the act of—of all things!—studying.

You looked like the night before mid-years at Yale, with your nose buried in a huge book on "Criminal Law," and your saxophone lying forgotten in a corner.

So it's really true you're going to be a lawyer, Rudy? You admitted it, and it's going to be sad news for the daffydills. What a blow. But as you explained consolingly:

"I won't start my practice for about four years. There's a lot to learn in the legal profession.

"Last winter I turned on my radio in the dressing room of the Paramount Theater, and by accident dialed a broadcast of a lecture on the laws that safeguard society."

We know the rest of the story, Rudy. You got the book of 36 lectures and began to study them on trains, in your dressing room between numbers, in all your spare time. Yesterday you had your first lesson—you learned what happens when a man socks another man in the eye, you said, laughing. You added:

"I want to be a corporation or a criminal lawyer, in California. I'm very much interested in those two branches."

We suggested divorce lawyer, but you said no, didn't you, Rudy?

"I don't like having any connections with gossip or scandal—and divorce is always so unfair to one of the sides.

We catch on about the California part, we do. That's where you and Fay built that beautiful new home, and you're planning to go out there, leave the stage and the radio, desert the daffydills and become a suburban husband—a private citizen and a lawyer.

Okay, let the saxophone rust. Put the megaphone into an old trunk to save for your grandchildren. But not yet, Rudy; ooooh, not yet!

G. O. P. STUNNED BY DEMOCRAT SOLIDARITY

Leaders Gathering to Plan Hoover Campaign Jolted By Roosevelt Strategy

By LOUIS SEIBOLD
International News Service.

CHICAGO, July 5.—The most surprised and startled set of politicians in the country today are the Republican leaders who are beginning to assemble here to organize the Hoover campaign.

The battle ground of both Republican and Democratic nominating conventions is to be the general headquarters for the Republican campaign. Former Senator Henry Allen, of Kansas, is already at work arranging for the coming of National Chairman Sanders and other leaders to start the Hoover ball rolling.

During the dramatic working-out of the Democratic problems which finally resulted in the nomination of Gov. Roosevelt and Speaker Garner, Republicans throughout the country predicted easy sailing for the Republican ticket. They are not so sure of it now.

G. O. P. JOLTED

The unprecedented launching of the Democratic campaign within 18 hours after the nomination of Roosevelt, plus the harmony that has since prevailed, jolted the Republicans out of a great deal of their smug confidence.

The old idea that "the Republican party stops fighting after their convention and the Democrats begin" has been completely exploded. Democratic leaders, who were both confused and somewhat demoralized until Garner pointed the way to harmony by delivering his Texas and California delegates to Gov. Roosevelt, are almost as surprised as the skeptical Republicans.

The splendid impression made by Roosevelt and the spectacular sequence of incidents that culminated in his magnificient reception by the chieftains of his party, who had been at war with each other, did more to encourage Democratic hope of victory in November than could have been anticipated a few hours ago.

The Democratic nominee supplied just the touch that was needed to sweep aside the troubles (real and imaginary) that the Republicans predicted would turn public sentiment against the Democratic cause.

LEADER QUALITIES

Roosevelt revealed qualities of leadership that were totally unexpected. His poise, earnestness, clarity of expression, definiteness of purpose and accurate appraisal of values involved in the coming struggle for the presidency won for him both the admiration and respect of even those party leaders who vigorously opposed his nomination.

Within four hours after his flight to Chicago, to set aside the traditional and expensive ceremonies of notifying the candidate that he has been chosen, the Democratic nominee had healed every scar—except one.

His success emphasized the voluntary isolation of Alfred E. Smith, one-time "Happy Warrior."

Even Tammany, which persisted in its opposition to the selection of Roosevelt, yielded to the healing process. Curry, McCooey and the other Tammany chieftains not only laid down their arms with gracious gestures, but climbed aboard the harmony wagon with something akin to cheerfulness.

The presidential nominee made it easy for the Tammany leaders to surrender and they appeared to be grateful for the help he rendered.

This was equally true of the other commanders of the delegate units in the Smith set-up.

Predictions made by Hague, New Jersey leader, and other Eastern Smith allies that Roosevelt could not carry their states gave place to a feeling of good will that prompted predictions of Democratic victories there.

SEE SMITH TURN

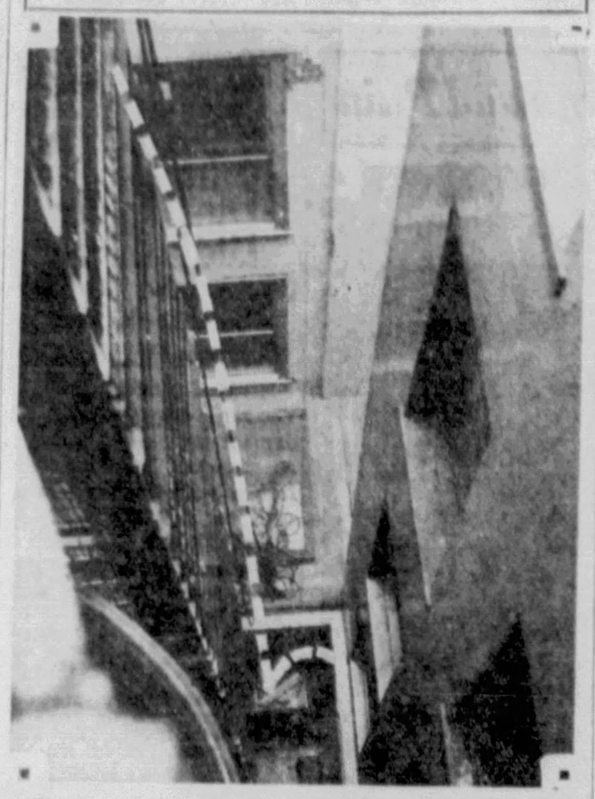
New Yorkers, who confessed disappointment at what they described as Smith's "bad sportsmanship," appeared unanimous in expressing the opinion that the "Happy Warrior" would get over his grouch and render valuable service to his old pal and political ward.

Not the least happy ending of Democratic troubles brought about by the finesse displayed by Roosevelt was the rally of leaders in every part of the country who opposed his nomination.

The Governor accomplished this by his praise for the services rendered by Chairman Raskob, Jouett Shouse, Charles Michaelson and other men in the Raskob organization. These men now appear to be not only willing, but eager to render similar service to Roosevelt and Garner.

Viewed as a whole, the Democratic picture now presents a sharp contrast. Distrust and uncertainty have given place to enthusiasm and hope; skepticism and confusion have been replaced by order and confidence, all of which are absolutely justified by the happy ending of a bad beginning. Even the Republicans admit it.

SIX-STORY PLUNGE!



PAINTER'S SIX-FLOOR PLUNGE FROM ELEVATOR SHAFT TODAY

The long plunge from the outside of the Fitzsimmons Building grilled elevator shaft, in a skylight covered ventilation-light shaft, that Painter Albert Peitz, 37, Duquesne University, took today. He struck a radiator, crashed through a window. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

JOHNSON LAUDS ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, July 5.—(Universal Service.)—Senator Hiram Johnson (Rep.) of California, has joined the insurgent bolt against the Hoover-Curtis Republican ticket, at least to the extent of apparently withdrawing active support from the President.

In a statement of unstinted praise, published today, Johnson termed Gov. Roosevelt's acceptance speech as "the most important speech of our day."

Although he declined to say whether he will openly support Roosevelt in the campaign, Johnson's statement left little doubt that he favors the Democratic nominee to President Hoover.

Johnson said:

"There was something fine and gallant and exhilerating in Roosevelt's ending of the old tradition that a nominee must wait anywhere up to a month before being informed of his nomination.

"The imaginative get a thrill from the Democratic candidate's writing in a speeding airplane the most important speech of our day and the most important in his whole history."

Hearst Lauded By Benedum in Garner Choice

M. L. Benedum, Pittsburgh oil man, who supported Hoover in 1928, sent from Chicago during the Democratic convention the following telegram to William Randolph Hearst:

"We now see that you have used your usual good judgment in advancing and commending to the public John N. Garner.

"He has the sterling qualities and fortunate political experience necessary in these trying times to meet the serious problems confronting us. I believe that Gov. Roosevelt and Speaker Garner will make a strong team and with your assistance will pull through to victory."

Benedum was active throughout the convention in behalf of Roosevelt, and used his influence to bring about the agreement between Roosevelt and Garner which resulted in their nomination.

Taxi Driver Slain, Passenger Sought

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., July 5.—(AP.)—A lone taxicab passenger, believed to have slain the driver of the cab, William Garrison, for $5 and dumped his body in a ditch on a mountain road near Warrensville, was the object of a widespread police search today.

Garrison's body was found with a bullet through the heart. His cab was found abandoned eight miles distant.

P. R. R. Studies Plan To Give More Jobs

HARRISBURG, July 5.—(AP.)—Unofficial reports that another attempt to divide work on the Pennsylvania Railroad so that more men can be employed, will be discussed at a conference in Philadelphia July 15, were circulated here today. It was reported representatives of the four railroad brotherhoods would confer with company officials. The reported agreement would affect approximately 30,000 employes.

Roosevelt Will War on Hoover

people. He will ask for no quarter and he will give none. It is a fight to the finish and he intends to drive home the fact that he is fighting for a "new deal for the American people."

With his four sons, Gov. Roosevelt will embark on a 40-foot yawl next Monday morning from some place on Long Island for a week's cruise along the coast, through the Cape Cod Canal and on to Portsmouth, N. H. The Governor, revealing his vacation plans today, said:

"We are going to do our own navigating, cooking and washing. I am going to do the navigating."

The Governor had a long telephone conference last night with his running mate, Speaker John N. Garner, at Washington. He said the Speaker would announce plans for his notification as soon as a date for the adjournment of Congress has been fixed.

Mr. Roosevelt intimated that Speaker Garner's official notification may take place in Washington.

SEES TAMMANY AID

NEW YORK, July 5.—"I am sure that the Society of Tammany will follow the banners when the cause of real democracy is at stake."

Thus did Gov. Roosevelt inform Tammany Hall that he was confident the organization would support him in the presidential campaign, in a telegram sent to Leader John F. Curry and read at the Independence Day celebration of the Tammany Society.

The crowded hall cheered the nominee's message. Alfred E. Smith, on the platform with the other sachems of the society, sat impassive for several moments. Then, without relaxing his graven features, Smith clapped his hands, lightly.

Curry and John H. McCooey, Brooklyn Democratic leader, arriving from Chicago yesterday, announced that their organization will give their "strongest support" to Roosevelt.

Pinchot May Back Roosevelt in Fight

HARRISBURG, July 5.—(INS.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot returned to the Capitol today from his estate in Milford, but remained silent on the nomination of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, his personal friend. Speculation concerning the possibility that the Pennsylvania executive would bolt the Republican party in favor of the New York Governor has developed.

Roosevelt Gets 50 Pennsylvania Votes

HARRISBURG, July 5.—(INS.)—Warren Van Dyke, chairman of the Democratic state committee and secretary of the delegation to the Chicago convention last week, today announced that an error had been made in the summary of the poll for the last ballot when Pennsylvania was credited with 49 votes for Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Van Dye said the Roosevelt vote should have been 50, the vote of S. Forry Laucks, of York, not having been included in the original total.

Jersey Democrats To Back Roosevelt

TRENTON, N. J., July 5.—(INS.)—New Jersey Democrats who fought hard for the nomination of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith at Chicago have no intention of withholding their support from Franklin D. Roosevelt, Gov. A. Harry Moore announced today. He said:

"The state will be behind Roosevelt."

Dickey Draws Indefinite Suspension

NEW YORK, July 5.—(INS.)—Bill Dickey, New York Yankees' catcher, has been indefinitely suspended by William Harridge, president of the American League, for his fight yesterday with Carl Reynolds, Senators' outfielder, in a game in Washington yesterday, according to word received here today.

The suspension was expected in baseball circles, since Reynolds suffered a broken jaw, and will be out of the game for about six weeks.

Clark Griffith, president of the Senators, filed a protest with Harridge yesterday.

The Yankees are in Baltimore today for an exhibition game.

MAN, WIFE HURT ESCAPING FIRE

Mrs. Rouel Howe leaped from the second floor of her Pitcairn home to escape flames today. Her husband received leg injuries while he attempted to reach her.

Neighbors called a physician to treat her, while all the fire organizations of Pitcairn and North Pitcairn fought to save the house and nearby homes. The dwelling was virtually destroyed.

The fire started in the cellar of the house, a two-story and attic frame structure at North avenue and Cole street. Its origin was undetermined. The blaze spread so quickly the house was a mass of flames before the couple discovered it.

Attorney Drowns Trying to Save Dog

TOPEKA, Kan., July 5.—(AP.) Attempting to save the life of his dog, Virgil V. Scholes, 35, young Topeka attorney, drowned at a private lake yesterday. Scholes slipped off a dam as he waded in after the pet. He was unable to swim. The dog reached shore in safety.

OBITUARY

Peter A. Wilbert.

OIL CITY, Pa., July 5.—Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning in St. Stephen's Catholic Church for Peter A. Wilbert, 60, former city solicitor, who died after failing to rally from several weeks' illness and an operation 10 days ago in Mercy Hospital, Pittsburgh. Wilbert was a charter member of Oil City Elks and past exalted ruler of the order, a member of the Knights of Columbus, Venango County Bar Association, and for several years president of Oil City Lawyers' Club. He is survived by his widow, who was Maud L. Kennedy, of Brooklyn, and four daughters.

Mont D. Youtes.

Monaca, Pa., July 5.—Mont D. Youtes, 54, borough treasurer and cashier of the citizens National Bank, of Monaca, died today in his home, here. He took a leading part in church, fraternal and civic affairs, being a member of the Redeemer Lutheran Church, of various Masonic organizations of the Beaver Valley and Pittsburgh and a director of the Beaver Valley Chamber of Commerce. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Anna Youtes; two daughters, Mrs. John C. McCreary and Miss Marion Youtes, of Monaca; and two sons, Mont D., Jr., and W. Judd Youtes, at home.

Hutchison Funeral.

Funeral services were to be held today in Altoona for R. Bruce Hutchison, 59, of that city, who died Sunday night in the home of his son, Reid G. Hutchison, of 1409 Grandon avenue, Dormont. The services were to be at the home of a brother, J. K. Hutchison, in Altoona. Beside his son and brother he leaves a sister, Mrs. Anna Hamilton; two other brothers, J. M. Hutchison and W. S. Hutchison, and two grandchildren, all of Altoona.

$75,000 Worth of Men's Suits From Our Regular Stocks REDUCED

Hello, everybody! Tomorrow begins the most remarkable suit sale in 32 years.

I'll tell you why. I've been in the clothing business 32 years—in good times and bad—and never saw one like it.

What's it all about? Here is the story. We've been buying clothes for special events. Sales that have been writing history, as you men know. We were jubilant until we ran smash-bang up against a fact that stopped us cold!

We have $75,000 worth of our own fine suits in stock that hasn't been moving as fast as it should. Priced to present-day conditions, yes. But far, far too much inventory for good business.

We're going to take an awful licking to accomplish our end. We're scrapping present prices, low as they are. Ordered terrific reductions from one end of the floor to the other. Nothing has been spared.

Mr. Eddie Meyer, merchandise manager, for 32 years actively engaged in the clothing business, tells the amazing story back of this once-in-a-generation opportunity.

The Most Drastic Men's Suit Clearance in The Whole History of Our Store!

WERE $25 TO $30 — $16

WERE $35 — $20

WERE $35 TO $50 — $24

- All Models!
- All Colors!
- All Patterns!
- All Fabrics!
- All Sizes!

We have never done anything like this before. We believe Pittsburgh has never seen anything like this before. Despite the fact that 80% of these suits could (and probably should) be carried over until Fall, we have slashed the price of practically every suit in stock in preparation for the most spectacular sale in our career!

Literally thousands of suits—every one from our regular racks—including Society Brands and other famous makes—no half way measures in this sale. Tomorrow you take your choice at these almost incredibly low prices. Whether you are a born bargain-hunter—or have never before attended a sale—you'll get the same tremendous wallop out of clothes like these at four-star savings!

U. S. ASSAILED BY JAPANESE

TOKIO, July 5.—(INS.)—Japanese newspapers today carried virulent attacks on what was termed United States interference in Japan's affairs. The articles were directed against the attitude of America in connection with the Sino-Japanese Manchurian dispute.

The newspapers also flayed the League of Nations Commission investigating Manchuria, and praised the super-patriotic nationalist societies that have recently sprung up throughout this country.

'Queen of Bareback Riders' Dies Poor

NEW YORK, July 5.—(Universal.)—Funeral services were held today for Mrs. Ann Jackson, who, 60 years ago, was Netty Burk, advertised by P. T. Barnum as "queen of bareback riders and death-defying equestrienne." She died Sunday, impoverished and forgotten, in a furnished room here. Mrs. Jackson, who was 90, at the height of her fame earned $250 a week.

FINISH FRAME OF DIRIGIBLE

AKRON, O., July 5.—(AP.)—The Navy's giant new dirigible, the 785-foot U. S. S. Macon, entered the final stages of construction today, after an elaborate ceremony accompanying the lifting of its bow.

A delegation of citizens from Macon, Ga., participated yesterday in the ceremony as the 75-foot section was hoisted into place. It virtually completed the framework of the 6,500,000 cubic foot craft, which now is expected to be ready for flight by January.

The Macon, being built at the Goodyear-Zeppelin plant in Akron, will resemble its sister ship, the U. S. S. Akron in shape, dimensions and equipment, including machine gun batteries and accommodations for carrying several fighting airplanes. The Macon and the Akron will be the world's largest and fastest dirigibles.

Miss Susan Myrick, young Macon newspaper woman, blew a whistle as the signal for four crews of workmen to start the bow into place.

Two winches and a crane did the actual lifting and the whole precedure required but 45 minutes, a new record for the job.

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

Everyone in the smart set who stayed in town over the week-end was to be found last night at either the Fox Chapel Golf Club or the Allegheny Country Club. And on Saturday night a large throng dined and danced at Longue Vue.

Among those in charge of the Fox Chapel festivities were Thruston Wright and popular Helen Leovy and Mrs. Thomas J. Hilliard.

Directing the gaieties at Longue Vue were Edward E. McCoy, Joseph H. Bialas, E. T. Weir, H. F. Wherrett and William H. Robinson.

Circus At Club

Quite the most popular Fourth of July entertainment down in Sewickley was the annual children's party at the Allegheny Country Club with a trained animal circus holding hundreds of children and their elders, too, entranced.

Flags and horns and balloons and Japanese umbrellas and all sorts of similar favors made the day doubly thrilling, and of course there were extra special Fourth of July refreshments.

Little Jeannette Brainard I saw with roguish Wilson Kipp and her brother, Alexander Brainard. Nearby were James Townsend, Hanson Thomas and Margarety Cuddy, Mary Charmley and Viola Culbertson, beneath the shade of diminutive Japanese umbrellas.

Seen at Circus

Mrs. George L. Craig, Jr., was there with her young daughter, Mary Lee, looking very smart in an embroidery-ruffled white frock with a hat to match.

Others I saw were Jeannie Baird McKnight, John Johanson IV, little George Frick and the little Downey sisters, Joan and Patsy, children of the George Faber Downeys.

Others I noticed were Mrs. Frank Stoner, Sr., Mrs. Frank Stoner, Jr., young Mary Blackwell, Dorothy Blackwell, Augusta and Leila Jones, Kipp Stoner and Netty Klinghoffer. Augusta Jones was there, too, Susan and Virginia Burgwin.

Week-end At Club

Among those week-ending at Rolling Rock were the Eugene Pargnys, the Blair Childses, the George Laughlins, Jr., the Francis Guthries, the Allan Gordons, the T. Howe Nimicks, the Dorwin J. Donnellys, the Albert Wellses, the Fleming Fells, the Arthur P. Woolfolks, the Clark Millers, and the T. M. Joneses III.

* * *

At the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, Atlantic City, over the Fourth were the George G. Crawfords, of the Schenley Apartments, and the William Davises, of Denniston avenue.

LIST OF COMMITTEES IMPOSING

MISS VIRGINIA DICKINSON — MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM C. AUSTIN

MRS. LOUIS P. KIRSHEMAN — MISS ELIZABETH LOY WELKER

The wedding party of the former Miss Mary Catherine Welker, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Welker, Jackson street. Miss Dickinson was the bridesmaid, Mrs. Kirsheman the matron of honor, and Miss Welker, the bride's sister, the maid of honor. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

riage by her father, wore a gown of white satin and lace, having the long train draped from the waistline, and long sleeves of lace with puffs of satin at the elbows. Her veil of tulle was finished with a cap of tulle caught with orange blossoms, and her bouquet was of white roses, lilies of the valley and sweetheart roses.

Miss Muriel Jane Baldrick, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor and wore nile green chiffon having a cape, and she carried pink roses and pink larkspur. The bridesmaids were Miss Anne H. Bartrem, who wore pink chiffon, Miss Mildred G. art and Miss Martha E. Byers who wore primrose yellow chiffon, and they all carried pink roses and blue delphinium. Patricia Yeiser, small cousin of the bride, was flower girl, wearing a frock of pink organdie and carrying a colonial bouquet of sweetheart roses and larkspur.

Harold Lessig was the best man, and ushers included Howard W. Edgar, brother of the bride; William J. Zigenheim, Albert J. Lorch and Smith McKee, Jr.

The reception was held at the Wildwood Country Club.

After September 1, Mr. and Mrs. Baldrick will reside in Vernon street, Mt. Vernon, New Kensington.

McVicar Wedding

Judge and Mrs. Nelson McVicar, of Park street, Tarentum, announce the marriage on Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, in their home, of their daughter, Miss Louise McVicar, to Lloyd J. Brendel, of Massilon, O. Officiating was the Rev. Dr. A. F. Walker, of the First Presbyterian Church of Tarentum. After a two-week honeymoon in Delaware, Mr. Brendel and his bride will be at home in Massilon.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Palmer, of North Lang avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Hilda Marie Palmer, to Raymond Alder, of East Liberty, which took place June 28. They will live in Squirrel Hill.

Club Notes

New Swim Rules

Because of the hazards involved, the National Girl Scout camp advisory committee has made swimming at night taboo in scout camps. Additional rules have been laid down that advise swimming during swim periods only, that the water is not entered until the signal is given by the director, that the girls do not swim if their stomachs are "upset," that they swim in pairs, stay in their own swimming area, do not enter the water until at least two hours have elapsed since the last meal and that they must not get chilled or tired.

Special meetings scheduled for next season by the Regent Square Woman's Club are a picnic on September 20; president's day, October 18; guest day, February 21, and the annual luncheon, June 6. The picnic opens the season and the president's meeting immediately follows it. At the regular program meetings the members will hear Dr. Mary E. Coffin speak on "Nerve Waste" carols (at the Christmas meeting); D. I. Vinogradoff speak on "Russia" (at an evening meeting for husbands); Mrs. J. G. Chalfant, who will address the February gathering when the Swissvale Club members will be guests, a book review and a current events discussion. Election is slated for April and the May meeting will be devoted to study of music and birds.

Mrs. R. L. Slocum is next year's president.

Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, new president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, made the Independence Day address at the opening of the Chautauqua Woman's Club, speaking on "I Look at the Book of History." Mrs. Poole is remaining at Chautauqua for several other sessions which she is to address, one talk being on "How We Meet General Depression," and another this morning on "Internationalism—Broadening Our Horizon," and "The World and the Club Look at Each Other," and tonight she is to preside at the conference on "A Balanced Ration." Tomorrow night Mrs. Poole will speak on "Our Little Known Southern Neighbors."

Many Get Places On Wilkinsburg Club Groups

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Now comes the time of year when club activities are notable only in perspective or retrospect, and committee appointments take on a news importance they could not hope to find in midseason.

A long and imposing list of committees will serve the Wilkinsburg Woman's Club next season. Wisely, these are arranged alphabetically in the new year books, the American home leading them all. Mrs. R. C. Beerhower, its chairman, will have Mrs. John Hepburn, Mrs. Leroy W. Cooper, Mrs. W. B. Covil, Jr., and Mrs. W. D. Sleppy as her aides.

Next comes the civic and international relations committee, which is composed of Mrs. J. G. Chalfant, Mrs. John E. Dean and Mrs. A. J. Dawson. On the clubhouse committee are Mrs. S. L. McCurdy, who is still its chairman; Mrs. A. C. Pollock, Mrs. George H. Maver, Mrs. H. T. Aufderheide, Miss Ann Taylor, Mrs. R. T. Kintzing and Mrs. H. H. Sargent.

Finance Group

Mrs. Carl Miller, Mrs. John W. Dixon and Miss Martha Black comprise the finance committee and on the membership committee one finds Mrs. W. J. Martin, Miss Helen Pershing, Mrs. S. H. McKee, Mrs. R. W. Allison and Mrs. H. G. Morgan.

Mrs. J. C. McQuiston heads the committee on philanthropy, of which Mrs. C. D. Armstrong is permanent honorary chairman, its other members being Mrs. C. T. Montgomery, Mrs. Harry A. Walmer, Mrs. F. G. Horrell and Mrs. D. W. Rial. Publicity this year will be looked after by Mrs. J. W. E. Ellenberger, Mrs. W. F. Bremner and Mrs. C. H. Smith, while the very fine program has been compiled by Mrs. Howard K. Jones, Mrs. F. F. Rohrer, Mrs. Lewis E. Young, Mrs. A. L. Schieber, Mrs. Raymond Getter, Mrs. C. W. Wilder and Mrs. J. S. Hooper.

The club's social duties will be discharged by Mrs. T. W. McFadden, Miss Myrtle Tucker, Mrs. William A. Forrester, Mrs. H. D. Hasson and Miss Esther Anawalt.

Kathryn M. Edgar Becomes Bride In Church

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac William Edgar, of Glenshaw, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Kathryn Margaret Edgar, to William Emerson Baldrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Baldrick, of New Kensington, which was solemnized in the Glenshaw Valley Presbyterian Church on Thursday at 6:30 o'clock. The Rev. Elder D. Crawford officiated.

The church was decorated with palms cibotium ferns and standards filled with delphinium and gladiola. The bride, given in mar-

LINEN GLOVES ARE FAVORITES FOR TOWN AND COUNTRY WEAR

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, July 5. — Many of the little accessories designed by Paris for beach wear are being worn in town. Hot weather fills the streets with little pique hats, washable gloves and other informal knick-knacks that at other times appear only at country clubs or southern resorts.

LINEN GLOVES are foremost among the town-and-country favorites. They are made of a coarse linen, in irregular weave. Washable chamois-skin lines the palms, and fits in with the natural-linen-color scheme.

THE MAJORITY of these gloves are on the slip-on type, in 12-button length, and are finished with piping of the fabric at the upper edge. Those in the sketch, from Fauvety, are of this type; others are in single-button style.

THE BAG, which has a touch of the beach in its design, is of strips of leather, in white yellow and blue. A tiny sailboat has sails of galalith, one of which flies about and furnishes a means of holding the bag closed.

THE LITTLE white pique hat in the sketch, from Agnes, suggests the American navy issue hat—slightly altered to give more feminine lines. The turned-up brim is stitched, but is soft and pliable enough to be pulled about and adjusted at many angles. The little cocardes of ribbon at the right are in navy blue.

NAVY BLUE also colors the little tailored sailor, at the right, from Mainbocher. It is in soft milan, banded with white grosgrain.

"KEEP COOL"

is Your Health Authorities' Advice!

To Merchants In Every Business

No matter what your business—no matter how large or small your store—there are General Electric Fans that will aid in winning customers by making your establishment more attractive, cool and comfortable. This new source of profit, and the free service offered by our fan experts, is explained in an interesting booklet, "Organized Ventilation." Write for a complimentary copy, Merchandise Dept., General Electric Company, Bridgeport, Conn.

Buy your General Electric Fans where you see this sign

When you buy your electric fan, look for the G-E monogram . . . "the initials of a friend" . . . and the symbol of the same high efficiency that marks all G-E products.

IT IS EASY to combat heat's discomforts. Set up General Electric Fans at home and in the office. Let the cool, cool, COOL breezes from these efficient, faithful breeze makers refresh and rest you. That sweltering feeling goes. You're comfortable again.

And the cost is trifling. Did you know you could buy a General Electric Fan for as little as $6.50? And that the cost of operation is less than half a penny an hour? It is a fact, too, that the average life of a General Electric Fan is twenty years.

General Electric Fans are skilfully and scientifically designed and manufactured. They give you controlled circulation, an immense and rapid discharge of air or a gentle breeze, as desired. Remember, please, to look for the familiar G-E monogram. It is the sign of better, cooler ventilation; lasting, efficient and economical operation. Step into your G-E dealer's this very day, choose the fans that fit your needs . . . then laugh at the hottest weather.

COURT REPORTS IN BANK CASES

The annual report of J. Wood Clark, clerk of the United States District Court, to the attorney general for the fiscal year ending June 30, records judgments aggregating $186,104.72 entered in actions brought by receivers of national banks in Western Pennsylvania against plaintiffs for stock assessments and other obligations to the banks. The judgments ranged from $500 to $11,000.

Judgments of approximately $12,000,000 were entered in all litigations, including those brought by bank receivers.

Departing Guest Leaves Hand in Hotel Here

It's not so much to forget a slipper, socks or tooth brush when hustling from a hotel room to catch a train, but the man who leaves his hand in a bureau drawer can claim honors with the absent-minded professor. A telegram received by Assistant Manager Edward Ruch, of the William Penn Hotel, requested the immediate forwarding of a hand. It so happened a boil on the guest's arm prevented him wearing his artificial hand, which accounted for it reposing in the room until sought by the urgent telegraphic request.

BOHN RANSOM DEAL HINTED

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 5.—(INS.)—Reports that a secret rendezvous has been kept with the kidnapers of 20-year-old Haskell Bohn were strengthened today by the continued absence of the youth's uncle, William Bohn.

The uncle, it was believed, may have left the city to establish a direct contact with the abductors who have held young Bohn prisoner for six days. It was reported that William Bohn went to a secret meeting place to deliver $5,000 ransom in old currency in compliance with the demands of the kidnapers who reduced the price of their victim's freedom from an original $35,000.

At the family home Gebhard C. Bohn, wealthy refrigerator manufacturer and father of the captive youth, refused to deny or confirm the report that his brother had kept the rendezvous with the kidnapers or their agents. This silence on the father's part lent credence to the belief that the young man will be restored to his family before another sunset.

It's Wrong to Let Mistakes Wreck Your Future

Are you playing with fire?

Do you think it's great sport to go in for gin, and wild parties, and casual "love affairs?"

Betty thought so—once; but she doesn't think so now, for the pay off has come. She has met the one man and fallen in love with him. She realizes now how cheap and tawdry a life she has lived, and she would like to be able to wipe the slate clean. She would like to look back on a blameless, spotless life, but——

"It's too late!" she sobs. "It's been done, and now I can't undo it!"

Are you building a tragedy like that for yourself?

"Dear Sally:

"Please help me, won't you? I am so wretched I don't know what to do.

"Here I am, a girl engaged to be married, and instead of being happy, like I should be, I am terribly unhappy.

"No, it is not the man. He is not causing it. He is a prince, and he is wonderful to me. I worship him, and that is just what is hurting me so fearfully; for when I was in my early 'teens, I guess I was 'wild,' or dumb, or something. I don't know just what. But I went out a lot, and had 'affairs' with a lot of different fellows, and none of them was very nice.

"Now that I am older and about to be married, I worry and worry about the kind of life I have lived. Oh, why, why couldn't I have been sensible, and good, and decent? I don't know. But I do know that I would give anything on earth if I hadn't done the things I did.

WORRIES ABOUT PAST

"I have told my boy friend that I wasn't so good, and he doesn't hold it against me. He told me in reply that he hadn't always been so good himself. Maybe you think that squares things up, but it doesn't.

"When I am alone, I worry so over it all that I don't know what to do. Please help me! Oh, if I had only been different! It's too late to think about that now; but what can I do? Can I ever wipe away that past? Have I a right to marry this man, knowing what I have been? Oh, I am so nervous and miserable I don't know what to do.

"I know there must be a lot of other girls, too, who are like what I was. I hope my story will make them stop and think. I wish something or someone had made me think, before I did the things I did! Please try and tell me something to make me feel better. What'll I do?

MUST FACE FUTURE

"BETTY."

What'll you do, honey? Give yourself a new deal!

You were a silly kid once, and you thought you were smart and modern, and you were going to do as you pleased. Well, there are a lot of people in the same boat, and sooner or later they're going to come up against what you're up against. They're going to ache because of those silly years. They're going to wish they could wipe them out.

They can't be wiped out, Betty; but you can build up new, clean years in the future. You can be a new, clean woman, with new ideals of sense and loyalty and square dealing.

And those new years are what you have to think about now.

Stop looking back! Look forward! Stop worrying, and live the finest kind of life you can. You've made bad mistakes, but it would be wrong to let those mistakes wreck your future.

That future is up to you. It is up to you to make something worth while of it. So here's my hand to you, dear! Let's go!

Flower Shops Are the Gardens of the Great Cities, Fay King Observes

By FAY KING

The flower stores are the gardens of the great cities.

Perhaps nowhere are flowers more appreciated and admired than when they come far from the gardens where they are grown to delight city eyes.

We stop to look into the window of an exclusive florist shop where the rarest blooms are to be seen, in boxes or costly corsages.

We stand a long time before the bargain flower shop where all kinds of flowers are crowded together, in no arrangement to enchance their beauty.

But here we see customers come out with their choice of all the flowers, for all are at prices one can afford.

And as many choose the hardy marigolds as the rarer roses. They are all beautiful! One can hardly choose.

Madge Enlists Services of Harry Underwood

Katie's query, "Vy you no feex it so Meester Noel coom by dinner?" startled me, because it was simply an echo of the question which had been in my own mind ever since Lillian had telephoned, announcing the arrival of Marion, Mary and herself with their guests.

"That's just what I'm going to do, Katie," I said. "Now tell me what you will need in order to carry out this menu?"

She held out her hand and I put the memorandum into it, then poised my pencil for the list of purchases for which she or I must telephone.

"Jem und boys get clams und scallops?" she queried.

"On your way over, Jim," I directed, "stop at the lobster place and order 10 large lobsters."

"How many people cooming to dinner?" Katie queried.

"I'll have to count on my fingers, Katie," I said. "Of course, they all won't be at the table. My father is not feeling particularly well. Mother Graham will be upstairs with the baby. Mrs. Bickett will be in the library with the sick man, and Junior and Roderick will have their dinner earlier, either in the kitchen, or the nursery, because, naturally, this dinner will be too late for them to eat so close to their bedtime. That will leave 12 at the table."

"Und you only get ten lobsters," Katie said in a grieved voice. "Two peoples no haf none; und none for trays I send oop, und Jeem und me, ve like lobsters, too."

"Katie! Katie! Think a minute," I implored. "With steamed clams before, and half a broiled chicken afterwards, would you have the heart to put a whole lobster before each guest?"

Katie giggled appreciatively.

"Ya, I guess I take booby prize," she said. "Haf lobster vill be plenty ef heem beeg. Don't you bring back no babies," she turned to her husband warningly.

"Den," Katie said quickly, "Ve must have four dozen oranges, two dozen lemons and two dozen bottles ginger ale. I got some dose little flower candy mints for after dinner mit coffee, und I make me leetle rolls mine self. I tink I got everything feexed."

"I'll telephone Mrs. Ticer," I said. "I'm sure she can come over and help you."

"I no need her," Katie said a bit sullenly, in the tone she always uses when my neighbor's name is mentioned. "But," she added hastily, lest I take her protest at its face value, "I suppose ef she haf nuddings else to do, she might as well coom over."

"I'll see that she comes, right away," I said, and hurried out of the room, knowing that Katie left alone, would busy herself happily with the details of the dinner.

I went directly to the living room where, as I expected, I found Harry Underwood strictly on the job in my place as errand girl. He was within full view of the library door, so that Katherine had but to open the door and beckon to him if she needed him.

"You told me to call on you if I needed you," I said, as I came up to him.

"Yours to command," he said rising, and making an exaggerated bow to me.

"I want Noel for this dinner tonight," I began, "but—" I stopped, and he finished my sentence with a grin.

"You want him distinctly unattached and unaccompanied," he said. "I don't blame you. Old Phil Veritzen and the Arlen frost and her mamma would be an awful handicap to your dinner. One look at those mascaroed eyelashes that little Avis sports would make me break that there well-known Eighteenth Amendment once again."

"I am glad you feel that way," I said, with a little laugh. "I was afraid perhaps I was prejudiced, but I confess I am at my wits' end how to get Noel here without his father being mortally offended. He already has asked me to invite the Arlens for some social function, and I have had to refuse him."

"And I can imagine the state of his mind if he should find out that you had asked Noel without the rest of the family," Mr. Underwood said. "But the more difficult the task, the more zest it has for me. I'm not going to tell you what I'm going to do, and then you won't be responsible for what happens. Will you trust me?"

Household Hints

Never use a scouring powder on silver, no matter how tempted.

Gum arabic is splendid for stiffening delicate organdies and muslins.

Wet shoes should be stuffed with paper and dried slowly to prevent cracking.

To temper new glass dishes, place them in a saucepan of water to which has been added a little borax, and bring slowly to boiling point. Allow the water to simmer slowly for about 40 minutes, then leave the glass to cool in the water before drying it.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

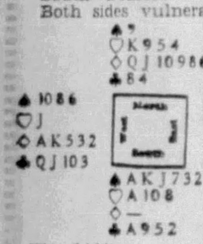
By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Overcalls and Distribution

The first measure of a hand is its honor-trick content. The second factor in its trick-taking possibilities is its distribution. Bids at Contract are designed to convey information as to both qualities. The dangers incident to Overcalls, when vulnerable, have been frequently stressed by me.

A recent mail brought the story from Pittsburgh of a major disaster suffered by a player when his Overcall of an Opening bid was doubled and defeated 1,800, although his bid could not be condemned as very bad.

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ◇ (1)	Double (2)	Pass
Pass	Pass

(1) While West holds 2½ honor-tricks, the Overcall is very doubtful strategy. The hand has a maximum value of 5 playing tricks, which may decrease to 3 with unfavorable distribution.

(2) North, contemplating a "rescue" of his partner's spade bid with his six-card diamond suit, of course doubles.

North opened the singleton spade, which South won with the Knave when a low spade was played from Dummy. Two more rounds of spades followed, North discarding both of his clubs. South now led a small heart, which North won with the King, and a heart was returned, which West won with a trump. The Declarer, hoping against hope for some kind of a break that would reduce the losses, now laid down the diamond King, and learned the worst. He then led a club, which North trumped, and returned a diamond, West winning with the Ace. West was done. He hopelessly led a club, which North trumped, drew his remaining trumps, and then led a heart, which South won with the Ace. South now led a spade, upon which North was able to discard his losing heart.

The penalty for an apparently sound Overcall was 5 undertricks—a total of 1,800 points.

A vivid illustration of the ever-present dangers of unfavorable distribution—the element, however, which adds zest to the bidding and interest to the play.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a two-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope.

TODAY'S QUESTION

South is Dealer.
The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	?

What should North bid, holding:

♠ K 10 8 ♡ 5 4 ◇ A K 9 2 ♣ 10 9 6 2

Answer: Two diamonds. Although the hand contains two Raises for spades, it is better to show the four-card diamond suit on account of its top strength. If partner's hand contains Slam possibilities, this information may later prove very important.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Entertaining

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am employed in a small town where I am practically a stranger and recently I was invited by one of the business girls here to her apartment to a club bridge party. The club is a charity organization and each of us paid a stated sum to cover the expense of the entertainment, and, of course, I was invited as a prospective member of the club.

I am living in a tiny apartment and I would like to know if I should invite this girl in for an evening of bridge. I would, from necessity, have to invite other girls of her set, none of them friends of mine, merely acquaintances. The girls, and especially the one to whose home I was invited, have shown themselves very friendly, but that is the first invitation I have had to associate with them. I do not want to appear over-anxious to get in on their affairs, but I do want to meet them at least half way, as I think they are a group I would like very much.

B.

Please, please, I urge you to take gracious advantage of this fortunate opportunity to take your social place in this community life. This hostess wouldn't have asked you to come, even to a club meeting of this general kind, if she hadn't wanted to show her wish to be hospitable. Especially when you were to be considered as a prospective member of the club.

Glorify your tiny home by making the very most of its opportunities for inviting the girls to share its hospitality with you. I am, of course not at all suggesting that you push your way in . . . I'm just urging, in a most friendly way that you quite naturally "extend your hospitality" and plan return entertainments.

I think your idea for first giving an evening of bridge is a perfect one, easy and delightful to plan for. And do have every detail planned for your apartment in perfect order and with a delightful smile of welcome on its shining face, and too, have your refreshments as original and delicious as you can. There is nothing so stimulating to the hostess as to have "everything ready."

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

The thin girl must get nine hours of sleep every night, willy-nilly. Skinny darlings are over active, don't eat proper food, use up more energy than the body can create comfortably.

When blackheads form on the chest—they're caused by the friction of frocks that should go to the dry cleaner—rub in cold cream for five minutes, then apply turkish towels that have been wrung out of hot water. Repeat every night for a week.

Pat Yourself on the back and say..

"Let's enjoy this sensible food every day!"

When you see Niagara Falls on the package, you KNOW you have Shredded Wheat

"Clever Me! Taking my own good advice! Isn't hard to do, either . . . Always liked Shredded Wheat. Just never realized what a complete meal it makes. Two golden brown biscuits buried in fresh fruit . . . I'm saving money, too!"

MILLIONS are keeping in trim with the help of Shredded Wheat. There's no better all-family food. Easily digested. Generous in its energy elements. It's all the wheat, with just the right amount of bran that Nature provided.

Shredded Wheat costs little. Twelve full-sized biscuits in each package. And it's quickly served in many appetizing ways.

Listen to yourself and try this sensible, every-day treat. At your grocer's, in clubs, hotels, dining-cars and restaurants everywhere.

HOW TO KEEP WELL -:- -:- By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Exercising in Water Helps Cure of Infantile Paralysis

Medical science continually strives to prevent disease and to correct the deformities and handicaps resulting from disease. No better example of this can be shown than the persistent fight of science against infantile paralysis. Though there is still much to be learned, great efforts have been made to gain a more thorough understanding of this disease.

Dr. Copeland

Infantile paralysis is a dreaded disease that often leaves the afflicted person in a crippled and paralyzed condition. A few years ago little help could be given its disabled sufferers, but today science is gradually conquering the crippling and damaging results of infantile paralysis.

Throughout the country hospitals and other institutions are giving special attention to muscle training. By means of this special training it is possible to prevent many deformities and to restore the use of paralyzed limbs. The best results have been obtained by exercising in swimming pools. Exercising under water is easily accomplished and aids in restoring the strength and use of diseased muscles.

It is gratifying to read the amazing reports of the leading authorities on this subject. They claim that systematic exercise in warm water, as in swimming, and other gymnastics are found to be extremely beneficial to these sufferers. These exercises stimulate and improve the poor circulation of the diseased muscles and develop the proper coordination.

Sufferers from infantile paralysis are overjoyed when they find that with little effort they are able to swim and walk in water. In addition to stimulating these weakened muscles, benefit is derived from the improved mental outlook, for often these afflicted individuals suffer great mental depression which aggravates the physical condition.

Many of my readers will wonder why swimming and other exercises in water benefit cases of infantile paralysis. The answer to this is an old principle of physics known as Archimedes' Law. This old and wise Greek discovered that there was a difference between the weight of a man's body on land and under water. This is the real basis for the cure of sufferers of infantile paralysis.

Persons unable to control the movements of their limbs on land find that they can do so in the water, for the water supports nearly all the body's weight and helps the weak muscles in their action. In addition, underwater massage is given to afflicted parts, and special tables are built and placed in the pool for this purpose.

Many individuals have been completely cured of this disabling disease. Others have sufficiently improved to enable them to continue with their work. Unfortunately, many children suffering the effects of this disease have not been given the opportunity of this modern treatment. Delay and neglect are harmful, for prolonged muscular weakness is difficult to overcome.

Answers to Health Queries

L. M. Q.—What causes a black substance like soot in the sputum?

A.—This is probably due to inhalation of dust and its expulsion with the sputum. If you are worried, have the sputum examined to make sure it is not blood.

WOMEN URGED TO JOIN DRIVE TO AID NEEDY

Help in Establishing Cafe and Sewing Establishment Asked to Assist Jobless

Wanted—a group of wealthy and charitable women to support, initiate and direct a downtown cafeteria for working women, to be operated by unemployed.

And wanted — a similar group to back and support a sewing establishment, by which unemployed professional women could get employment and make clothing for women who are in need.

And behind the "wanted" list is Mrs. D. Edwin Miller, head of the women's organization of the Salvation Army. After nine weeks of personal aid work, she has placed nearly 250 men and women in jobs, and has interviewed more than 1,000.

MANY WAIT IN HOPE

Wealthy and charitable women are needed to carry out plans which meet the conclusions she has reached, Mrs. Miller said. One thing is imperative to her, professional women suffering from unemployment must be cared for.

She has on her list, she explained, waiting with patience and hope, many who would make such establishments go.

One is a penniless Sewickley woman, formerly well known in wealthy society circles who, asking for work, told Mrs. Miller,

"I know you will find it easier to find jobs for my servants than for me—but I must work."

LONG LIST IN NEED

Another is a young woman, educated at Wellesley College; another one educated abroad, who has traveled the world; another the former chauffeur of a well-known Pittsburgh family, and his wife. Mrs. Miller says:

"We are running an Aid Bureau, with our objectives keeping women alive. We have succeeded in many cases, but we have many on the list.

"One woman, a secretary to the president of a big drug store chain which merged, lost her life's savings, $17,000, in a bank failure; another a school teacher quit to care for her mother, who has since died; another, for 35 years was a stenographer to a law firm which let her go. She told me:

"'I had given all my surplus to the needy, for I thought that I would never be in want. Now I am!'"

Mrs. Miller says she could point out 1,000 more. She wants help. She wants it in a hurry, for the business and professional women who are jobless need it in a hurry. She asks:

PLANE PERILED BY HORSEMAN

Several passengers were endangered, police reported, when a cabin plane landing at the Bettis-Curtiss airport was forced to rise sharply as a horseman galloped onto the landing field. The plane was ready to settle to the ground when the pilot was forced to life it sharply to avoid striking the horse and man.

Special Policeman Mills Downey arrested the rider, who said he was Rex Meighan, of 1003 Kennedy avenue, Duquesne. Policeman Downey said Meighan was intoxicated and had hired the horse at a neaby riding academy. Meighan was turned over to Police Chief A. C. Livingston of Dravosburg.

Downey said he also intended to report Meighan to the Humane Society because he flogged the horse with a stick.

water. They are expected to crawl around and entertain students of snake nature.

HOW LIKE ourselves, in our unnatural city life. The baker, butcher, milkman bring bread, meat, milk. The employer brings his payroll, the public school brings knowledge, takes charge of the children, the movies bring excitement. The average American, in prosperous times, lives much like the zoo snake, making little mental or physical effort. Someone runs his government. Why should he exert his precious gray matter?

We need a "snake island" for humans to compel useful activity. This depression may supply that island.

IN RUSSIA, five well-carved statues have been found, made from bones of the mammoth by men of the Cro-magnon race, twenty-five thousand years ago.

The mammoth has vanished, and the Cro-magnon, with his well developed head and brain, has gone with him. Many things have happened since they disappeared from earth, and of those happenings thousands have been far worse than the troubles of which we now complain.

Human beings have survived conditions in which war was constant. They have lived through the seven-year war, thirty-year war, hundred-year war, the "black death" and all the plagues from Asia. They will survive this little trouble, based on the fact that WE HAVE TOO MUCH OF EVERYTHING AND DO NOT KNOW HOW TO DISTRIBUTE OUR EXCESS OR KEEP OUR WORKERS PRODUCING.

LONDON BANK rate is lowest in its history, short term loans are made at one per cent. That interests Americans that pay six per cent, and find it hard to borrow, even on good security. In Paris, short loans are made at three-quarters of one per cent.

With us it is a case of temporary remorse. Our high finance dumped American billions into more or less worthless foreign bond issues, dumped other billions into dubious foreign private loans.

There is, temporarily, no inclination to make loans of any kind, abroad or at home. But that will change, as prosperity creeps back, like the melodrama heroine coming home in the snow storm.

By the way, England is doing much better, since leaving the gold basis, and our experts think England may drag us along toward prosperity, in her wake. Queer things happen.

HIGH INTEREST rates, plus high income tax rates, do not help Miss Prosperity's "comeback."

If a business man borrows to start business and employ men, he finds money hard to get, even at high rates. If he loses, all the loss is his. If he wins, the government says:

"Please hand me a little more than half of what you made."

Between interest rates and income tax rates the thoughtful man often decides to let some one else start hiring men. He buys tax exempt securities.

WE CELEBRATE Independence Day, Canada celebrates Dominion Day, commemorating her partial independence, COMPLETE except for a valuable connection with the British Empire.

It is a good thing to have so competent a neighbor on our northern line. Much may be learned from such a neighbor. For instance, banks do not fail in Canada, wrecking thousands financially. Canada has had one or two bank "difficulties," while we have had 12,000 bank failures, and no depositor in Canada lost a dollar. We might learn something there.

The Canadians are not as good customers of ours as they once were. They have reduced purchases from us by 59 per cent within two years, buying, instead, of Britain and her other dominions. Of this we have no complaint to make. Brothers should buy of brothers.

OUR EXPORTS have never equaled more than 10 per cent of our total production, and if everybody in America had what he needs, we should have nothing to export.

It is the business of government to enable Americans to buy all that America can produce, and see to it that Americans buy of Americans, as Canadians buy of Britons.

Any American praising a foreign product as superior to anything produced here does not set a good example, or deserve American success.

RANKIN ARSON SUSPECT HELD

Efforts were to be made today by county detectives to establish the identity of a man held by police at New Orleans, who local sleuths believe is the man they want here in connection with the alleged arson ring held responsible for several fires and blasts in Rankin and Braddock.

A wire from New Orleans yesterday informed local detectives they had arrested Vincent Prati, alias Creto Prati, alias John Simon. Fingerprints of the suspect were sent from Pittsburgh to New Orleans to make certain of the identity.

According to County Detective Chief Murran, Simon, alias Prati, is wanted here in connection with the fires. He will be charged with arson and conspiracy, the detective chief said. Murran said Prati left about two weeks ago when police and detectives began rounding up alleged members of the arson ring.

Marathon Dance Rules to Be Tightened

A general tightening of the rules, cutting down rest periods, is expected to be put into effect at Motor Square Garden, where 14 couples and one solo dancer are still dragging their weary feet over the dance floor. This change is expected to reduce the number still in the contest.

SETS ALTITUDE MARK IN GLIDER

Martin Schemp, Pittsburgh flier, established an unofficial record for glider altitude at the Pittsburgh-Greensburg airport where he gave an exhibition yesterday afternoon. Schemp reached 8,000 feet, according to his meter.

The previous world's record for glider altitude was established in 1929 by Robert Krosfeld, an Austrian, who reached 7,800 feet.

Schemp said that when he was up 7,000 feet he ran into a hailstorm which almost forced him to descend, but he was able to continue higher.

Park to Honor Rainy Day Tickets

School children of the county who have amusement tickets for Kennywood Park will have an opportunity to use them at the "rainy day" picnics to be held at the Park tomorrow and Thursday. The day is set aside for children holding tickets they were unable to use on their picnic days because of rain. Polish parochial schools including St. Hyacinth, St. Josephat and St. Anthony, also will hold their outing at Kennywood tomorrow.

Ready-to-Serve, But Rich in Vital Food Elements

The problem of getting children to eat plenty of nourishing food is more simple than you think. Try this: Don't force them. Short rations for a few days will arouse a keen interest in the most unwilling eater . . . and serve "ZO," the great vitamin cereal, each meal. It actually helps create appetite by supplying necessary elements lacking in the modern diet. It is extra-rich in food values growing children need. Food iron for rosy cheeks! Food lime to build good white teeth and straight sturdy legs! Vitamins B and G from the actual wheat germ to protect health. The whole family will delight in "ZO's" crunchy bits of goodness. Why not try "ZO" for breakfast tomorrow? At your grocer's for only..... 15c

THE DRINK THAT MAKES A PAUSE REFRESHING

THRILLS, MYSTERY :-: N. Y., Scotland Yard Detective Dramas :-: ON THE AIR

Music by Whiteman, Denny, Columbo, Anson Weeks Featured Over WCAE

The air is filled with thrills tonight.

And radio listeners whose favorite programs are crime and detective stories are offered plenty of excitement in two outstanding broadcasts. The first, at 9:30, marks the beginning of the new Crime Club series on WJAS, to continue for a year. Tonight's dramatization is "The Clue of the Clot," one of a group of stories about Chief Inspector Gilmartin, of Scotland Yard.

Then, over WCAE at 10 come complete details of one of the strangest stories in the annals of crime, "The Curse of the Stolen Pearls." It is a real-life drama taken from the New York police department files of the theft of a half-million dollars worth of jewels from a society matron at a New Year's party. Listeners may be able to recognize the voice of Richard Gordon, who is enjoying his vacation from tracking down criminals as Sherlock Holmes by turning the tables and impersonating some of the most notorious scoundrels in underworld history.

Mr. Gordon

The dramatization is a feature of the cigaret hour, with Walter O'Keefe as master of ceremonies and the musical program presented by Anson Weeks and his orchestra, from San Francisco.

Lively music from 11:30 to 1 is WCAE's offering for the dancers tonight. A half-hour of tunes by the Waldorf-Astoria Dance Orchestra—none other than Jack Denny's captivating music—goes on the air at 11:30, followed by an hour of jazz by Paul Whiteman and his orchestra, playing from the Biltmore Cascades. The Woodmansten Inn music of Russ Columbo's orchestra is scheduled for a quarter-hour at 11.

Program Pointers

Irrepressible Ray Perkins introduces a new feature, "The Firing Squad," during his program over an NBC network including WCAE tonight at 7:30. The "squad" will do away with some pest in human form on each program, tonight's nominee for the distinction being the gentleman who calls people on the telephone and makes them guess his name. Perkins also discusses the aftermath of a three-day Fourth of July celebration and contributes songs to the tune of Peter Van Steeden's orchestra.

Ray Perkins

Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit have chosen two new songs as their featured solos on WCAE at 8 p. m. Miss Sanderson sings "By a Rippling Stream," by Bernice Petkere, while Mr. Crumit offers a new comedy song, "You Ought to See Her Now."

"Adagio non troppo," the second movement from Brahms' Second Symphony, is the highlight of the Columbia Symphony Orchestra concert with Howard Barlow conducting, over WJAS at 10:30.

Georgie Price impersonates Kate Smith on WJAS at 7:45.

A special arrangement of "Song of the Bayou" for a vocal trio and Alice Mock's interpretations of Brahms' "Lullaby" are included on the Musical Memories program over KDKA at 9.

Ben Bernie introduces a special Bernie feature, "Anybody's Melody" at 9 over WJAS.

Excerpts from the operatic works of Rossini, Puccini, Verdi and Donizetti are included in an all-Italian program by the Goldman Band over KDKA at 9:30 tonight.

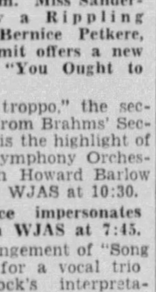
Fan Fare

Adele Vasa, tiny Columbia soprano, may be just this much taller than five feet, but she's established herself in the front ranks of the network singers . . . She's heard frequently on a number of programs, notably the Cathedral Hour . . . Madame Sylvia, beauty expert, says that most of her exercises com from animals . . . Recently she demonstrated, with a baby leopard, how she has adapted the movements of wild animals which, she says, instinctively know how to take care of themselves . . . Phyllis Morton, WCAE star, is recovering rapidly from an operation on her eyes . . . Friends gave her a radio to help while away the long hours.



Miss Vasa

Don Bestor knows how to make time as well as keep it . . . Recently he left Hornell, N. Y., at 3:30 a. m., and arrived in time for a noon program in New York, 400 miles away.

NBC's planning to broadcast a first-hand account of Prof. Auguste Piccard's take-off when he begins his ascent to the stratosphere from Zurich, Switzerland, next week . . .

Believe it or not, in Old Vienna the League of Property Owners has protested against 10-minute morning exercises. They say serious damage has been caused to the houses, some of which are threatened with sudden collapse, because everybody does the exercises at the same time. "At seven o'clock sharp all the houses begin to quiver and shake," the property owners lament.

Seibel Discusses Theater Tonight

George Seibel, dramatic and literary critic of the Sun-Telegraph, chats about plays and stage personalities when he gives his weekly "Plays and Players" talk from WCAE tonight at 7.

Resuming their usual schedule tonight at 6, Uncle Bob and Betty come to the WCAE microphone to read the Sun-Telegraph comic page, providing 15 minutes of delightful chatter and comedy.

The latest news is broadcast four times daily from the editorial rooms of the Sun-Telegraph by Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News. He goes on the air at 9:00 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

Peggy tells Pittsburgh shoppers about the most outstanding bargains of the day during her "Peggy's Tips" talk from WCAE tomorrow morning at 9.

Question Box

Who are the Singing Grocers?—W. F. C., South Side.

They're Frank Parker and Henry Shope, tenors; John Seagle, baritone, and Elliot Shaw, bass. Their accompanist is Lee Montgomery.

TORNADO TOLL MAY GROW

WASHINGTON, Kan., July 5.—(INS.)—The desolate ruins of more than 100 homes and business buildings here today attested to the violence of a tornado which swooped down upon this town during an Independence Day celebration and killed at least three persons.

More than a score were injured, some of them seriously.

Doctors, nurses and ambulances were rushed into the town from neighboring communities, while laborers set to work digging in the debris. It was feared that the death toll may rise as search of the ruins progresses.

Virtually every portion of the town, which has a population of 2,000, felt the fury of the giant twister. The railroad station, the county courthouse and school buildings were demolished.

At about the same hour that the windstorm struck here, another tornado swept a section of Nebraska, killing a woman and injuring her husband and son when their farm home collapsed near Hubbell, Neb.

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear W. W.: Why don't you beat the drum for Eva Tanguay, who is on the West Coast, plenty unhappy? . . . If some of the agents she helped make comfortable would get together and promote a route, it wouldn't be a bad idea . . . Poor Lila Lee just got another sour break . . . Her boy friend, John Farrow, who went to London on business, it appears, has decided on an English girl . . . I tried to check on the George Cukor thing, maybe there's something to it—Ina Claire gets her final from J. Gilbert in August . . . Louis Iskowitz will soon sue Ruggiero Eugenio Rodolpho de Columbo . . . In fewer words, L. Irwin will tell a judge about Russ Columbo . . . That the town is certainly a cemetery with lights, as J. Benny says, can be testified to by that Park Ave. lady's gentleman friends, who miss her since she sailed . . . Every night she would round up about 8 of them, wine and dine 'em, and then pay the check!

The one girl in town now who is being adored more than any other is the very pretty Joan Castle, just in from California. . . .Her favorite escort peddles insurance. . .Eleanor Shaler, the actress, has done a book, show business being what it is. . .Bing Crosby and Lenny Hayton, his piano accompanist, have parted. . . .Things have come to a pretty pass when a stooge sues you—which is what has happened to Ted Healy. . .Mrs. Charles Eagles, who was on the verge of marrying one of the town's most prominent divorce lawyers, suddenly died in Europe. She was worth 30 million, inheriting it from her husband who killed himself four yrs ago in his penthouse here. He was the silk magnate. . .Do something about that officious panhandler near Dave's, will you? . . .He bulldozes the other beggars who happen to be doing the same side of the street. . .Legs Diamond's widow is in one of the Coney sideshows peddling her photos at two bits per.

The Roxy will reopen in three weeks—if . . . If they can promote the names they seek for the "biggest draw" in town . . . Did you know that that house can do $168,000 in a week? . . . Well, it did with "The Cock-Eyed World" flicker . . . That publicity-insane chap was elected from Reuben's again the other night . . . He came there attired in black pajamas and with a gal on each wing . . . As they gave him the air he yelled: "Be sure and tell the columnists who come in here!" and offered his name, which is decorating the bottom of your wicker . . . The RKO'S efficiency expert, who has shaved everybody's wages, has gone to the extreme of eliminating the First-Aid Medical Kit—which costs only a quarter a month to maintain! . . . John Golden has given up his theater on 58th St., and is dickering for one right in the Bright Bulb Belt . . . This is definite, so go ahead . . . J. P. McEvoy, who just got his divorce, is on the verge again.

Clarence Brown, the director, is no chump . . . Before he sailed he boxed 50 Gs in currency, in case—and now when he gets back he won't be as poor as many of his friends are since that bank caved out there . . . A friend of Jess Willard's was in—with a message of thanks from the one-time champ. Seems that your piece at least discouraged the touch-artists and sharpshooters, who now let him alone . . . Also he has received a number of donations from friends all over the country, which, he says, he is returning, as he isn't that desperate . . . Here's one hard to believe: I was gabbing with an undertaker and I remarked that his business was one the depression couldn't hurt . . . "Oh, no?" he said, "you'd be surprised! People just don't die any more—and the kin of those who do just won't show off with fancy funerals" . . . Incidentally, a man who got rich manufacturing confetti, toy horns, balloons and other devices for celebrating joyous occasions went bankrupt last week. Write your own gag to that . . . Everything in Luna Park has been repainted this season, except the performers' dressing rooms. Go ahead, get indignant.

The male chorus of "Show Boat" now offers college students who discovered that the word of most banking houses is as good as their bonds. . .They are Archie Thomson, of Princeton, and Richard McAllister, of Yale, the latter comes from a wealthy old Georgia tribe. . .You were wondering about new places to go to. . .Well, there's the Vagabonds' Club in Greenwich Village, a pretty and artistic place, thronged nightly by hundreds of handsome young men and women—and no booze. . . The head of the Vagabonds' is plump and stuttering Joe Vallon, who firmly believes he is the reincarnation of Francois Villon, the famous French gangster poet. . .But Joe's family in the Bronx shrug their shoulders and titter when you bring that up . . .The wholesale house-cleaning up at the Paramount ad dep't is nearly over, the old regime going out like a light. . . Sir Victor Sassoon took back to England some movies of Hollywood celebs (which he took himself) and which certainly would take a lot of theaters out of the red, if shown.

For the first time in her career, Barbara Stanwyck will sing in her next Warner flicker—"Night Flower" . . . The composer of the ditty is only 22—from Vienna, and when he was 16 he wrote his first musical which was a hit there . . . Did you hear anything about Agnes O'Laughlin planning an elopement? With H. Thomas, the Universal radio scribbler? . . . The Palace tried to get Holtz for 6 Gs a week, but Chevalier will be the opposition that week at the Paramount—and that's too much opposition . . . Here's an observation: One of the smarter salons for milady's frocks makes the models walk around (between customers) with books on their heads! . . . No, they're not crazy—that's the way they are trained for correct carriage . . . Charles Francis Sharpe, of Tuxedo Park, who was injured while rehearsing with the Cornell varsity crew, is recuperating fast because Kathleen Vanney of "Face the Music" admits she cares . . . Jack LaRue is trying to get Sari Maritza to listen to reason.

A new mag called "National Spotlight" is out . . . for only one issue. . . . If it clicks—it will be continued. . . . When Edith Fitzgerald, the author, went to Havana for a holiday, she threw a party and hired a 10-piece girl orchestra to entertain. . . . Five of the gals came to the party accompanied by boy friends! . . . Heard another recipe: Two-thirds applejack or southern mule; one-third gin, lime juice, dash of Angostura bitters, sweeten to taste, frappe vigorously—drink two of them, and then summon the fire department! . . . "Phosh" Howard's gag is good—a fellow who had a lot of luck with women recently stubbed his toe plenty when he tried to win a certain party. She had heard of his irresistible ways and decided to chill him. When he got the ice he sulked and urged her to like him . . . "No," she said, "I've heard all about you and your affairs, and about all the women you've won. Do you expect to win all the time? Who do you think you are—the Athletics?" . . . Mr. Swain, Jerry's ex-editor, says you were maliciously misinformed. He argues that he fired Jerry for several reasons, and the McNamee piece had nothing to do with it.

Idyll of Paris In Cinema Is Charming

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Maybe the French wanted to show that they could put out something just as infectious as "Zwei Herzen im ¾ Takt," so they produced "Sous les Toits de Paris," which is to be seen and heard at the Avenue Cinema this week. And artistically they have won a battle, for "Under the Roofs of Paris" is about as artistic a film as has ever been put together anywhere. It is a love-story of the slums, with two friends who settle their rivalries most of the time with the dice, and a little girl who happens to please the bully of the quartier just as much as she attracts these two pals.

Mr. Seibel

How this little Pola swings like a pendulum between one and the other, how she starts miniature vendettas in those mean streets, how she loses her key and finds a lover—all this makes a delicious idyll, although the surroundings are anything but idyllic. It all takes place in one of those quarters of Paris like the Innocents or Montmartre where there is nothing but atmosphere and plenty of that. And that atmosphere is about as real as it can be—from the rats and dogs to the street crowds to whom the hero sings and sells his ballads.

This is a fine film—and a very little French will give you all the relish—and to appreciate the very fine acting you do not need any French at all.

Among the short pieces there is a very thrilling series of Boulder Dam pictures, and a colored Mack Sennett fishing comedy that isn't machine-made nor sexy and silly.

Homewood Post Will Hear Evans

Assistant United States Attorney Raymond D. Evans, a member of East Liberty Post No. 5, American Legion, will address members of Homewood Post No. 351, tomorrow night at a post meeting at 7216 Kelly street. He will discuss "Narcotics." Homewood Post is sponsoring a stag picnic and athletic meet Saturday, July 23, at Silver Springs.

Wife Hears Shot, Finds Husband Dead

Rushing to the basement of her home when she heard a shot, Mrs. Lena Dallaba, of 525 Pacific avenue, Forest Hills, found the body of her husband, Angelo, 37, and a . . . gun by his side. The case was reported to the coroner as a suicide.

Dix to Star In French Play

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, July 5. If R.-K.-O. scenarists can make a suitable adaptation, Richard Dix will be starred in a French play called "The Ace." In pursuance of its new policy, the studio has bought an option on this melodrama by Yvan Noe, Blance Alex and Charles Toldleau.

One of the star's most popular pictures was "The Lost Squadron." R.-K.-O. is anxious for him to follow up in another air story.

Richard Dix

Before this, however, he must do "The Conquerors," which will be another early American epic on the order of "Cimarron." Co-starring in this picture will be Ann Harding—that is, if she can be persuaded to play the part. I say persuaded, though, of course, R.-K.-O. has the right to make her do it if it wants to. Ann's contract does not give her the choice of her stories.

BOULEVARD TALK

The career of Mae Clarke as a Universal star is finished. Ill for several months, Mae's contract has not been taken up by the Carl Laemmle organization. Charlie Chaplin hasn't been to his studio once since his return from his world tour. For the moment, the comedian is busy on the 50,000-word account of his travels he is writing for a national magazine.

The object of Douglas Fairbanks' trip to New Mexico and Arizona is to purchase an old bar from one of the historical saloons in the cattle country. He wants to match it up with his Remington and Charles Russell paintings.

Hollywood is inclined to discount reports that Ruth Chatterton is seeking a divorce to marry George Brent. The gentleman in question seems to be more attentive to Loretta Young.

Ruth Chatterton

When Greta Garbo finished her last picture at M-G-M, she gave presents to all members of the technical crew. In gratitude they got up a scroll with all their names signed to it. One of the men was assigned to deliver it to the star.

The only hitch was, they neglected to warn Greta. When the man arrived, he found the gate locked. And when he jumped over the hedge, a dog chased him out.

He had to be content with leaving the scroll.

The other man in Cecil B. De Mille's religious drama, "The Sign of the Cross," will be Ian Keith. He was signed to a contract along with Elissa Landi, who is the final choice for the Christian girl.

Zionists to Send 8 Delegates to Geneva

PHILADELPHIA, July 5.—(AP.)—The Zionists' Organization of America in annual convention yesterday voted to send eight delegates to the world Jewish conference in Geneva and elected officers.

Morris Rothenberg, of New York, chairman of the administrative committee of the American section, Jewish Agency, was elected president. Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, of New York, made an impassioned plea for Jewish solidarity in promoting the formation of a World Jewish congress.

Westward

Ann Harding has another starring vehicle in "Westward Passage," coming Friday to the Warner screen.

Strange

Wynne Gibson takes the stand in "The Strange Case of Clara Deane," opening in the Fulton, Thursday.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

One summer theater that will attract the attention of many Pittsburgh residents is that at Chautauqua, where numerous cottages are owned and occupied by residents of this city. This noted resort, which has the population of a good-sized city in the summer, and numerous cultural features, will operate the theater both for entertainment and as part of its educational course. Beginning Thursday of this week, plays will be presented twice weekly by the Cleveland Players. Stanley Haughton's "Hindle Wakes" will be the first play and its second performance for the week will be given Saturday night. Ibsen's "Hedda Gabbler" will be played next week. The plays will be staged in Norton Memorial Hall. On "big days" Chautauqua attracts as many as 50,000 persons. The permanent summer population averages 15,000, so the plays should draw well, especially as they attract residents of other summer resorts around Chautauqua Lake.

Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne have ended their run of "Reunion In Vienna" in New York that began immediately after their appearance in this play in Pittsburgh last fall. It is probable they will return in it, as they plan to tour in the Sherwood comedy next fall. Their departure leaves but 10 shows on Broadway, three of them "sell-outs." These are "Of Thee I Sing," and "Show Boat," both musical, and "Another Language," non-musical.

Beverly Bayne, once a screen idol as co-star with Frances X. Bushman, is to have the leading role in a play called "Gold Coast" . . . Clemence Dane has cabled Katharine Cornell that she has completed her play about the Bronte sisters, which Miss Cornell will produce later. It was in a play by Miss Dane, "A Bill of Divorcement," that Miss Cornell made her first hit . . . Leading woman for George M. Cohan in his first talkie, "The Phantom President," will be Claudette Colbert.

Jean Harlow, Bern Defer Honeymoon

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 5—(AP.)—In common with numerous film personages who are too busy with pictures for an immediate honeymoon when they marry, Jean Harlow and Paul Bern have announced they will have their wedding trip next fall.

The screen's platinum blonde actress and Bern, an executive, were married Saturday night.

Caught in Bonfire Flames, Cripple Dies

M-G-M Looks To Coming Season

NEW YORK, July 5.

With the largest number of stars in the company's history assembled for the coming season, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer announces that 37 of 48 feature productions planned for 1932-33 will be starring or co-starring vehicles. These will be supplemented by 11 other feature releases, and 89 short subjects, as well as two issues weekly of Hearst Metrotone News.

Eighteen names appear on the company's roster of stars. Many of these have been on the same lot for several years, but others, such as Clark Gable, Robert Montgomery, Jackie Cooper, Helen Hayes and Jimmy Durante, reached top screen ranking as a result of their achievements of the past year.

LIST OF STARS

The list of stars, all of whom will appear in at least two vehicles, include Marion Davies, Joan Crawford, Norma Shearer, Marie Dressler, Clark Gable, Helen Hayes, Ramon Novarro, William Haines, Wallace Beery, Jackie Cooper and Robert Montgomery. John Gilbert, John Barrymore and Lionel Barrymore will appear together in a picture, as will Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery. Buster Keaton and Jimmy Durante will be co-starred in two comedies, and Laurel and Hardy will make two full-length co-starring comedies.

"Grand Hotel," all-star production, now entering its fourth month in the Astor Theater here, and "Strange Interlude," adapted from Eugene O'Neill's play with Norma Shearer and Clark Gable in leading roles, are outstanding special releases included in the new season lineup. There will be four Cosmopolitan productions, featuring leading names, and one foreign film, "The Outsider," produced in England and directed by Harry Lachman.

HAVE PRIZE PLAYS

"The Good Earth," which was awarded the Pulitzer prize as the best work of fiction of the past year, and which Owen Davis has dramatized for the Theater Guild, and "Reunion in Vienna," which has just been given the Megrue prize as the best comedy produced on the New York stage during the past season, are included in the varied list.

Among leading literary works which will be transferred to the screen on the new season schedule are W. Somerset Maugham's "The Painted Veil;" "The Bugle Sounds," by Maj. Zinovi Pechkoff; Peter Freuchen's "Eskimo," now being produced in the Arctic; "The Education of a Princess," by Grand Duchess Marie of Russia; "Rasputin," from the story about Russia's famous "Black Monk" by Alfred Henschke Klabund, and "The Sun of St. Moritz," from Paul Oskar Hocker's German novel.

Prominent dramatic properties which will reach the screen as part of the new M-G-M program include "La Tendresse," an adaptation of Henry Bataille's play; "Candlelight," an adaptation of the "Siegfried Geyer-P. G. Wodehouse comedy; "Felix," from the play by Henry Bernstein; "The Devil Passes," the Benn W. Levy play, and "Turn to the Right," based on the comedy by Winchell Smith and J. E. Hazzard.

NEW TARZAN PICTURE

Among other stories which will assume an important place on the new season product line-up are "The Marines Have Landed;" "Mexico," an original story by Laurence Stallings; "Salute," an original scenario by Frederick Lonsdale, and "Tarzan and His Mate," a new Edgar Rice Burroughs story for Johnny Weissmuller.

The short feature schedule includes such established favorites as the Hal Roach "Our Gang," Laurel-Hardy, Pitts-Todd, and Charley Chase comedies, Flip the Frog cartoons, FitzPatrick Travel-talks and Sport Champions.

BITS OF LIFE

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

THEY TELL me it actually happened in a nearby prison a few weeks ago. An inmate, who was about 40 years of age and who had been doing time in various jails for at least half that period, was wailing about a toothache. The dentist visited this prison but once a week, and you can readily understand that the stir bug did plenty of yelling in the meantime.

"It ain't human," he cried to anyone who would listen. "There oughta be a dentist here all the time instead of once a week. Look at the sufferin' I'm goin' through without nobody carin' whether I live or die. It ain't human, I tell you. Ouch! There goes that pain again. I feel like I'm gonna die!"

By the time the dentist finally arrived, our hero's face was so swelled that it bore a first-class resemblance to a balloon. The line began to form, and the complaining prisoner forced his way to the very head.

"The way I feel," he growled, "I'm ready to moider the foist guy that tries to get into the chair ahead of me. Watch out, you guys. Because I mean what I say."

The poor mug is a trifle cracked anyhow, so the other prisoners failed to argue with him. When the dentist walked in the inmate fell into the chair.

"Doc," he groaned, "get busy right away, will you? Pull the tooth out quick. I'm almost dyin' with the pain."

The dentist nodded.

"Steady, my man," he returned. "Everything will be done in due time. Open your mouth."

The squawking gentleman did as he was told. The dentist poked around for a few seconds and then stepped back.

"Which is the tooth that hurts you?" he asked.

The prisoner seemed highly amazed.

"What's that you said?" he asked.

"I said," repeated the dentist, "that I wanted you to tell me which tooth was hurting you?"

The man in the chair sat suddenly erect and looked around at the other prisoners with a hurt expression.

"What a joint," he howled. "Did you mugs hear the question he asked me? It ain't bad enough I'm sufferin' like crazy all week. Now this dirty heel wants to make a squealer out of me!" . . .

OUT IN the Middle West, reports R. H. Wendt, there is a small railroad line that we will call the Yipswitch and Spodunk. What with the depression and such, the line announced its intention of chopping off its service to Hickstown, a town of some 1,500 inhabitants.

When the good townspeople of Hickstown heard the sad news, there was excitement galore. They protested to the Mayor, the Chamber of Commerce and to each other.

"What's going to become of our city?" they cried. "If that railroad service is terminated, we'll be wiped off the map. The Yipswitch and Spodunk can't do this to us. They must be made to reconsider. We must have our railroad service."

So vigorous did the squawk become that a hearing on the subject was negotiated with the railroad. The line was very square about it. They promised that, should sufficient evidence be presented to warrant the continuance of the services and if enough customers would agree to ride upon the trains, the abandonment program would be forgotten.

After several attempts to set a date and spot for the hearing, it was finally agreed that a committee from Hickstown would meet the railroad officials in a city that was about two hours away on the same line. They would all meet at 2 o'clock the following Monday.

The appointed hour arrived, and the representatives of the Yipswitch and Spodunk were patiently awaiting the committee from Hickstown. Three o'clock, and no sign of the Hickstown complainants. When 4 o'clock came and went, the railroad men reached the conclusion that the Hickstown committee had changed its mind about protesting the loss of service and had remained at home.

Just as they were making preparations to depart, a telegram was received from the Hickstown committee.

"Sorry that we are late," it read. "Will arrive in an hour. The bus we hired broke down."

"I TOLD a race track mug of my acquaintance to save some money for a rainy day," writes Ed Hommel, "and he promised that he would. And then what do you think the dope did? He bet his last quarter on a mud horse!" . . .

Y Health Director Cites Swim Rules

There are five things to learn if you intend to swim this summer, according to W. T. Rowe, director of physical education at the Y. M. C. A., who believes the increased number of outdoor pools in Western Pennsylvania has given an impetus to swimming in this district.

The fundamentals are: Gain confidence in yourself, learn to relax in the water, learn to breathe properly, overcome fear and learn to float your body in the water.

PITT STANDARD TO BE UPHELD

The University of Pittsburgh, Chancellor John G. Bowman said, will continue to "weed-out" the incapable student and will not lower the entrance requirements, although a 25 per cent less enrollment is expected this fall. Chancellor Bowman declared:

"If anything, the entrance requirements will be more strict. Only students from the upper three-fifths of their respective high school graduating class are recognized and students from outside of the state are particularly not encouraged to enroll. Pitt's purpose is to serve the people of Western Pennsylvania."

Chancellor Bowman further explained the university's stand saying:

"We are expecting a 25 per cent reduction in the student body because of existing circumstances, but the incapable student will be 'weeded out' the same as ever."

Morrow Honored By Plaque in Mexico

MEXICO City, July 5.—(AP.)—A group of Mexican friends of the late Dwight W. Morrow last night presented a plaque honoring him to the United States in an Independence Day reception. The donors included Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, President Ortiz Rubio and Javier Sanchez Mejorada, president of the National Railways, who made the presentation address.

Right to Select Home Given Wife

REGINA, Sask., July 5.—(AP.)—The right of a wife to decide where she shall live is officially recognized in Saskatchewan's back-to-the-land movement. The government, taking no chances on wives refusing to reside on land chosen by their husbands, has ruled that both the husband and wife must see and approve before a land grant is made.

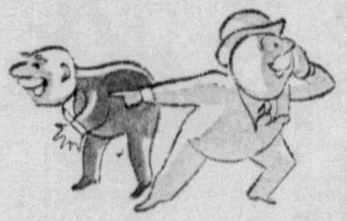
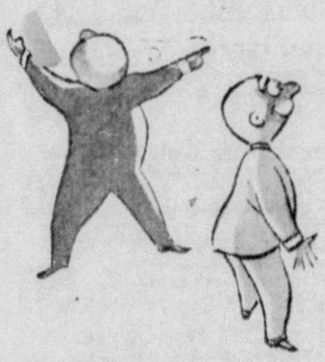
SALE! 12,000 Ide Shirts

All Snow-White Sanforized 2x1 Broadcloth

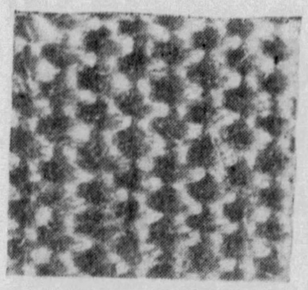
1.09 6 for 6.25





Geo. P. Ide is the name, gentlemen. "Ide," for generations associated with the best in shirtmaking. How we got these Ide shirts to sell for 1.09 is the supreme mystery of a shirt year crammed full of surprises. But get them we did—and the price will rock plenty of bureau drawers when we place them on sale Wednesday.

Highest Quality Workmanship!
All Sanforized Shrunk!
All 2x1 Broadcloths!



Study this photograph. It shows a section of the fabric enlarged 30 times under the microscope by the Kaufmann's Fellowship at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research. Note the sturdy weave of this 2x1 broadcloth—that's why it wears so well. Note, too, their natural "breathing" space—that's why they're so cool.

They're made the way Kaufmann insists upon—full cut, correctly proportioned, properly balanced. The Sanforizing process pre-shrinks them, preserves their lustre. Take our advice and buy plenty of Geo. P. Ide shirts for 1.09.

Judging of Coach Models Submitted By Boys Begun

LEGISLATURE TO RENEW ECONOMY DRIVE TONIGHT

HANDICRAFT ON DISPLAY AT TECH

Many in State Vie For Valuable Prizes Offered For Best Carriage Models

The judging of miniature Napoleonic coach models, in which Pennsylvania boys are among the 350,000 competitors in the United States and Canada, began today.

Pennsylvania entries in the present year's competition, the Guild's second year, under the local sponsorship of The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, are being displayed and judged in the Carnegie Institute of Technology, where throngs of boys from all over the state are directing their steps to inspect the rival models and watch the judges at work.

MANY CITIES ENTERED

Entries from this state total over 180. And there are 31 other similar events, in cities throughout the United States and Canada. States in some sections have been grouped, for purposes of the judging, to insure the leisurely measurement of each entry, essential in a competition of the sort.

At the outset of the year, each boy enrolling in the Guild was furnished free a set of plans and color plates giving detailed instruction on how to build the coach, which is a scale model of Napoleon's royal carriage and a decidedly complex project in handicraft. It involves a high degree of skill in several different lines of work—with woods, metals, leather, fabrics and even glass. To finish an even average model, a boy must have perseverance far beyond the ordinary, and the visito. to the exhibit is inclined to the view that no average models are there. Every one of the entries looks like a winner, and yet with the award plan as it is, elimination must be made.

VALUABLE PRIZES

This is accomplished by applying numerous templates, gauges and calipers to some 230 different measurements of each model, checking the variance from standard and recording the result. Three men are at work on the judging which they are scheduled to complete the evening of July 19, when the state awards are to be announced. These include 20 purses of gold ranging from $15 to $100, and two trips to the second annual Guild convention in Detroit next month.

$50 in Prizes Weekly for News Tips

Are you alert? Do you wish to make your alertness pay? The Sun-Telegraph is presenting the opportunity. Every week it is offering a total of $50 in prizes for NEWS TIPS telephoned to the News-Tips Editor, Grant 6500.

If you know of an accident, of a business merger, of a big building project—that is NEWS. Watch especially for unusual stories about children and animals and for stories that lend themselves to interesting pictures.

For the best exclusive news tip of the week $15.00 will be given; for the second best, $10.00, and for the next 25 best, $1.00 each.

PHONE NEWS-TIP EDITOR, GRANT 6500.

50 BILLS READY FOR ACTION IN ASSEMBLY

Plan to Cut Appropriations, Let Pinchot Slash Salaries; May Start Ainey Probe

HARRISBURG, July 5.—(AP.)—The task of reducing state appropriations by $27,000,000 to provide unemployment relief funds confronted Pennsylvania's legislators as they gathered today for the second week of the special session.

Fifty bills, covering this economy program, are ready for introduction when the Assembly reconvenes at 9 o'clock tonight (Pittsburgh time).

Leaders expressed the belief that the Legislature would confine itself to reducing departmental appropriations and leave to Gov. Pinchot and the department heads the job of cutting salaries and personnel to conform with the lower appropriations.

MAY ABOLISH BOARDS

Under such a plan other Assembly economy measures probably will provide for reducing the pay of legislators and judges, with the possibility that measures calling for abolition of the Greater Pennsylvania Council and the State Aeronautics Commission may also be introduced.

Leaders of the economy drive hope to add to the $27,000,000, saving some $23,000,000 from a pending federal relief bill, and allocate from this total of $50,000,000 the sum of $24,000,000 for direct relief, $12,000,000 for budget balancing and restoration of appropriations abated by the Talbot act, and $14,000,000 for road building.

The legislators also awaited the Socialist-sponsored "bread caravan" scheduled to march on the Capital tomorrow. The marchers plan to demand "bread, jobs and security" and to urge the adoption of an "adequate relief program" including three measures sponsored by Socialist legislators.

A committee to supervise the march was named at the closing session in Reading yesterday of the annual state convention of the Socialist party.

WILL MERGE PLANS

In the House, where the "harmony and economy" programs will be melted into a single plan or made the center of factional disputes, a session of inaction seems probable for tonight. The introduction of the new bills and financial reports is the major item of scheduled business. Only one bill, that appropriating $363,000 for the expenses of the session, is slated for final action and only one, empowering municipalities and school districts to borrow against uncollected taxes, is on the second reading calendar.

Scores of others, including those in the Pinchot-Republican organization program, are still in committee.

The Senate will be in position to act finally on four bills. The measures authorize municipalities and school districts to borrow against uncollected taxes; permit payment of municipal water rents and taxes in monthly installments; permit the banking department to pledge assets of closed banks for loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and make possible similar action in the case of building and loan companies.

FIRE DAMAGES 3 BUILDINGS

Damage estimated at $5,000 was caused by a blaze in the residence of Charles Cuda, 224 Alpine street, early yesterday. Gasoline was found in the basement, and the first floor was soaked with the fluid, police and firemen reported. Cuda and his family went to Buffalo Saturday, police said they learned. Their return is expected today.

A blaze damaged the plant of the J. & J. B. Millholland Company Mine and Mill Supplies Company, a three-story building at Shingiss and Watson streets, last night. Deputy Fire Chief Frank Jones estimated the damage at $4,000. The fire was confined to a storage room on the third floor. Police established lines to confine the crowd the blaze attracted.

A rubbish heap was blamed for a blaze which last night damaged a vacant three-story brick building at 706 Wylie avenue. Damage was estimated at $100.

Two Youths Held In Target Shooting

Two Knoxville youths were to be arraigned in South Side Police Court today in connection with the shooting yesterday afternoon of Frank Klinzing, 25, of 142 Charles street, as he was repairing an automobile in his garage.

The youths, John Beck, 21, of 109 Rochelle street, and Tony Cancillo, 21, of 65 Amanda street, told police they were shooting at a target in the rear of Beck's home.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

NOWATA, Okla., July 5.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

The Democratic convention was a victory of the country boys over the city slickers. New York and Chicago went there thinking that on account of being uninstructed, Tammany was no more for Smith than Smith is for Tammany. Well, they thought they would be in a position to stop Roosevelt, sell out to the highest bidder and go home driving the band wagon.

Will Rogers

Great idea. All that went wrong with it was that the old orange squeezers from California thought of it first, sold out and were on their way west with the loot before New York and Chicago could get their cards marked. It was a lesson in rural politics. Yours,

WILL.

FT. NECESSITY DEDICATED IN RAIN

Thousands at Shrine Of Washington In Fayette

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 5.—Two great nations, France and Great Britain, joined in the celebration of American Independence Day and commemoration of George Washington's battle of Fort Necessity near here yesterday.

Spectators fought a losing battle with the elements as the "father of our country" must have done with the overwhelming force of French and Indians making this day doubly important in national history.

A two-day celebration commemorating the event and dedicating the rebuilt fort and museum came to an expected close last night in a sudden downpour of rain which scattered the crowds. In the natural outdoor amphitheater, named by Washington as the Great Meadows, the pageant and songfest in which more than 600 persons were to have taken part was called off at the last moment and postponed until later this month, when it will be held in the auditorium of Mountain Lake Park, Md.

HUGE THRONGS

Huge throngs paid homage at the Fort Necessity Shrine all Sunday and yesterday. They came from many states, and many places far distant. A steady stream of automobiles poured east and west over the National Pike.

Official estimates of the crowds vary from 5,000 to 15,000 Sunday and yesterday, yesterday's crowd being the greatest by far.

For five hours yesterday and last night traffic moved over the highways at a snail's pace, one of the greatest traffic jams in the history of the state arising out of the celebration.

Fifty state highway patrolmen kept the traffic moving.

State troopers took charge of the crowds at Fort Necessity.

Rain turned the Great Meadows into sloshy mudpuddles. Several times it was feared the program would have to be abandoned, but it was completed about 8 o'clock.

The outstanding participants of the day were Col. Fitzmaurice Day, British military attache; Maj. Emmanuel Lombard, of the French Legation; Maj. Gen. Paul Malone, commander of the Third Corps area, United States Army, and former Gov. John S. Fisher. It was the first time in history that a British officer in uniform had attended in official capacity a celebration commemorating American independence. Col. Day in his address said:

"We are making history once again and it is my great honor to represent the British governmen on this occasion which commemorates a wartime engagement of the Father of your country who began his military career under the flag of my nation."

A rather unique and fitting ceremony was revived for the occasion yesterday. Nineteen World War veterans received the official War Department declorations, the "Order of the Purple Heart," founded by George Washington. Not a single decoration had been awarded since Washington's time. Nineteen World War veterans cited for meritorious service under fire received the decorations from the hands of Gen. Malone.

The dedicatory addresses were made appropriately enough Sunday afternoon, more than a dozen plaques and memorials being presented officially at this time. Representatives of the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution, the Daughters of 1812, the American Legion and other patriotic organizations took leading parts in the ceremonies. The main program of dedication was under the auspices of the local chapter, Sons of the American Revolution.

The fort was rebuilt and the site made possible as a natural historic shrine by the Fort Necessity Memorial Association, affiliated with the Washington bicentennial commission. Dr. W. Blake Hindman was general chairman.

James M. Hill, Rail Magnate's Son, Dies

NEW YORK, July 5.—(AP.)—James Norman Hill, 62, son of the late James J. Hill, the transportation magnate, and himself a bank and railroad director died yesterday at his Long Island estate. He had been in poor health for weeks.

FOUR ARRESTED AFTER FIRE

David Gusky, 62; his wife, Esther, 47, and his sons, Albert, 25, and Ellis, 17, were arrested early today and lodged in Central Police Station in connection with a fire which, early Sunday, damaged their home, 3028 Preble avenue, according to police.

On the first floor of the building Gusky has conducted a haberdashery for six months. The family resides on the second and third floors.

The front door of the building was crashed by police who noticed the flames. Inside the building, near a stairway leading to the second floor, they said they found three candles burning over a box containing celluloid chips. Police said another fire was burning on the second floor. Damage to the building was estimated at $10,000 by firemen.

The Gusky family, neighbors said, were away for the week-end. Upon their return, early today from Cambridge Springs, they were arrested.

2 Firemen Hurt At Burgettstown

Two firemen were injured slightly during a blaze which destroyed the New York department store, at Teenan and Main streets, Burgettstown, early Sunday. Volunteer Firemen Charles Westlake, 42, suffered a leg injury when he fell from a ladder and George Hannan, 40, was cut about the face and hands by flying glass.

COSTUMED FOLK DANCERS, ATHLETES, MUSICIANS, SPEAKERS WHO TOOK PART IN THE PAGEANTRY OF MANY LANDS . . . . . THE MORNING-UNTIL-NIGHT ALL-NATIONS' FESTIVAL ON FOUR "STAGES" IN PITTSBURGH'S SCHENLEY PARK

DISTRICT FETES DRAW THRONGS ON FOURTH

Pageants, Folk Songs, Patriotic Spirit Mark Nation's 156th Birthday

Chilly weather, low-hanging clouds and occasional downpours of rain yesterday failed to dampen the patriotic spirit of Pittsburghers who joined in celebrating the one hundred and fifty-sixth anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. In many respects the programs surpassed any held in the city since the days of the World War.

Hundreds of men, women and children of foreign parentage or European birth presented the dances, gymnastics and music of their ancestral lands and attracted thousands of Independence Day celebrants to Schenley and West parks yesterday.

ALL NATIONS FETE

It was the All-Nations Festival and lasted all day.

German exponents of Calisthenics, Scotch bagpipers, Bohemian pyramid makers and Hungarian chardash dancers, Syrian musicians—these and many more presented a three ring party during the afternoon.

The Homewood Legion drum and bugle corps started the festivities with a military flag raising in Schenley Oval in the morning. Intermittent rains chased the performers and spectators to cover, but only for short periods.

To music by Danny Nirella's band, the German Turner Society, Polish Falcons, Czech Sokols, Scot band, and children from the Holy Family orphanage gave the morning program on the oval.

The Ukrainian choir, tennis tournament, Syrian Caravan, Welsh singers, Polish dancers and band concert formed the afternoon program at the bandstand, while an operetta, play hour, Indian ceremonial and first aid demonstration by Boy Scouts were given at the merry-go-round. On Flagstaff Hill, the Lithuanian choral, Hungarian brass band, German singing societies and Hungarian music and dancing, and Italian dances made up the list.

STAGE PAGEANTS

The George Washington pageant, band concert and singing formed last night's program.

Athletic contests and patriotic addresses featured the celebration under auspices of the Soho Community Association in the Soho district. The program was opened by a parade. The Playground Vacation School Association of Allegheny held its "safe and sane" celebration in West Park, and a drill by the drum and bugle corps of Boy Scout Troop 227, Brookline, and a polo game were the attractions in South Park.

A street dance was sponsored in the Twenty-seventh Ward by the District Board of Trade, and the West End Board of Trade held its thirtieth annual picnic in West End Park. The South Hills American Legion directed an outing in the Mt. Lebanon Township Park, sponsored by the Mt. Lebanon civic organizations, the borough council and volunteer firemen sponsored an outing in Brentwood Park, and a program of various events in Crafton School Athletic Field was sponsored by the Crafton-Ingram Civic Association.

BAND CONCERTS

The Baptist Ministers' Conference of the Pittsburgh district held its annual outing at Mt. Rise Park, New Homestead, and the Borough Playground Assocation of Wilmerding sponsored a horseshoe pitching contest in Westinghouse Airbrake Park.

In the evening concerts were given by the One Hundred and Seventh Field Artillery Band at North Park, and the One Hundred and Seventy-sixth Field Artillery Band in South Park. At the same time the Allegheny County Committee of the American Legion and the Y. M. C. A. presented an international pageant at Forbes Field.

"KEEP that under your hat," said the cigarette trade when first we raised the question—"Do you inhale?"

But silence is golden only when it's unwise to speak. Let others explain their striking avoidance of this subject. Lucky Strike makes its position crystal clear... for certainly, inhaling is most important to every smoker.

For everybody inhales—whether they realize it or not... every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike "makes no bones" about this vital question because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

AUTOS KILL 2, BOY DROWNED ON HOLIDAY

Many Hurt in Traffic Crashes in This District; Two Saved From River

One boy was drowned, automobiles claimed two lives, and many persons were injured in traffic crashes during the holiday period in the Pittsburgh district.

Thomas Sanky Cook, 16, of 1000 East End avenue, was drowned at Lake Canadohta, near Titusville, Pa., when his canoe upset. He was attending the week-end camping trip of the Mifflin Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church. The body was recovered three hours later. He was the son of J. L. Cook, Pittsburgh real estate man, and was a junior at Wilkinsburg High School.

KILLED IN CRASH

Jack J. Mehall, 25, of 428 Darragh street, was killed when his automobile skidded and crashed into a street car in Fifth avenue, near Neville street, police reported. He was pronounced dead from a fractured skull when taken to Homeopathic Hospital. His companion, Thomas Bartley, 20, of 837 McComb street, suffered internal injuries.

Walter Taske, 30, of 2126 Center avenue, was killed near Hill Church, Washington County, when an automobile skidded and upset on the Pittsburgh-Washington road. He suffered a broken neck. Joseph Meaking, of Gunalle street, was injured in the same crash. The automobile was driven by Thomas Harris, of 100 Washington road, Mt. Lebanon, police reported.

When their automobile struck another car and then collided with a pole at Washington and Lincoln avenues, Carnegie, Robert Anderson, 21, of 321 Beverly road, Mt. Lebanon, his mother, Mrs. Margaret Anderson, and Louise Froelich, 24, of Landers street, were injured. Walter Raner, of 105 Western avenue, Greentree, the other driver, was not injured.

PASSENGER HURT

Lawrence Myerston, 15, of Detroit, and Jack Fineman, of 2353 Shady avenue, were injured yesterday when Fineman's truck collided with the automobile of Mrs. Jerome S. Samuels, of 267 Schoonmaker avenue, Monessen, in which Myerston was a passenger. The crash occurred at Wightman and Hobart streets.

When his car was crowded from the Lincoln highway, east of Greensburg, Alex Daka, 35; his wife, Esther, 32, and his son, Eugene, 10, all of 319 Twelfth street, McKeesport, were injured.

Rita Engelhard, 18, of Parkersburg, was injured when her father's car crashed with an automobile driven by Joseph Schroedel, of 2805 Library road, at Moorewood avenue and Forbes street. She was taken to Magee Hospital.

Miss Elinor Clark, of 322 South Atlantic avenue; Joseph and Catherine Lloyd, 1625 Belasco avenue, and their two children, Betty and James Lloyd, were injured when their machine, driven, police said, by Thomas Clark, collided with another machine driven by David Bell, of 263 Thirty-eighth street, yesterday.

HIT-RUN VICTIM

A hit-and-run motorist was blamed by police for the injuries of Joseph Pillo, 27, of 1204 Colwell street, struck in Fifth avenue yesterday.

Seven persons were injured when two automobiles, driven by Frederick W. Stein, 43, of 124 East Francis street, Mt. Oliver, and D. T. Isaacs, 52, of 2715 Broadway avenue, Dormont, crashed at Washington road and Sunset drive, Mt. Lebanon. The injured were Mrs. Fred W. Stein, Edgar Eitweiler, 46, of 4811 Dawson street; Mrs. John B. Lloyd, 72, of 143 Stamm avenue, Mt. Oliver; Miss Luella Isaac, 30, of Bawman avenue, McKeesport; Miss Marcella Lloyd, and Mrs. D. T. Isaac. They were taken to Mercy Hospital.

Robert Vaughn, William Coleman, of 2 Nimick place, and B. Moore, of Briceland avenue, Wilkinsburg Negroes, were injured last night when Coleman's automobile collided with another car driven by Earl Wiley, of Cambria County, on the Butler pike at Mt. Royal crossing. They were not seriously injured.

TWO CARS COLLIDE

Elizabeth Blooming, 21, of 405 Fair Oaks street, McKees Rocks, was injured slightly when the automobile in which she was a passenger crashed with another car on Wind Gap road, near the city line, last night. She was taken to Haddon Hospital. The automobile was driven by L. G. Kirk, 21, R. D. No. 1, McKees Rocks. Police said the other car was driven by Bert Wilke, 29, of 1201 Hoover street. Police charged both men with reckless driving.

Ted Cherrie and Leo Kosolowski, of 2305 Lettico street, were rescued from the Monongahela River yesterday by South Side police. The youths began to swim the river after an argument concerning their ability.

Police were called by their companions, who witnessed the match, when Kosolowski, seized with cramps, was swept over the dam at South Eighteenth street. Cherrie, who had rushed to his companion's aid, clung to the dam.

Mrs. W. O. Thomas, 42, of 1532 Berkshire avenue, Brookline, died today at Lexington, Va., the result of an automobile accident near there Sunday morning. Her husband and Mr. and Mrs. William O. MacRoberts, of 1501 Woodbourne avenue, were injured slightly when their car overturned. The party had left Pittsburgh Saturday morning for Natural Bridge, Va.

26 Drunks Arraigned At Central Station

Twenty-six men, mostly from out-of-town, were rebuked for coming to Pittsburgh to celebrate the Fourth of July by getting drunk by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today. Five were discharged, the others fined $5 or five days in jail. Yesterday 21 were arraigned charged with drunkenness, of whom four were discharged, the others fined.

FOUR HOLDUPS OVER HOLIDAY

Four holdups and several robberies in the Pittsburgh district were reported to police over the holiday period.

Charles Lear, of 3636 East street, was held up and robbed of $4 by two men who waylaid him in Cajou way early yesterday.

At Fourth and Carson street, James Nugent, of 97 Wyoming street, and Albert Hagerty, 839 McClain street, were held up by two bandits who robbed them of $5, yesterday, they reported.

Charles Kohl, of 118 Anderson street, was stopped at Madison avenue and Lacock street, and robbed of $40 by four gunmen, he reported to police.

Three men with revolvers leaped out of an automobile and held up Stanley McClelland, of 300 Mt. Royal boulevard, near his home, and robbed him of his laundry bag and shoes, Sunday morning, he reported to police.

Rum Found in Car, Man Faces Hearing

Joseph A. Cerullo, 38, of Wykes avenue, Detroit, Mich., was to face a hearing today before Alderman Porter Scott on charges of transporting and possessing intoxicating liquor, following his arrest Sunday by state highway patrolmen on the New Castle road. State troopers reported Cerullo's machine contained 37 cases of assorted liquor which was procured at the Atlantic seaboard.

'Black Damp' Kills 2 In Abandoned Mine

MARTINS FERRY, O., July 5.—Two unemployed miners were dead today, "black damp" victims of a mine at Blaine, where they had intended to dig coal. Ora G. Ward, 33, met the same fate in a futile attempt to rescue Adam W. Imer, Jr., 30, who fell into the abondoned opening.

BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

RAIL CREDIT VOLUME IS LARGE

Organization Loans and Obligations on July 1 Totaled $29,589,563.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Loans either actually made or authorized by the Railroad Credit Corporation to railroads to meet their fixed interest obligations totaled $29,589,563 on July 1, 1932, according to the monthly report of that corporation just filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Of that amount, $15,938,690 represents loans actually made, leaving a balance of $13,650,873 to which the corporation is committed.

ROADS HAVE TIME

Collection of rate increases under Ex Parte 103, according to the report, totaled $20,783,249 in the first four months this year, the increase having become effective on January 4. The amount derived from the increase amounted to $5,516,655 in April.

The railroads, by the terms of the plan under which the fund is administered, have 40 days after the end of each month in which to file with the corporation the amount received from rate increases during that month and they are allowed 10 days in which to turn the funds so derived over to the corporation.

LINES CO-OPERATE

In a letter transmitting a copy of the monthly report to the chief executives of the various railroads, E. G. Buckland, president of the Railroad Credit Corporation, said that the co-operative spirit existing among the railroads in their dealings with the Railroad Credit Corporation is a manifestation of the willingness and readiness of the carriers to assist in the amelioration of the financial conditions.

OFFER COURSE IN CANNING

A short course on how to can fruits and vegetables will be conducted free for the women of Pittsburgh beginning tomorrow under the auspices of the Congress of Women's Club and the Home Service Department of the Philadelphia Company.

Sessions will be held tomorrow morning and afternoon and Friday morning at 435 Sixth avenue. The school is designed to show housewives how to can the surplus products of gardens and orchards to meet next winter's needs.

The school opens at 10:30 a. m., and the afternoon session is at 2 o'clock. The meeting tomorrow will be directed by Miss Karen Fladoes, home service director of the Philadelphia Company. For the Congress of Clubs, Mrs. H. D. Stark is chairman of the canning school committee which includes Mrs. H. M. Irons and Mrs. H. T. Frauenheim.

Refrigerator Sale Shows High Record

Sales of household electric refrigerators in Pennsylvania in May, as tabulated by the Electric Refrigeration Bureau of the National Electric Light Association, were slightly in excess of the previous high record set in April. The May total was 14,429, compared to 14,113 the preceding month. Total sales for the first five months of the year were 45,870, which figure represents 102 per cent of the quota set for the period in the bureau's national sales campaign, the objective of which is the sale of a million household units in 1932.

Modern Electrical Appliances Boon to American Farmwives

A BABY FINDING A MODERN WAY TO HEALTH — ONE OF ELECTRICITY'S MANY USES

CAN OUTPUT IS INCREASED

NEW YORK, July 5.—The rapid growth of the British canning industry in recent years is shown by the fact that Metal Box Company, Ltd., producer of 90 per cent of the tin food containers used in the United Kingdom, is scheduled to produce this year a minimum of 100,000,000 cans for packing food, an increase from 65,000,000 produced in 1931 and 25,000,000 in 1930.

Patents and processes of Continental Can Company, Inc., which owns an interest in Metal Box Company, Ltd., are used by the British company. The latter company has spent more than $2,000,000 in recent years in erecting and equipping two modern can-making plants to serve the canning industry in the British Isles, which industry has practically quadrupled in the past four years.

Metal Box Company, Ltd., operates 18 factories located at strategic points throughout Great Britain. In addition to its primary production of tin cans and tin boxes, the company also produces cardboard boxes, bottle closures and other packaging products.

Norge Refrigerator Plans Sales Drive

Sales of Norge refrigerators for the first five and one-half months of this year showed an increase of 241 per cent over last year, according to John H. Knapp, vice president of the Norge Corporation, who addressed a Norge sales meeting at the Schenley Hotel. Approximately 300 dealers were the banquet guests of the Ludwig Hommel Company and heard plans for a new sales and advertising campaign of Norge Rollator refrigerators. Speakers included J. N. Ewing, general sales manager; John Knapp, vice president of the Norge Corporation, Detroit, and Harry Terry, president of the Cramer-Krasselt Company. Mr. Ludwig Hommel was toastmaster.

West Penn Power Supplies 4,000 District Farms

Although only one-fourth of the homes wired for electricity in the United States are in rural districts, the West Penn Power Company supplies electrical energy to nearly 4,000 farms for service in the dairy, gardening, fruit raising and care of poultry.

With electricity as her servant, the American farmwife is taking advantage of the facilities already in such widespread use by the town and city housewife—electric refrigeration, cooking, sweeping, washing and ironing. Her bread is toasted, her coffee percolates, waffles are baked, her hair is curled by electricity. Recent electrical innovations help her to exterminate moths from her clothes closets, and electric sun-lamps bring health to her children.

Statistics show that between 1914 and 1931, the average use of electricity in American homes increased from 268 to 575 kilowatt hours a year. Yet the average cost for a kilowatt hour has dropped from 8.3 cents to 5.82 cents, according to West Penn Power officials.

NEW SYSTEM IS STARTED

NEW YORK, July 5.—A departure from the established method and amount of compensating distributors of securities will be made by Independence Fund of North America, Inc., it was announced by H. J. Simonson, Jr., the company's president.

The practice of insurance companies will be followed by paying dealers a continuous income for nine years, in addition to their original commission, on all sales of Independence Fund Trust Certificates.

LONDON.—(INS.)—Newspapermen will take to the air in England when the activities of the recently formed flying club for journalists get under way in Brooklands. Membership in the newsfliers' club will be limited to newspapermen, and flying instructions will be offered to members at a low rate.

COPPER MARKET TURNS DULL

NEW YORK, July 5.—Copper became dull as foreign demand tapered off when some foreign members withdrew from the export association and quoted under official export prices as a result of the American tariff. Some domestic inquiry for fair quantities was reported under the market but sellers held firm at 5⅜ cents for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut valley.

Fluctuations in tin again reflected London. Early declines were followed by persistent rallies. Demand, however, which had broadened at the lower levels, tapered off, partly because of unfavorable conditions in canning operations.

Lead eased, with large producers announcing reductions following a period of quiet buying. There was some pressure to move prompt metal, while the statistical position was said to have shown no improvement. Hopes were expressed in the trade that the reduction would cause mine curtailment.

Zinc declined moderately owing to restricted demand and increased pressure by some sellers. Present smelting operations are drawing upon reserve ore stocks, for mine production is small.

Antimony remained nominally unchanged.

Alberta, Manitoba Favor 'Mounties'

EDMONTON, Alta.—(INS.)—Signifying their approval of Royal Canadian Mounted Police system, provinces of Alberta and Manitoba have abolished their own police organization in favor of the "Scarlet Riders of the Plains," who will now be the sole police force of these provinces. Four Canadian provinces in all have accepted the mounted police system.

Moonshiners' Hunger Plea Fails, Fined

ATLANTA, Ga.—(INS.)—A plea they made whisky in small quantities only to keep their families from starving failed to win liberty for Olin Moore and Glover Bradford, Rockdale County farmers. They were bound over in United States Commissioner's Court on $500 bonds after admitting operation of a small still near their homes.

FRENCH GOLD IMPORTANT TO WORLD

Conference Board Declares Position of France Not As Strong as Believed.

NEW YORK, July 5.—The financial structure of Central Europe is on the verge of collapse, The financial resources of France alone are sufficient to save it. The Lausanne conference, now in progress, offers an excellent opportunity for European co-operation toward maintaining the financial integrity of Central Europe. Will Europe take this opportunity?

This question is asked by Magnus W. Alexander, president of the National Industrial Conference Board, in the course of a statement, just issued, in which he points out that, despite a dominating financial position, France herself is beset with many difficulties, and that the popular conception of French prosperity is not justified by a careful analysis of the facts. He says:

"The flow of gold to France does not reflect a favorable balance on account of current international payments and should not be regarded as a sign of French prosperity. The gold holdings of the Bank of France are abnormal. Their redistribution among the debtor nations of the world, which is required in order to revive world trade and economic activity, will not take place until France again begins to play the role of a creditor nation by investing her surplus funds abroad in long-term securities."

POSITION UNCERTAIN

Explaining that his purpose is to show the reasons for the extraordinary flow of gold to France during the past four years and to indicate the probability of further gold imports by that country in the near future, Mr. Alexander called attention to the fact that although only eight years ago France was forced to borrow from American bankers $100,000,000 at an interest rate of 7 per cent, at the present time she is the strongest financial center in Europe and the stability of the French franc is not questioned in any part of the world. About two billion dollars worth of gold found its way to the vaults of the Bank of France during the past four years, Mr. Alexander said:

"Gold accumulated in France during the last four years because France did not play the role of a creditor nation, that is, she did not employ her net income from international transactions in investments in foreign countries. France was a creditor country before the World War."

During the first five months of 1932 gold continued to flow to France, but the reason for that flow was not a favorable balance of international payments. The gold reserve of the Bank of France increased from $2,676,000,000 at the end of 1931, to $3,143,000,000 at the beginning of June, 1932, but the holdings of foreign exchange declined during the same period from $877,000,000 to $368,000,000. The decline in foreign exchange holdings was $42,000,000 greater than the increase in gold reserve. For the first time in the past four years the combined holdings of gold and foreign exchange of the Bank of France showed a decline in the first five months of this year.

RESOURCES UNCERTAIN

So far as the remainder of the year is concerned it is probable that the French power to import gold will be limited by the size of French short-term balances abroad and by the extent to which these balances can be liquidated. The international transactions of France on account of merchandise trade, foreign investments, tourist expenditures, immigrant remittances, and shipping services are not expected to show any surplus in favor of France. It is very likely that France will receive nothing on account of reparations. Mr. Alexander concluded:

"All these developments justify the belief that France is beset by extraordinary difficulties and that the flow of gold to France does not reflect a favorable balance on account of current international payments and should not be regarded as a sign of French prosperity."

Deflation in Steel Prices Exceeds Drop In Other Commodities

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

MANY STATISTICAL and economic research organizations have been basing recent discussion of the steel industry on false grounds. This is shown by a comprehensive survey of steel prices conducted by the National Association of Flat Rolled Steel Manufacturers.

Observations on the general business situation in recent months have frequently commented on the fact that the steel industry has not undergone a process of deflation in prices comparable to that of industry in general. From this they infer that steel prices must go lower before general business may be said to have been completely written down to a new order of low prices which they believe to be essential before recovery can take place.

The National Association of Flat Rolled Steel Manufacturers points out that deflation in steel prices started long before that of other commodity prices. This organization also shows that deflation has been carried to a greater extent than the general average.

Steel Quotations Drop 54.9 Per Cent From 1920

THE AVERAGE price of steel has declined 54.9 per cent from the 1920 post-war price levels, according to the association. This compares with a decline of 45.5 per cent for the average of all commodities during the same 12-year period.

The analysis states:

"Steel prices cannot be maintained at the 1932 levels without causing dangerous financial embarrassment to the steel industry, a condition bordering upon destitution for those employed in it, and the dangerous growth of propaganda and doctrines with which the established order is being assailed today."

This comparison of all-commodity prices with composite steel prices, according to the association's analysis, indicates that the giant steel industry, experiencing the evils of overexpansion forced upon many industries during the war, has been excessively deflated and readily explains how 19 leading steel companies reported a total loss of $29,892,078 for the first quarter of 1932.

Prices Are Lower Than Pre-War Level

COMPARISON WITH average steel prices prevailing between 1910 and 1913 shows that 1932 steel prices (after adjustment to give effect to the increase in freight rates of almost 100 per cent and the increase in taxes which are arbitrarily imposed upon steel costs) are from $3.50 to $30 a ton below the 1910-1913 levels, the analysis points out.

In the 1920 depression, steel prices dropped to a lower level than the average price of all commodities. While all commodities started upward in the middle of 1921, the analysis shows that it was not until the middle of 1922 that steel prices began to recover. Exactly one year later, in the middle of 1923, steel prices reached the level of all commodity prices.

Then came the fork in the road where steel prices started a long downhill journey while commodity prices either maintained their levels or increased, the report continues. The charts show all commodity prices racing merrily along until 1929 before turning downward. Not only did steel start its deflation six years earlier but, up to the present, has carried that deflation 4.9 points lower than all commodities and 4.7 points lower than average retail foods.

QUICK COMEBACK PROVES BUC CLASS

THE FACT THAT it left the Pirates in first place on the night of the Fourth of July was by no means the most gratifying feature of the clean sweep of three games against the Cubs. Local fans have seen the folly of placing any great faith in the old hunch that holding the leadership on Independence Day means the pennant. They recall that on this date three years ago the Bucs were topping the heap with a much higher percentage than they have today, .638 to be exact, but that at the finish of the race they were 10½ games behind the flag-winning Cubs. Position means nothing in the present sensational fight. Even though leading the league, the Corsairs are only five and a half games above seventh place.

Leon Chagnon

More important features of the three-game cleanup against the Bruins were that it meant a setback to one of the clubs that will have to be beaten out; that the Rovers showed class, steadiness and gameness in coming back and snatching a whole series from a strong club after losing two straight games to the Cards and being knocked out of the lead; that they never quit fighting, as evidenced by the fact that they came from behind to win both of yesterday's games, and that one more pitching asset has been discovered in the person of Leon Chagnon, who, in two relief appearances within three days pitched a total of five innings without allowing a man to reach first base. It's because of what it promises for the future, not because of what it has brought for the present, that the latest Buc drive is most pleasing.

FOR SEVERAL YEARS the Pirates have found the Giants the hardest club in the league to beat at Forbes Field, and with six games scheduled to be played in four days the series opening this afternoon is clearly the toughest that has been faced this season by the locals.

It will take some stylish ball playing to get through that stretch without a loss of ground, even though the New Yorkers are not up to their full strength without Travis Jackson, the key man of their infield. Among the other things to worry about is the prospect of encountering Carl Hubbell, who beat the Bucs 11 times in a row before Ervin Brame won a 7-5 decision over him last August 13.

REPORTS THAT THEIR injured shortstop would not be able to play again this season were exaggerated, according to the Giants. Dr. William J. Walsh, club physician, believes Jackson will be back this year, possibly by the time the team returns from the present trip.

An old teammate in the person of Eddie Moore greets the Rovers in Jackson's place. Since the locals let him go in 1926, after he had played three and a half seasons here, Moore has come back in three different uniforms—first Boston, next Brooklyn and now New York.

"IF THE PHILLIES played all their games on that squash court of theirs, they would be away out in front now, like the Yankees," Freddie Lindstrom is quoted by Harold Burr. "They certainly understand all about bouncing that ball around from wall to wall. I hear Grover Alexander had nine shutouts in Philadelphia to his credit one season. It must have been a ball that was all yarn he was pitching." At that, the much maligned right field fence at the Phils' alleged park romps away with the decision in a comparison with the home-run zone in the same garden at the Giants' yard in New York where the distance is 23 feet shorter.

Joe Devine

IT WON'T BE surprising if Joe Devine is back in the Pirate organization soon as scout on the Pacific Coast. He has been dropped by Owner Joe Bearwald, of the Mission club, as an agent on the Albuquerque farm, and now that he is free to accept an offer, his old post is likely to be tendered to him by President W. E. Benswanger.

But meanwhile Devine says he has a crow to pick with Bearwald. Joe insists that he has 18 months' salary coming to him, that he was fired from his position as Albuquerque scout without due cause, and that, if Bearwald refuses to pay him, he will appeal to President Hy Baggerly, of the Coast League, and then, if necessary, to the board of arbitration and finally to Commissioner K. M. Landis.

"WHEN I WAS let out as manager of the Missions," Devine said, "I still had 20 months' salary due on my contract. I was given a position as scout for the Albuquerque club, provided I wrote a daily letter to President Bearwald. That was two months ago.

"When I arrived at Alburqueque, I found that I was not to be permitted to accompany the club on its trips. Consequently, when it left town, I did not write any letters, and I find I have been fired for failure to communicate with Bearwald."

NOW THEY'VE got a machine for measuring the speed of a golf swing. H. W. Lord, of Schenectady, has invented a highly sensitive apparatus, of which the photo-electric cell is a part. Speeds up to 1,000 miles an hour can be measured, the inventor says. The golfer stands on a platform and swings at a ball placed on a tee. As he swings he cuts two beams of light at right angles to the path of the club—the first a bare fraction of a second before the ball is struck and the second immediately after the impact. The swing of James Reynolds, national driving champion in 1930, was timed at 125 miles an hour. It was demonstrated that driving speed depends not only on the player, but on the club, as well, and that a light club will produce greater speed than a heavy one.

THE LATE DEAN of American billiards, Maurice Daly, four-ball and three-ball champion as far back as 1872 and 1873, and the first player to register a run of 200 or more in title play, helped to make champions out of Ives, the original Schaefer, Vignaux, Hoppe and others. He always opposed the taking up of the three-cushion game by balkline players.

"I have discovered the harm that three-cushion billiards can do to a balkline player," he said once. "For several months I've been playing a great deal of three-cushions. To me it seems that a balkline player loses his draw shots, his one-cushion and two-cushion shots, and also the delicacy of his touch."

THE AGE MARVELS among the athletes preparing for the Olympic Games, or trying for the American team, are not confined to the marathon or the weight events, where Jimmy Henigan, at 40, and Pat McDonald, at 54, are receiving no little attention.

Duke Kahanamoku

been training for the last six months with the Olympics in view, and has reduced his weight from 204 to 194 pounds.

Another old-timer who will have to be reckoned with in the tryouts is Duke Kahanamoku, famous Hawaiian swimmer. He has arrived in California preparatory to taking part in the trials, and is all set for an attempt to make his fourth Olympic team, a feat no man has achieved before him.

THE DUKE IS 42, and it was 20 years ago that he first starred in the Olympic Games. He won the 100-meter event at Stockholm in 1912, won it again at Antwerp in 1920, and placed second to Johnny Weissmuller at Paris in 1924. He was unable to compete in 1928 on account of illness. His time of 1 minute 1 2-5 seconds in 1920 was the Olympic record until Weissmuller cut it to 59 seconds in 1924 and to 58 3-5 seconds in 1928. The Hawaiian star has

STARS COMPETE IN BERKELEY CONTESTS

By LAWSON ROBERTSON
Chief Coach American Olympic Team.

BERKELEY, Cal., July 5.—There will be staged at Edwards Stadium this afternoon five contests that will be in the nature of semi-finals for the Olympics. They are:

4,000 meters hurdle.
3,000 meters steeplechase.
5,000 meters run.
10,000 meters run.
Hop, step and jump.

There was some thought originally to card these five events as specials and make them a part of the Intercollegiate 4-A championships that were run off Friday and Saturday.

But this idea was discarded because many of the collegians who participated in the 120 and 220 hurdles, as well as some of the jumpers and distance runners, want to try for these honors. It would have been asking too much of the boys to perform in the regular I C 4-A races and also in these endurance contests.

The 4,000-meter hurdle is obsolete so far as the U. S. A. is concerned, but is kept in the Olympic program. It is a gruelling form of contest and punishes the boys

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY CARTOON OF LAST SATURDAY (NO ISSUE YESTERDAY, JULY FOURTH): AN ARCHITECTURAL PRODIGY OF PATIENCE—About 50 miles from Madras lies Kondsheveram, one of the seven most sacred places of Hindu pilgrimage. The town boasts an astounding architectural curiosity. The Gopura, a sacred structure nine stories high and rising 200 feet into the air, has been carved out of a single rock. The building is dedicated to the Hindu God Vishnu. It rests on 96 columns and is elaborately decorated with minute carvings. The ancient Draavidian builders considered it very meritorious to labor away the entire lifetimes of generations for just so useless and strenuous a task. In this edifice, considered the most beautiful of its kind in India, we face what is most incomprehensible in that strange country—the prodigality with which the labor of generations of human ants could be wasted on a whim.

TOMORROW: GgolF THRILLS.

MAX TO MARRY FILM STAR

PARIS, July 5.—(INS.)—Max Schmeling, who lost his heavyweight title to Jack Sharkey in June, is going to marry Anny Ondra, beautiful Czechoslovakian film actress, the Paris Midi stated today.

The marriage will take place shortly in Paris where their romance started, the newspaper said.

The Midi reported that the film actress may force Max to abandon his ring career after marriage.

Frame to Drive Car At Altamont July 19

ALTAMONT, N. Y., July 5.—(INS.)—Automobile races scheduled here yesterday will be run July 9, it was announced today. Rain prevented Fred Frame, Los Angeles star, and other speedsters from performing yesterday.

OTTAWA, July 5.—(INS.)—Andy Kay and Lex Robson, both of Toronto, will meet today over the 18-hole route for the Canadian pro golf title. They finished in a tie in the 36-hole play yesterday with scores of 144.

PIE'S BATTING MARK GROWS RAPIDLY

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Boosting his batting average from .309 to .341 in the last five days, Capt. Harold Joseph (Pie) Traynor, of the Pirates, has been nothing short of an inspiration to the Buccos in their drive to their highest peak of the season, one and one-half games ahead of Bill McKechnie's Boston Braves and two and one-half games ahead of the Chicago Cubs as they opened a six-game series against the New York Giants at Forbes Field this afternoon. Doubleheaders are carded tomorrow and Thursday and another single contest on Friday.

The third sacker rose to unusual heights in the double success of the Freebooters in the holiday bill with the fast-going Cubs yesterday. Pie rapped out seven hits in the morning and afternoon fights. As a result of his delightfully consistent work at the plate, Traynor has moved into the runnerup position among the Pirate regulars.

P. WANER LEADS 'EM ALL

P. Waner, the great batsman who tops the Buccaneers, came out of the Independence Day frolics with enough hits to give him the honor position over all batters of the major leagues. Paul is hitting a cool .385, his card showing 107 hits. The little slugger is in front of such brilliant swingers as Jimmy Foxx, Don Hurst, Chuck Klein and Earl Averill.

Brother Paul, in the viewpoint of the players of the diamond game, must hold to his "line-drive" pace if he is to beat out fellows like Foxx, Klein, Hurst and others who play 77 games in home parks that offer short fences as targets. The Pirate star performs half the season in a park that permits of great fielding. Of course, that's the way it ought to be in baseball, but it isn't in most cases.

BUCS RALLY TO WIN

The Buccos staged two thrilling fights from behind as they floored the Cubs yesterday. They won the morning encounter, 9 to 6, and landed the decision in the eleventh inning of the afternoon fight. The score of this game was 6 to 5.

Floyd Vaughan's dazzling speed of foot gave the Pirates the winning marker in the afternoon. Catcher Earl Grace made it possible for the Pirates to cop. Earl opened the ninth with a single. Cuyler fumbled and Grace reached second. Finney ran for Grace and Comorosky batted for Spencer. Commy sacrificed. L. Waner smacked over the tying run with a long fly.

Padden singled in the eleventh with one out, and with two out, L. Waner singled, Padden taking third. P. Waner was purposely passed. Vaughan hit a weak roller to Secondbaseman Herman and then beat the play at first as the winning run went over.

SPENCER, BUSH IN DUEL

Guy Bush and Spencer staged a fine slab duel in this scrap. Chagnon went to the mound in the tenth and received credit for the victory.

The Cubs nicked Larry French for four runs in the first inning of the morning game, but the Pirate shelled Burleigh Grimes off the slab in the third. Six runs went over in the inning. Harris finished for the Buccos. Root, May and Malone followed Grimes to the mound.

A fist fight between Vaughan and Outfielder Marvin Gudat enlivened this contest.

The Pittsburgh officials announced last night that they had transferred Catcher Bill Brenzel from Newark, of the International Leaguue, to San Francisco, of the Pacific Coast League.

Chilly Sauce

Capt. Traynor came out of the holiday battles with seven hits and as a result the great third sacker is bobnobbing with the elite batters of the league.

NATS CHECK YANKEES

SEASON SERIES EDGE GAINED BY SENATORS

Associated Press.

If the New York Yankees should make a runaway of the American League pennant race this year, it won't be the fault of Walter Johnson's Washington Senators.

Knocking over the leaders twice in their Fourth of July doubleheader, the Senators became the first club in the league to gain an edge over the Yankees in games won and lost this season. Of the 17 games the Senators and Yankees have played this season, Washington has won nine.

The Senators snapped Vernon Gomez's 11-game winning streak in the opener, 5-3, ganging the Castilian for three runs in the seventh and eighth. They turned the second battle into a rout by scoring six times in the first three innings and winning 12-6 despite homers by Lary, Crosetti and Ruth, the latter's twenty-third of the season. Manush and Harris clouted homers for the winners.

TIGERS MOVE UP

Taking advantage of the enforced idleness of the Philadelphia Athletics, the Detroit Tigers moved into second place by tripping the St. Louis Browns twice, 2-0 and 12-7. The Tigers virtually are tied with the Athletics in games won and lost, but hold second place on percentage. Earl Whitehill pitched one of the greatest games of his career in holding the Browns to one hit, a single by Goslin. The second game was a slugging duel, which the Tigers clinched with a six-run rally in the third frame.

Cleveland won the first game from Chicago, 4-2, as Wes Ferrell pitched his fifteenth victory of the year, but the Indians succumbed to Ted Lyons' mastery in the nightcap, 2-1.

In the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates increased their lead to a game and a half by outslugging the Chicago Cubs twice, 9-6 and 6-5.

CUBS TAKE DROP

The Cubs dropped into third place, a game back of the Boston Braves, who trounced the Phillies twice, 8-6 and 9-0. Socks Seibold held the Phils to five hits in the second game.

Cincinnati punched out a 7-3 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals in the first game and then fought the World Champions to a 3-3 tie in the 13-inning nightcap halted by darkness. Dizzy Dean traveled the full route for the Champions in the second game and allowed only seven hits.

The Giants and Brooklyn were rained out.

Sutter and Grant Advance at Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 5.—(AP.)—Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans, and Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, of Atlanta, breezed through their first engagements in the men's singles of the Southern tennis tournament here yesterday.

Sutter, top seeded player and holder of the national intercollegiate singles crown, advanced to the third round by defeating Hudson Hamm, of Miami, 6-4, 6-1.

Grant, seeded next to his old rival in a first round match, defeated Burtz Boulware, of Tallahassee, Fla., 6-3, 6-3. In the second round he defeated Dr. John Met, Memphis, 6-2, 6-4.

CHARITY BOUTS TONIGHT

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Benefit amateur bouts, St. Peter's School Grounds, North Side.
Joe Sekyra vs. Tiger Jack Fox, 10 rounds, Indianapolis.
Reggie Meen vs. Jack Peterson, Charley Smith vs. Tom Toner and Jack Doyle vs. Guardsman Gater, 10 rounds each, London.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Sweet charity will benefit from an amateur boxing show to be held this evening by the St. Peter's A. C., of the North Side, in the yard of St. Peter's School, back of the North Side Police Station.

A card of seven bouts has been arranged by Matchmakers Eddie McEntee and Art Rooney, with boxers from the Pittsburgh Lyceum and the Willow Club competing. The Rev. Michael O. Shea is general chairman of the committee in charge. The card, with the Lyceum boxers named first:

118 pounds, Max Verge vs. Eddie Katkish, and Johnny Durso vs. Frank Wingo; 126 pounds, Steve Kovach vs. Roy Cooper; 135 pounds, Dick Pritchard vs. Leo Moon, and Joe Malco vs. Johnny Unger; 147 pounds, Steve Kobeda vs. Art McGivern, and 160 pounds, Billy Nichy vs. Eric Bredl.

The Hickey Park arena management in Millvale has completed all details for its weekly show to be held Thursday night, the only professional card of the week in the district. It is an all-heavyweight bill, with George Panka, of Homestead, meeting Pietro Corri, of New York, and Frank Novak, of the North Side, opposing Tiny Powell, of Akron, in two 10-rounders, and Leo Clements tangling with Jack Kearns and Ray Jennings meeting Bill Gunther in two six-rounders.

The Meyers Bowl plans to resume operations in its North Braddock setting next Monday night, and Greenlee Field, on the Hill, Wednesday of next week.

DETROIT, July 5.—Mortie and Olin Dutra, noted professionals of California, tied Gene Sarazen, American and British Open champion, and Tommy Armour, in their 18-hole exhibition here yesterday. Olin Dutra matched par with 36-35—71. Each of the others scored a 73.

TRAYNOR LEADS BUC DRIVE

days has been furious. He ripped off four safeties in one of the games with the Cardinals last week.

Floyd Vaughan was close to the captain with six hitters in the two games. The occasion was red-letter day in the career of the youngster.

Brother Paul connected for five hits, including a pair of doubles which increased his total of two-sackers to 38. Paul also made a three-bagger.

The depression has hurt the theater, but the Waner Act goes over big each day.

Lefty Grimm's impressions of the Finn-Jurges and Vaughan-Gudat fights are better than the originals.

Our Boys didn't let Burleigh Grimes fight. Burleigh "dusted off" one or two of the locals, but they didn't mind it a bit.

Tommy Padden continues to please. The kid catcher opened the eleventh inning victory drive with a single past English.

Those Braves refuse to jump through for anybody over a long stretch. Just when it appears they are ready to blow up they past over a skit similar to that of yesterday.

The Knothole Gang will make merry at the Oakland Orchard this afternoon. Mondays and Fridays are their days, but the holiday will not deprive them of their treat.

LOCAL HORSE WINS 'CHASE

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., July 5.—A crowd of more than 5,000 yesterday saw Bliss Flaccus, well-known polo star of Pittsburgh, ride Starborn, of the Hanley Court Stables, of Pittsburgh, to victory in the steeplechase staged here.

Five horses competed. McCreery, riding Sweet Scott, and Walker, riding Peter Bingbille, fell at the first jump, both jockeys being injured slightly.

Beckley Annexes First-Half Title

Beckley, winner of the first-half title in the Middle-Atlantic League's split season race, kept its winning stride to defeat Clarksburg, 9 to 2, in the only game played yesterday as the second-half race got under way. Beckley won 34 and lost 25 in nosing out Charleston for the first-half laurels.

PHILLY OARSMEN WIN

PHILADELPHIA, July 5.—The four-oared shells, with and without coxwain and the singles and doubles scullers of the Penn A. C. won national titles and Olympic ratings in the three-day regatta concluded here yesterday. Other Olympic places for senior pair-oared boats with and without coxswain went to the Pennsylvania Barge and Undine clubs, respectively. The only outsider to register was the intermediate eight-oared crew of the Arundel Boat Club, of Baltimore.

NEW RIVER BUILDS FIELD

MONTGOMERY, W. Va., July 5.—Work is being rushed on the New River State College stadium and Athletic Bowl, which has been named Martin Field in honor of Dr. C. H. Martin, president of the college. The stadium will seat 6,000, and according to the present plans 2,000 seats will be ready for this fall.

RYDEN WINS GOLF TITLE

GATUN, Canal Zone, July 5.—(AP.)—Roy A. Ryden, Jr., son of Capt. Ryden, U. S. N., yesterday won the fourteenth annual Isthmian amateur golf championship, defeating Capt. Michael C. Jones, of Atlanta, cousin of Bobby Jones, 3 and 2, in the thirty-six hole finals.

AGEE WINS MARATHON

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Bill Agee, of Baltimore, yesterday won the District A. A. U. marathon race over a 10-mile course. William Wilson, unattached, of Philadelphia, was second, and William Follmar, unattached, also of Baltimore, third.

FIVE OLYMPIC TEST EVENTS TODAY

considerably because of the call that it makes on speed and durability.

The event was originated in 1900, repeated in 1904 and 1908 and then abandoned until 1920. F. F. Loomis won it for the United States in 1920; F. M. Taylor took the honors in 1924 and Lord Burghley was the 1928 champion. The 3,000 meters steeplechase seems to be at the mercy of Joe McCluskey, of Fordham, this afternoon. The 5,000 and 10,000 meters are rather open races, so is the hop, step and jump.

After the contests this afternoon the Eastern squad that came here for the I. C. 4-A games will begin to disband. The men who finished, one, two, three, will, of course, go to Palo Alto and begin training up for the Olympic tryout finals there on July 15 and 16. The others either will go back to their homes in the East and Middle West or linger on in California to see the Olympics.

BRITISH TEAM SELECTED

LONDON, July 5.—(AP.)—Lord David Burghley, famous hurdler, will captain the British Olympic track and field team selected last night as follows:

200 meters—Reid, English champion, Engelhart and Fuller.
400 meters—T. Hampson, Stoneley, English champion, and either G. L. Rampling or Powell.
800 meters—Hampson, English champion and Powell.
1,500 meters—R. H. Thomas and Cornes, English champion.
5,000 meters—Burns, Bailey and Evenson.
Steeplechase—Bailey and Evenson.
10,000 meters—Wilk Green.
Marathon—McLeod Wright and Ferris.
110-meter hurdles—Lord Burghley, Finlay and Harper.
400-meter hurdles—Lord Burghley.

81 ON GERMAN TEAM

BERLIN, July 5.—(AP.)—Germany's Olympic team, announced last night, includes 81 performers in 55 events. The team will sail on the Europa July 10.

OLYMPIC VILLAGE READY

LOS ANGELES, July 5.—With the Olympic games only a little more than three weeks away, Olympic Village today was in virtual readiness to accommodate 2,000 internationally famous athletes sent here by the Olympic nations of the world.

TIMERS DENY CHARGES

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—Charges made by R. L. (Dink) Templeton, Stanford University coaches, that a conspiracy of eastern timers had resulted in deliberately slow clocking of runners in the I. C. 4-A. track and field meet finals at Berkeley Saturday brought indignant denials from Mortimer Bishop, head timer, who said that the races were timed as they were run.

BOXERS FLY TO COAST

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 5.—Ensigns Claude V. Ricketts and George Moffett will take off Friday morning to fly to the final Olympic boxing tryouts in San Francisco, beginning July 20.

Showers Curtail Circuit Program

CLEVELAND, July 5.—Rains, resulting in a heavy track, yesterday curtailed the Grand Circuit program scheduled at North Randall. Two of the feature events, the stallion stakes and the free-for-all pace, will be staged today.

Mac I Win, owned by C. F. Crowley, of this city, scored a straight heat victory to register his tenth victory in 11 starts in the 3-year-old pace. Una Signal and Dale Direct were the other winners.

EQUIPOISE FAVORITE

CHICAGO, July 5.—(AP.)—Winner of his last six starts, Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's Equipoise will go to the post the favorite in the $20,000 added Arlington Gold Cup race here Saturday. Purses in the cheaper events at Arlington Park will be reduced from $1,200 to $1,000, beginning Friday. Equipoise won the Stars and Stripes handicap at Arlington yesterday.

THIL BEATS HARVEY

PARIS, July 5.—Marcel Thil, of France, claimant of the world middleweight championship, as a result of a recent victory over Gorilla Jones, winner of the National Boxing Association tournament in the United States, last night defeated Len Harvey, of England, in a 15-round bout here.

50 CHEVROLET and PLYMOUTH AUTOMOBILES

2-Door, 5-Passenger, Fully-Equipped Sedans

To Be Given Away! FREE

In the New, Fascinating, Timely

Open to Everyone—Men and Women—Boys and Girls

Readers of the Sun-Telegraph are invited to participate in the new Jig-Saw Presidential Game in which 50 automobiles—Plymouth and Chevrolets—will be given away as prizes. No fad has taken a greater hold on the American public in recent months than Jig-Saw puzzles. These fascinating brain teasers are not new as an idea, but like cross-word puzzles, ping pong and other recreations of this sort, they have come back to absorb the interest of thousands—sweeping the country from coast to coast with a degree of attention and interest that they never before enjoyed or commanded. The idea of employing the map of the United States as a Jig-Saw puzzle and employing the Presidential campaign as a part of the contest, makes the Jig-Saw Presidential Game all the more timely—a combination of two topics that are just now attracting nation-wide attention.

O'LOUGHLIN, SMITH TENNIS FINALISTS

WESTMORELAND NET LAURELS AT STAKE

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN,
Staff Correspondent

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 5.—Dr. John O'Loughlin, ace of the P. A. A. and runner-up last week to the Western Pennsylvania championship, meets Frank S. Smith, redoubtable Edgewood leader, on the Greensburg Country Club gallery court here late this afternoon in final combat for the Westmoreland County men's singles crown.

The Winged Head flash, victor in the local event of a year ago, advanced to the windup yesterday at expense of the 1931 runner-up, Frank Broida, of Harvard, in hotly-contested semi-final fray, 6-0, 5-7, 6-3. Smith entered the trophy round by scoring decisive triumph over Billy O'Loughlin, Pitt-P. A. A. driver, 6-3, 6-1.

MRS. THOMPSON CHAMP

Mrs. DeLloyd Thompson, Washington, Pa., luminary, signalized return to district competition by defeating Margaret Carspecken, brilliant Morgantown volleyer, 8-6, 6-2, in the concluding women's engagement, a neatly played tussle staged on the splendid "tout cas" rectangle on the Lynch estate after rain had delayed seriously the progress of tilting at the country club.

Miss Carspecken led her perennial rival at 6-5, and 15-40 on Mrs. Thompson's service, but approached the net injudiciously on the vital exchange and was forced into demoralizing error that actually proved the turning point of the match. Mrs. Thompson drove well, both fore and backhand, and occasionally sallied forth to count at the barrier. Miss Carspecken was steady from the back court and often spectacular at the net, but her excursions forward were frequently premature and without adequate forcing shots.

BARBER BEATEN

John O'Loughlin offered excellent brand of tennis to eliminate Paul Barber, Sewickley lumpary, 6-1, 10-8, in an early joust, in which Barber was extremely erratic. Broida, whose steady driving had accounted for "Tack" Hammer, home hope, 6-4, 6-3, in the quarter finals, found O'Loughlin too steady for him in a duel fought largely from the baseline because of the hazard entailed in pushing to the mesh on the slippery ground.

Billy O'Loughlin encountered difficulty in putting the ball away on the ever-consistent Smith, who refused to err from back court, while Billy lacked finishing shots due to inability to reach the net. Smith trimmed Ed Alcorn, Pitt captain, 6-2, 6-3, in the bracket of eight in much the same fashion. The summary:

MEN'S SINGLES

Fourth round—Frank S. Smith defeated Edgar Alcorn, 6-2, 6-3; Frank Broida defeated E. T. Hammer, 6-4, 6-3; Dr. John L. O'Loughlin defeated Paul Barber, 6-1, 10-8.

Semi-final round—Frank S. Smith defeated William L. O'Loughlin, 6-3, 6-1; Dr. John L. O'Loughlin defeated Frank Broida, 6-0, 5-7, 6-2.

WOMEN'S SINGLES

Semi-final round—Margaret Carspecken defeated Herlen Caron, 6-1, 6-0.

Final round—Mrs. DeLloyd Thompson defeated Margaret Carspecken, 8-6, 6-2.

MEN'S DOUBLES

Second round—E. T. Hammer and Theodore Hammer won from Elmer Artzberger and partner, by default; John R. Brown and Neal C. Rumsey defeated Gus Wolfe and James Hughes, 6-1, 6-3.

Third round—Stewart Snodgrass and Lowell Wingerd defeated Don C. Snyder and D. R. Hixson, 6-4, 4-2; Frank Broida and Irvin Goodman led E. T. Hammer and Theodore Hammer, 8-6, at dark.

Young Stribling Stops Palmer in Australia

SYDNEY, Australia, July 5.—(AP.)—Young Stribling, American heavyweight, scored a technical knockout over Ambrose Palmer, the Australian, in the tenth round of their 15-round bout here yesterday.

Stribling was the aggressor throughout the 10 rounds and outclassed his opponent from start to finish. The fight was stopped in the tenth by the referee to prevent further punishment.

DIEGEL SETS RECORD

OTTAWA, July 5.—Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente pro, here for the Canadian Open championship, which starts Thursday, broke the course record at the Rivermead Golf Club yesterday with a 69. The score is four under par figures.

LUTHER AT BOB-O-LINK

Ted Luther, former West Penn open golf champion, will give a driving exhibition at the Bob-O-Link course in Aspinwall at 9:30 this evening. He is the first of a long list of pros who will give similar exhibitions each Monday evening.

STONEHAM MAY SELL

NEW YORK, July 5.—Suffering a decline in attendance of 45 per cent from the 1931 figures, Charles A. Stoneham, president of the New York Giants, is contemplating disposing of his holdings in the local National League club.

Griff Demands Punishment For Dickey

WASHINGTON, July 5.—(AP.)—While Carl Reynolds nursed a broken jaw, President Clark Griffith, of the Washington Senators, awaited a decision today from President William Harridge, of the American League, concerning the crippling haymaker Catcher Bill Dickey, of the Yankees, let fly here yesterday against the slugging outfielder.

After the fracas, which followed the decisive play in the first of two games Washington took from the league leaders, Griffith telegraphed Harridge. He asked the maximum fine and suspension of the Yankee catcher until Reynolds is able to return to the lineup for what he described as "the most atrocious act one ball player ever perpetrated on another." Griffith also demanded that Dickey or the New York club pay Reynolds' hospital and doctor bills.

GOLFERS ENJOY HOLIDAY

Despite soggy courses, caused by intermittent showers throughout the afternoon, fine turnouts for the varied program of holiday events were reported by the country clubs in the Greater Pittsburgh district yesterday. The majority of the clubs staged sweepstake events in the morning and afternoon, as well as the usual club championships. The winners follow:

Pittsburgh Country Club—Although playing in the third division of the medal play sweepstakes, Dr. L. L. Thompson carried off all honors in low gross and low net in the afternoon with a brilliant round of 87-21—66. H. A. Neeb, Jr. won the match play against par event in the morning with a card 4 up.

St. Clair—H. D. Willoughby won the flag contest and the first division sweeps with 79-14—65. A. C. Clarke was the second division winner with 87-19—68. J. Johnson led in the third division with 98-26—72.

Highland—C. S. Garner, Jr. won the first division medal play event with 78-12—66. R. W. Fisher, Jr., was the winner in the second division with 84-18—66, and E. Dewey won the third division prize with 92-20—62. In the afternoon, W. France won the first division event with 81-12—69, A. M. Eckkert, the second division, with 88-18—69, and G. C. Orr, the third division, with 99-22—77. James Ramsey won the club championship in a 36-hole playoff on Sunday, defeating Joe Royston, Jr., last year's champion, 2 and 1. Ramsey was 4 down at the end of nine, 18 and 27 holes.

Stanton Heights—H. O. Whayland and F. G. Sears, finishing 6 up, won the best-ball event under three-quarter handicap in the morning. F. B. Weppner won the first division medal play sweeps in the afternoon with 70-0—70. O. B. Opsion was the second division winner with 88-18—70.

Shannopin—G. S. Evans and W. M. Thompson won the best-ball twosomes in the first division with a 61. C. H. Muse and C. A. Muse were the second division winners with a 62. In the sweepstakes, R. L. Thompson, Jr., led the first division with 79-10—69, while G. S. Evans won the afternoon sweepstakes with 79-12—67.

Pittsburgh Field Club—R. Friday and F. H. Diebold won the four-ball, best-ball event under seven-eighths handicap with a 58, six strokes ahead of their nearest rivals.

Chartiers Heights—T. F. Walters with 82-13—69, won the morning medal play event and Dr. D. M. Flint with 91-24—70, won the afternoon medal play event.

Youghiogheny—C. C. Deller with 77-8—69 won in the first division and E. A. Bedell with 90-27—63, won in the second division of the morning sweeps. R. G. Clunk and L. E. Binney led the first division in the afternoon match play against par event, both being 1 down. M. Edmundson led in the second division, finishing 1 down.

Wildwood—R. N. Snyder, L. C. Rossen, Charles Heinz, E. S. Thomas, M. J. Pollock and W. B. Ray shared in prizes awarded in the various holiday events. Snyder won the first division morning sweeps with 90-20—70; Rossen was the winner in the second division with 93-24—69; Heinz led in the first division in the afternoon with 92-19—73, and Thomas in the second division with 96-24—72.

Alcoma—J. H. Euwer and J. C. Edgar were the winners in the first and second divisions in the morning and Thomas Nichols and J. M. Smith were the winners in the afternoon. The events were medal play competitions. Euwer scored 75-5—70, Edgar 89-18—71, Nichols 78-10—68, and Smith 93-25—68.

South Hills—John Graham, club champion, led the field for 36 holes with two rounds of 75 for an aggregate of 150 to win low gross. E. K. Eskey had low net for the day with 84-77—161-16—145. He also won the low net prize in the morning sweeps with 77-8—69. Jack Benson and James Burke tied in the afternoon match play against par event, both being 1 down.

Longue Vue—L. A. Smith and E. N. Campbell were the morning winners and J. W. Neunschwander and D. W. McGregor were the afternoon winners in the 18-hole medal play events under full handicap. Smith won the first division prize with 79-8—71, and Campbell the second division, with 92-20—72. In the afternoon Neunschwander won the first division with 88-12—74, and McGregor the second division with 97-19—78.

Butler—V. L. Wise was the medal play winner in the morning with 74-6—72 to lead the first division. Wayne Brown was the second division leader with 94-21—73. Roger Patrizio was the match play against par winner being 1 down. He also led in the first division sweeps in the afternoon with 82-9—73. G. L. Wise won in the second division with 92-22—70.

Edgewood—T. R. Kennedy won the club trophy in the first division of the medal play sweeps with 81-8—73. Dr. W. M. Findley was the second division winner with 95-28—67. J. P. Coleman led the first division in the afternoon with 83-13—70, while W. F. McCrady headed the second division with 92-20—72.

Oakmont—Scoring 84-13—71, J. H. Beal, Jr., won the medal play event under full handicap. Benno Janssen and J. B. Black were tied for second with 72s.

KING LEVINSKY GETS LACING FROM BAER

RENO, Nev., July 5.—The King Levinsky myth went up into the rarified Nevada atmosphere here yesterday afternoon when he was decisively beaten by Max Baer, California, in 20 long, slow rounds.

As approximately 8,000 spectators looked on in the wooden bowl, named after a really great fighter, Jack Dempsey, Baer took the wind out of the King's sails with a terrific body attack that made the Chicagoan virtually helpless in the later rounds. Dempsey was a spectator.

The fight proved a financial flop, for there was barely $25,000 in the house.

From a fistic standpoint it was far from a success, for while it was launched in a spectacular manner, it faded into a wrestling match after the tenth round.

The King, helpless in the clinches, could not maintain the same pace as Baer and consequently was on the defensive most in the last 10 rounds. During that period Baer was held even in only one chukker, the twelfth.

Referee George Blake did not hetsitate to raise Max's hand at the end and the decision was received without a protest.

Of the 20 rounds, Baer won 15, Levinsky 3 and 2 were even. It was just that onesided.

7 races	400.78

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 5.—This is my permanent keynote speech, to wit and as follows: I give up trying to dope out that National League race. It looks to me like all eight teams has got together and agreed to take turns leading the league. The only fight is who's going to be doing the tree sitting the last week in September.

Nick Altrock

Gosh, it's even more puzzling than that Democratic convention, where there were nine candidates for President. Every candidate was trying to stop everyone else. It's the only convention I ever heard of where there were more stoppers than empties.

And, oh, my gosh, again! Al Smith was out to that Chicago convention wearing a straw hat instead of a brown derby. The next thing you know, Al will be pronouncing "radio" with one d.

FIRE DESTROYS SEATTLE BALL PARK

SEATTLE, July 5.—(INS.)—The Seattle Pacific Coast League baseball park was completely destroyed by fire shortly after midnight today. Damage was estimated at more than $100,000.

The blaze, which was not discovered until the grandstand was a mass of flames, was believed to have been started by a firebug. Traces of oil were said to have been found near the embers where the grandstand had stood.

The fire swept rapidly throughout the double-decked wooden grandstand and spread to the bleachers in left field and right field. Fences were left standing about the charred ruins.

Seattle and San Francisco played a holiday doubleheader here yesterday.

Shotton Files Protest on Ump's Ruling

PHILADELPHIA, July 5.—(AP.)—Manager Burt Shotton, of the Phillies, and Umpire Dolly Stark waged a protracted verbal duel yesterday over how many bases a runner may take on an overthrow. Shotton failed to make his point and filed a protest with John Heydler, National League president.

With Bartell and Klein on second and third in the seventh inning of the first game with Boston, Hurst slammed a ball that went for a hit to the right of Shires. The first-sacker stopped it and threw wild to Pruett at the bag.

Bartell raced home, Klein took third and Hurst second. Meanwhile Pruett retrieved the ball, saw Klein off third and tossed for him. The ball rolled into the dugout, Klein trotted home, and Hurst, on the principle that an overthrow gives a runner the base he is approaching and an extra one, also ran in.

Stark sent Hurst back to second and Klein back to third. The Braves won the game, 8 to 6.

Parker Continues Tennis Conquests

CLEVELAND, July 5.—Frankie Parker, of Milwaukee, added two more tennis titles to his collection here yesterday when the 16-year-old sensation teamed up with a capable partner to win two doubles crowns.

Paired with George Reindel, he led the way to a 4-6, 6-4, 7-5, 6-3 victory over Leslie Stoefen and George Hoyt, of Los Angeles, for the intercity doubles title. This same duo followed this with a 6-1, 8-6, 6-2 triumph over Ralph Oster and Bill Carran, of Cleveland, for the Ohio State doubles crown.

FRITZIE STIFEL, CRUM LEAD IN TOURNEY

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., July 5.—Rains and high winds played havoc with the scores turned in yesterday by the qualifiers in the annual West Virginia State golf championship being staged here.

F. M. Crum, of Huntington, led the qualifiers for the first 18 holes with 39-37—76. R. W. Lowe, of Fairmont, was next in line with 38-40—78. Bill King, of Wheeling, was third with 41-41—82.

Miss Fritzie Stifel, 1931 champion, topped the field in the women's division, beating out her mother with 42-35—77. Her mother, Mrs. E. W. Stifel, scored 45-36—81. Mrs. H. D. Everett, of Charleston, was third with 43-39—82.

Arlett Cracks Five Homers in Dual Bill

BALTIMORE, July 5.—Buzz Arlett, former slugger of the Phillies and now with the Baltimore Orioles, who two months ago tied the record made by Bobby Lowe, of the 1884 Boston Nationals; Ed Delehanty, of the 1896 Philadelphia Nationals, and Lou Gehrig, of the 1932 Yankees, by hitting four home runs in a game, not only repeated the feat yesterday against the Reading Keys, but broke another record when he made his fifth in the second contest.

Arlett in hitting his five homers in a dual bill broke the record of four established by Earl Averill, of the Indians, who hit three in the first and a fourth in the second in 1930.

STALE GAS IS FEEBLE---fresh GAS PACKS POWER

YOU KNOW that gasoline evaporates. But have you ever thought what that means? It means that, little by little, the "light ends"—the "easy starting" elements—drift off into thin air.

And as gas gets stale, a chemical change takes place—and hence the longer gas is stored, the weaker it gets. The less power it gives you. And it gets stickier, too. More apt to foul valves and carbureter. More apt to knock on the hills.

The whole petroleum industry has long known these facts. Gulf has long studied the problem—and now announces a system that assures the motorist of getting FRESH, FULL-POWERED gasoline!

First, by giving you the best gasoline that can be made—by so refining this gas that the elements that cause rapid deterioration are eliminated. Which means that Gulf gas stays FRESH longer.

Second, by getting this NEW-MADE gas to you in a hurry.

From refinery to pump, the Gulf distribution system is geared up to high speed. Gulf has carefully placed its many huge refineries in many sections of the country—so that a stream of FRESH gas can easily be kept flowing to every one of the 45,000 Gulf stations.

A tremendous fleet of fast trucks rushes FRESH gas to Gulf pumps every day in the year.

Only FRESH gasoline packs full power. Get all the power you pay for. Get gas that's FRESH-MADE—and that is delivered FRESH. Get Gulf—exclusively. You'll have a livelier motor. A quieter motor. A faster motor.

get THAT GOOD GULF GASOLINE—it's fresh

Stirring Facts Gloom Mongers Will Not Like

By B. C. FORBES

DOLEFUL NEWS is trotted out morning, noon and night, forenoon and afternoon.

Weaklings talk as if the country had never before known depression and never before triumphed over depression. Their ignorance concerning the past matches their despair concerning the future.

B. C. Forbes

THE PLAIN, incontestible truth is that America is infinitely better equipped to rise this time than it ever was before. We are more blessed than in any earlier crisis with every material resource—with capital, with savings, with gold, with banking facilities, with agricultural facilities, with transportation facilities, with manufacturing facilities, with mining facilities, with mercantile facilities, with power resources, with scientific skill, with chemical skill, with mechanical skill, with managerial skill, with trained workers, trained salesmen, trained advertisers.

READ THESE inspiring facts—and they are facts—presented editorially in Collier's:

America's mutual savings bank deposits are $1,233,000,000 higher than they were at the peak of the boom three years ago.

Total bank savings today exceed $29,000,000,000, equal to more than $1,000 for every family in the land.

Savings depositors number 52,000,000, nearly two per family.

The number of Americans owning stock has increased almost 40 per cent since 1929.

A group of 102 companies which had 5,539,036 stockholders at the end of the boom year had 7,675,143 stockholders at the beginning of this year.

One company alone today has over 665,000 stockholders, a gain of more than 198,000 since the boom. This company (American Telephone and Telegraph) has assets exceeding $3,200,000,000.

No other nation on the face of the earth can show such widespread ownership of money and stocks.

Our total stock of gold is $4,000,000,000. No other country ever possessed so much.

A recent offering of $450,000,000 of United States Treasury securities elicited subscriptions totaling $4,196,296,700 — more than nine times the amount offered.

Last year $16,500,000,000 worth of new life insurance was written. Total insurance now carried is estimated at $109,000,000,000, or not far short of $1,000 for every man, woman and child in the United States. Policies in force total 127,800,000.

Such safeguard, such security is enjoyed by the people of no other nation in the world.

Our total national wealth, estimated at $329,700,000,000, is greater than that of a dozen continental European countries combined.

The income of the American people comfortably exceeds $1,000,000,000 a week. The per capita income here is far greater than in any other land.

There are still six or seven persons gainfully employed for every person idle.

Foreigners owe American investors approximately $18,000,000,000. In addition foreign governments owe our government $7,000,000,000.

We are still selling abroad more than we are buying.

NO FEWER than 25,800,000 automobiles are owned by Americans—almost one for every family. This total is almost three times the number owned by all the rest of the world.

Americans possess far more telephones (19,500,000) than all other countries put together.

Radios continue to multiply. The latest authoritative computation puts the total at over 16,545,000.

Fully 3,750,000 new domestic mechanical refrigerators have been bought, at an estimated expenditure approaching $2,000,000,000—mostly in the last three years.

America has more home owners than any other nation.

The theater of the masses, the movie, still attracts a weekly average attendance of 75,000,000.

The average working-day a generation ago was 10 to 12 hours. The standard now is eight hours, with the trend running toward a still shorter workday. The work-week used to consist of six (even seven) days. No, it is five and one-half days, with the five-day week coming into vogue.

IF ALL of us who are still employed would only look up and buck up, things would quickly pick up. Muzzle gloommongers!

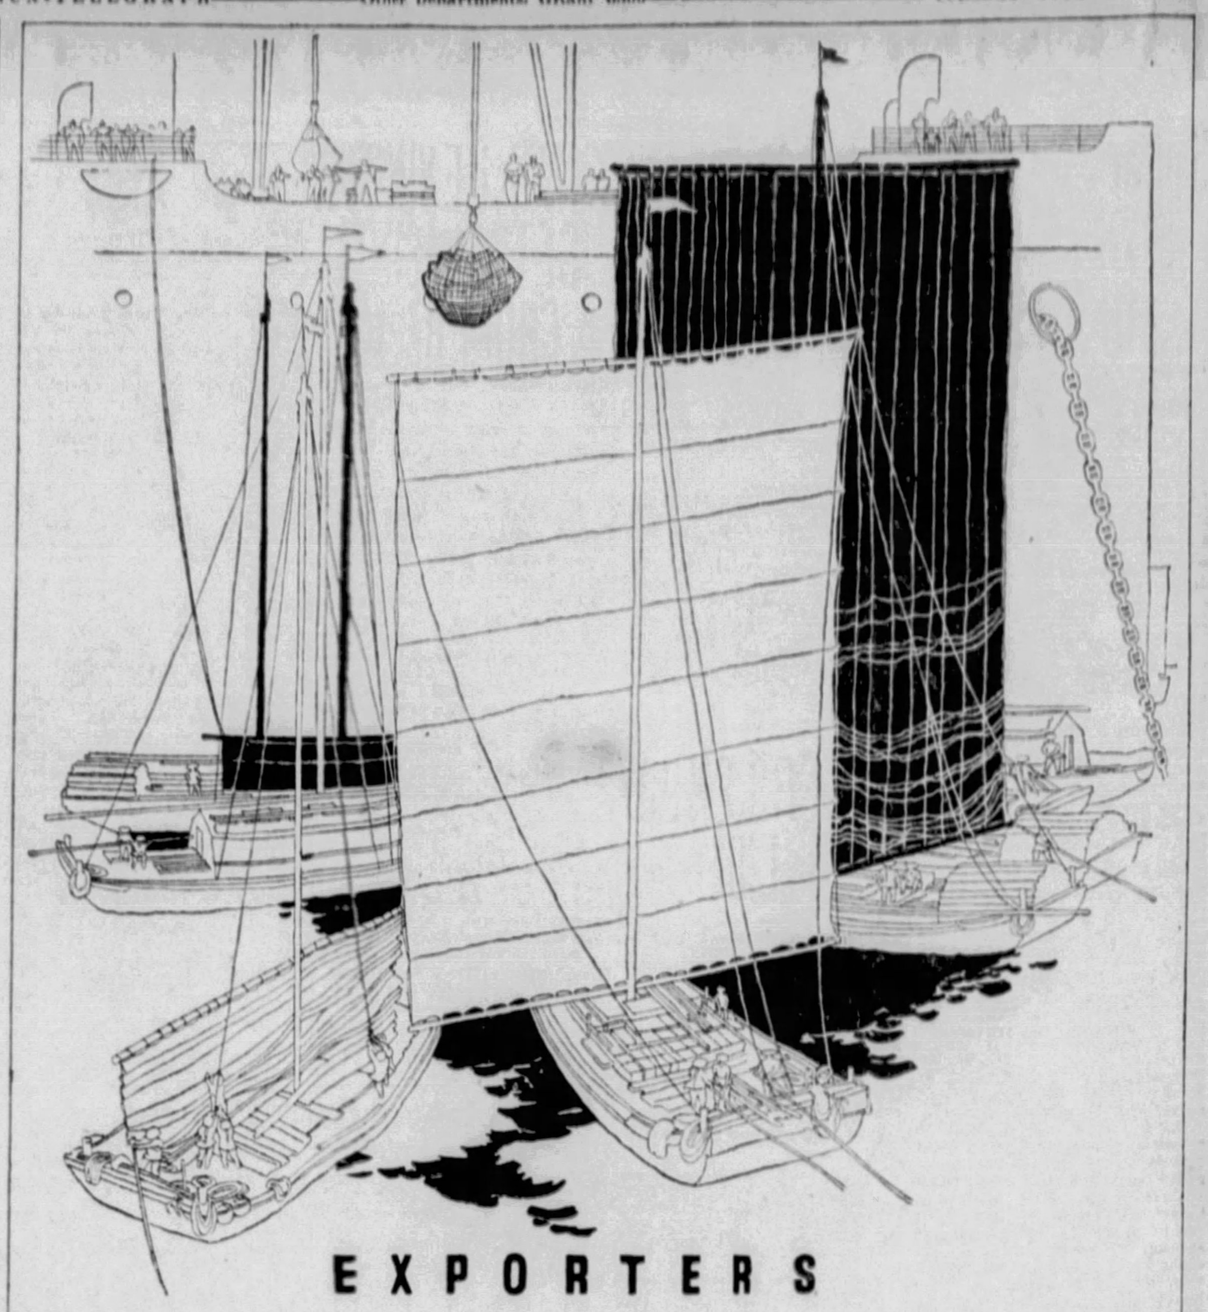
KANSAS WHEAT CROP POOR

DODGE CITY, Kan., July 5.—The Kansas wheat crop is in poor condition. The last week in May, which was hot and dry prematurely advanced the crop in many sections. Harvest should have begun on June 20 but continued excessive rains all through June delayed harvest so that it is hardly started. Competent observers now begin to think that Kansas cannot harvest over 30,000,000 bushels of merchantable grain. The official June government report showed 72,254,000 bushels, while 239,742,000 bushels were harvested from this state last year.

Not only are the yields cut down, but quality of the grain is so poor that the milling content is further sharply reduced.

Similar conditions are prevailing in Oklahoma and Texas.



EXPORTERS

Through long-established relationships with the most prominent banks in commercial centers throughout the world, the Mellon National Bank is able to offer an invaluable service to Pittsburgh manufacturers engaged in the exporting business. Besides handling the financial transactions involved in an export shipment, the Foreign Bureau of the Mellon National Bank will gladly give counsel in the preparation of the necessary documents. In addition, the Bureau is in a position to obtain accurate and up-to-date information as to foreign buying, and in many other ways assist in the development of over-seas markets.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Drift — Local Market Quiet

SLUMP HALTED, STOCK LIST DRIFTS

Trade News Over Holiday Fails to Give Impetus; Activity Extremely Dull

NEW YORK, July 5.—(AP.)—A pronounced slump in the stock market at the resumption of trading today was soon checked, and the list drifted wearily around the bottom levels of the June trading range.

Utilities, food and chemical stocks were again soft spots. The list turned extremely dull after the first half hour, but rallying tendencies failed to develop. Business news over the three-day suspension dealt largely with mid-year quiet, and failed to provide market impetus.

American Telephone tumbled more than 3 points, but met support at its old low. Eastman ran into a flurry of selling which carried it off more than 4, but it then recovered a little. Miscellaneous issues losing 2 points or so included Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, United States Steel, Allied Chemical, National Biscuit, Liggett and Myers "B," Coca-Cola and Union Pacific, the last named penetrating new low ground. Rails generally held up well, as did oils. A few of the coppers were up fractionally. Drug advanced 1⅜, then reacted. Royal Dutch firmed, both in this market and London.

The slump in American Telephone was attributed in some quarters to the ordering of a temporary telephone rate reduction of 12½ per cent in Wisconsin, pending definite settlement of the rate case in that state. Some brokerage quarters were inclined to link selling of the electric power stocks with the nomination of Gov. Roosevelt, in view of his stand on power regulation. There was virtually nothing in the news to account for the improved tone in coppers. Copper metal was a little firmer in London, but that was attributed here to the decline in sterling exchange. Oils reflected further indications of crude production curtailment, and reports that the conference of British, Rumanian and American producers in Paris had made definite progress.

The weekly freight car loadings report, showing a reduction of 19,610 cars from the previous week, more than cancelling its earlier gain of 16,649 cars, was regarded as tending to confirm the view that the improvement in this barometer for the week ended June 18 merely reflected a movement of merchandise in anticipation of the excise taxes which took effect June 21. Steel production has fallen to 15 per cent of capacity or less, although orders for structural steel last week was said to be the third best for 1932 to date.

Lausanne was watched closely for constructive developments, and the action of foreign bonds provided some optimism, although New York bankers were inclined to withhold judgment, while the conference remained in its acute bargaining phase.

COTTON PRICES SHOW GAIN

NEW YORK, July 5.—Cotton futures opened steady 4 to 7 points higher, on reports of more rain in the cotton belt over the holiday and complaints of boll weevil.

The advance carried July up to 5.84c and December to 6.12c, but buying was supplied by realizing through commission houses. There was also some selling here for foreign account, and prices eased a few points during the early trading. July at the end of the first half hour was around 5.74c, with active months showing net losses of 3 to 6 points.

The easier ruling of wheat and stocks contributed to reactionary sentiment during the early trading, but the market steadied after the decline to 5.74 for July, and prices rallied later on prospects for further showers in the South. At midday July was ruling around 5.81, or 2 points net higher, while later deliveries held a point or two below Saturday's closing quotations.

LIVERPOOL, July 5.—Cotton, 8,000 bales, including 100 American. Spot—Moderate business done; prices 1 to 4 points lower; quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 5.27; good middling, 5.02; strict middling, 4.90; middling, 4.80; strict low middling, 4.72; low middling, 4.62; strict good ordinary, 4.42; good ordinary, 4.12.

Futures closed barely steady; July, 4.44; October, 4.42; December, 4.46; January, 4.48; March, 4.54; May, 4.58.

Railroad Leaders Hopeful That Conferences Will Be Successful

Railroad authorities are hopeful of favorable developments from the various conferences being held by carrier executives over the present dilemma of the roads. The plans being discussed by the advisory committee of the Association of Railway Executives as to what should be done to bring about a more favorable attitude by the public, and with respect to helpful legislation such as the regulation of competitors, are expected to be crystallized and put into effect through the appointment of a committee composed of Daniel Willard, J. J. Pelley and Carl Gray. The decision of these executives will be submitted to the advisory committee, and if the committee approves, the plans will be presented to member roads of the association for ratification.

When the bondholders who failed to deposit their securities under the St. Louis-Southwestern refinancing plan were paid off at par, a general warning was sounded that the payment could only serve as a deterrent to successful consummation of refinancing proposals made by other carriers during the year. Already proof is offered that such is the case, for security houses have had numerous inquiries as to what will be the disposition of bondholders who dissent to the reorganization offered by the St. Louis-San Francisco.

The record of residential building contracts for the first half of 1932 suggests that such business has found a level below which importantiant declines are not likely to occur, says the current bulletin of the F. W. Dodge Corporation. Contracts awarded in the 37 eastern states during the first half of the year totaled $162,697,900, and preliminary records for June indicate a total lower than any monthly figure shown for residential work thus far in 1932, it is stated.

A prominent financial writer says:

"Partly inspired by Britain's lead, I believe the United States will shortly rise a giant refreshed to throw off the shackles of unnecessary doubts and defeatism. This is what both countries did after a similar slump in 1896. Between May, 1895, and May, 1896, when the bank rate was 3 per cent. British industrials recovered 100 per cent. Between August, 1896, and September, 1897, United States industrials recovered more than 50 per cent. Since the 1929-32 downswing has been more severe, the upswing may be more dramatic."

Economic recovery is severely handicapped by the present staggering public debt, and whether the action be voluntary or forced is secondary to the fact that debts have to be reduced, says the Fitch summary of trade and industry. With each dip in the deflation cycle the tax load becomes more onerous, but it is a hopeful augury, according to the survey, that the matter of scaling down of the public debt is now recognized as one of the certainties to come.

Stock exchange volume last week was just a trifle better than the exceedingly small business of the preceding week, but measured in terms of commissions to the brokers it still was decidedly lean. It is said that a number of brokerage firms, whose business is now confined to stocks, are considering plans for opening commodity departments, believing that speculative interest may revive in that direction before the stock market again attracts a following.

Call Money Rates Unchanged in June

NEW YORK, July 5.—Interest charges for call loan funds in June on the New York Stock Exchange and the Curb Exchange were the same as in the previous four months, 2½ per cent on the stock exchange and 3 per cent on the curb. In June, 1931, the rates were 2½ per cent and 2 per cent respectively.

NO PERIL SEEN IN ROOSEVELT TO BUSINESS

Democratic Nominees' Attitude on Economics Raises Public Interest

By MERRYLE RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Franklin D. Roosevelt's selection as chief contestant against President Hoover for the presidency raises public interest in the general economic philosophy of the New York Governor.

Mr. Roosevelt leans toward the progressive school. A year before the panic he was alive to the imminence of epoch-making changes in the national life.

Mr. Rukeyser

"Many important changes are coming in the years to come," Mr. Roosevelt declared in a lay sermon at Warm Springs, Ga., on November 24, 1928, "and I am not particularly worried about the people who say that these changes are radical or socialistic. Some people have been using those terms for anything that is new or different.

"There are many problems that face us. For instance, there is the accumulation of hundreds of millions of dollars into a small number of big fortunes. But I am optimistic that this will work out all right. It is the duty of the men possessing these fortunes to see that all these millions are used correctly and much progress is being made along that line."

VISIONED FUTURE

Concerning big business, Gov. Roosevelt said on Independence Day three years ago:

"Are we in danger of a new caveman's club of a new feudal system, of the creation in these United States of such a highly centralizet industrial control that we may have to bring forth a new declaration of independence?

"It is not that these great industrial and economic mergers are necessarily bad from the economic point of view, but the fact is that independence in business is a thing of the past."

A fortnight before President Hoover in March, 1930, predicted that the worst of the unemployment crisis would be over within 60 days, Franklin Roosevelt, in an address at Ithaca, N. Y., was talking in this sober, realistic vein:

"Many economists are seriously questioning whether we have not for the time being reached the saturation point of industrial production calling for a period of digestion for a number of years to come. No matter how anxious we may be to prevent any panic or thought over the unemployment situation at this time, we must nevertheless recognize the fact that there are more people in the cities of the United States who are walking the streets looking for jobs than at any time within many years."

UTILITIES QUESTION

In regard to public utilities, Gov. Roosevelt, in his message to the Legislature on January 2, 1929, said:

"On the subject of the development of water power sites, owned in part or in whole by the people of the state, I am convinced of two facts: First, that there is a definite demand for the undertaking of their development—not several years hence but this year; second, that the title and constant control of the power generated at the sources shall remain definitely in the people and shall not be alienated by long-term leases."

In view of the foregoing economic views, would Gov. Roosevelt's election to the presidency be dangerous to business and finance? Not from my viewpoint, since I think that at this period of our history the soundest conservatism consists of an intelligent and informed liberalism.

OIL DRILLING SHOWS DECLINE

OIL CITY, Pa., July 5.—Completions in Eastern oil field during the first six months showed decline compared to the same 1931 period, Oil City Derrick announces.

The first half of 1932 indicated Allegany-Bradford area the only district in the Eastern field showing gains in completions, with 231 more wells and 1,290 more barrels initial production.

In the Southwest Pennsylvania district, oil well completions and production were barely half last year's report. Drastic curtailment continues to rule throughout the whole Eastern field. Gain in the Allegany-Bradford zone is attributed to drilling in of wells to complete the "five-spot" method from eight months to a year after drilling in of four-pressure wells used in the flood area.

Refinery situation is characterized as encouraging, with demand seasonal and outlook good for the next six weeks.

COSACH TO PAY JULY COUPON

LONDON, July 5.—The half-yearly coupon on Cosach 7 per cent bonds will be paid, but it is understood here that the half-yearly payment on Lautaro Nitrate 7 per cent preferred shares will not be made.

It is reported that negotiations are still proceeding in London to find a new basis for a Chilean nitrate combine, but so far no definite plan has been evolved.

The committee of Lautaro Nitrate preferred shareholders has addressed a request to the London Cosach committee for a complete break with Cosach.

NEW YORK, July 5.—It is understood that negotiations for renewal of the American acceptance credit to Cosach have been concluded, subject to ratification by the board of Chile.

Camco Receivership Requested in Suit

WILMINGTON, Del., July 5.—(INS.)—Saul Erlich, of Newark, N. J., today filed a receivership suit in the Chancery Court here against the Consolidated Automatic Merchandise Company, Inc., of New York.

Erlich, a creditor of the corporation to the extent of $1,030, contended the corporation was insolvent and has defaulted in payment of interest on its bonds. He asked the court to appoint receivers.

Brotherhood Mine Sold at Auction

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., July 5.—Coal mining properties owned by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, including 10,000 acres of domestic and steam coal, located in Boone County, has been sold at auction to the Red Parrot Coal Company, of Cleveland, O., for $368,000, subject to Circuit Court confirmation. The properties were opened by the brotherhood in 1924 and 1925.

Saturday Holidays On Rubber Exchange

TAKES 90 CENTS TO AID FAMILY

NEW YORK, July 5.—(INS.)—Fear that the $12 he earned every week as a bank worker was insufficient to save his mother and four younger sisters from poverty today brought Michael Betsis, 16, in collision with the law. He acknowledged the theft of 90 cents in pennies from a gum vending slot machine.

Michael said so many bill collectors visited the home lately he became convinced some dreadful experience was in store for the family. He especially worried because he thought the gas would be shut off.

Touched by his story, Magistrate Clapp freed the boy in $10 bail for appearance at special sessions.

Prince Bans Debts Of American Wife

PARIS, July 5.—(INS.)—In a legal notice published in an American language newspaper here, Prince Clemente Rospigliosi, member of an old Italian family, today declared himself not responsible for debts contracted by his wife, the former Clara Weil, from whom he is legally separated. The former princess is understood to be an American.

Tom Plans on Making Money Through Stocks After Bank Merger

CHAPTER XXIII.

"Bill's a beast!" was Mara's only expression of gratitude. "Going around with that cheap woman behind my back!"

Jennie asked gravely, "Sure it was all his fault? You hadn't paid much attention to him lately."

"If you mean Frank," Mara said, flaring up, "there isn't anything to it—Bill hasn't any right! Frank's lonesome, that's all. So was I. Sick and tired of going home to a grouch. Nothing was ever right. I couldn't do anything to please him, Bill, I mean. Besides," she added, "Frank's got a drag. Nowadays, you need all the drag you can get. Well, why shouldn't I stay on the right side of someone who has influence?"

"You're riding for a fall," was all Jennie had to offer.

Later, when Mara was running water in the tub and making herself at home generally, Lynn had a word alone with Jennie.

"Look here," said Lynn, "this is a mess, isn't it? It isn't fair to you to have Mara here. Of course we can put up a cot in the living room if she stays on, but—it's putting you out and you don't even like her very much."

"I don't mind," repeated Jennie. "No, I don't like her particularly. She's neither one thing nor the other."

"What do you mean?"

"Well, she isn't good or bad. Not that I think anyone is either, one hundred per cent, but that's the nearest I can get to it. I don't blame Bill much. He must have felt pretty rotten, having her bring home the bacon and slice him his share, with reminders. Then, after a while, I suppose, he got used to it. But they've led a cat-and-dog life for months, as far as I can see. So I figure he turned around and made passes at someone who told him how wonderful he was and what a success he was going to be.

FRIENDS PROSPERING

"Mara never told him that. All she did was tell him he was a failure. So he is, perhaps; but maybe it's partly her fault. Then, as to this Frank business. That's her own affair. Only the point is, it isn't an affair. She hasn't the nerve. You'd have to respect her if she had."

"You don't really mean that, Jennie, do you?" asked Lynn.

"Sure I mean it. Personally, I'd respect her more if she was paying for whatever influence this bird may have, instead of taking it and giving him a lot of hope that doesn't mean a thing. I like to pay on the nail," Jennie explained, "if I get anything worth while. So far I've only got dinners and shows and perfume and flowers and stockings. Well, I pay for those with my bright and cheery company; it isn't worth any more in the open market, see?"

Lynn laughed. "You're the limit," she said affectionately.

"I saw Millie Haines on the street today," Jennie told her irrelevantly. "She used to work with me for Canton & Stein, the wholesale suit and coat house. She darned near ran over me, driving a big sports car. She still works for Canton & Stein, and she gets 40 a week.

"And I'm not mentioning about some of the show girls I used to pal with. They still ankle across a stage, and their penthouses would make your lawyer boy friend's look like a bird cage. Well, I wonder," ended Jennie, "whether it pays to be a virgin!"

JENNIE MAY LEAVE

Mara came out just then, wrapped in a silk robe. "You're peaches to take me in like this," she said, fully recovered, her small round face flushed and smiling.

"Just as long as no one else takes you in," said Jennie.

"I'll look for a room," Mara promised.

"Don't bother," Jennie said; she added, and for the first time during their acquaintance Lynn beheld her embarrassed, a little ill at ease, "I may not be here long. I have plans. I haven't," she added, "made up my mind yet."

"Jennie!" Lynn stared at her.

Jennie waved a lax hand in her direction. "Don't get all hot and bothered," she advised carelessly. "I don't know yet. I'm working on a prospect."

"A job?" asked Mara, not very interested.

"I'll say so!" Jennie agreed. "How about a glass of milk and some crackers and some near beer? I'm starved," she added, casting an oblique look at Lynn's worried face.

She went into the kitchen and Lynn started to follow, but the telephone shrilled loudly on the table near her elbow. Mara gasped and shrank back into her chair.

"It may be Bill. Tell him I'm not here. Tell him you haven't seen me. No, tell him I'm here and I'll stay here," she ordered uncertainly as Lynn turned toward the instrument.

It was not Bill. It was Tom.

"Lynn? Did I get you out of bed? Look here, I've got swell news. Pick out your site in Westchester and hire an architect. We're going to be rich!

"Tom, you're tight," said Lynn severely.

"Not very. I can't tell you over the phone. Meet me at the old crasheterie for breakfast. We'll have chops on me."

"But Tom!"

"I tell you I can't talk more now. But all our worries are over," he told her triumphantly, "and I love you like nobody's business."

On the following morning, Lynn arrived, breathless, late for her cafeteria appointment with Tom. She had wasted time standing at the apartment door while Mara inveighed against Bill.

"A girl who marries and goes on working is a fool; and a man who agrees to the arrangement is a worse one," she said. "I'm warning you!"

"But if a woman's job means a lot of her," Lynn had argued; "if she feels she can work it up into something big, absorbing, why shouldn't she go on with it? On a fifty-fifty basis, a partnership. Marriage ought to be that way!"

"Try and do it!" said Mara.

Tom, waiting, watching the clock, reproached Lynn at her entrance.

TOM IS CONFIDENT

She ordered coffee and rolls, smiling at him. "Tom, I'm so sorry."

"You'd better be." He squeezed her arm in his big hand. "Woman, you ain't heard nothing yet! But there's no time now. I'll see you tonight. Jennie going to be out?"

"I don't know. Mara's there. Tom, she's left Bill," Lynn said dramatically.

But he wasn't especially interested. "Get rid of the audience," he advised her, "and I'll spill the news."

She drank her coffee hastily. "Tom, we'll be so late!" She watched him pay their check, and walked with him through the cafeteria. "Can't you tell me anything?" she begged.

"Just that I've a swell chance, that's all. We'll be on Easy street yet."

She knew that he had been working on an experiment in radio. She guessed, radiant: "Someone in U. B. C. is interested in——?"

"No, it's not that, though old Hank has promised to get me a hearing. This is different. Big Business." He laughed down at her, left her at her own door.

Shortly before closing time Sarah came into Lynn's office and stood by her desk. Lynn rose, smiling.

"No, sit down. I've been talking to David," said Sarah. "He wants us to come down for the week-end, Saturday afternoon. Can you go? He'll have a car for us."

Lynn said instantly, joyously, "I'd love it." Then she sobered. Tom would object, she realized with a sinking of her heart. She added, more quietly, "I'd like to, but—must he know right away?"

"No! tomorrow will do," Sarah answered, and left the room.

Lynn stared after her. It would be heavenly to spend a week-end in the country. But there was Tom. But why should he object? she asked herself angrily. It was idiotic of him to be so sensitive where Dwight was concerned.

She resolved to say nothing until she had heard his news, whatever it was. She racked her brains for some clue to his excitement and confidence, but could find none. But that night he explained.

Jennie was out. Mara was out. They had the little place to themselves. Tom talked, pacing the floor, words hurtling over one another. Lynn sat there, her hands clasped, listening.

It was very simple. The Seacoast Bank and Trust Company was planning a merger with one of the biggest banks in the world; if the merger went through, and it had every likelihood of so doing, the result would be the biggest bank in the world.

Tom had learned of the impending deal through certain channels open to him, correspondence, for instance, and overhearing here a word and there another. "All very secret," Gunboat had warned him. The directors' meeting would decide it, Tom supposed, but that wouldn't be for some time.

Somehow, Bob Rawlson had got wind of the thing, too. The Seacoast company stock was at the moment at its very lowest, owing to the depression and the general downward trend of bank stocks. This merger would send it sky high. The trick was to buy as much as one could, in small lots, and hang on until the big news got out.

Synopsis

Lynn Harding is young, pretty and ambitious for a career in the Seacoast Bank and Trust, but when she meets Tom Shepard, secretary to one of the bank's vice presidents, love quickly makes her forget the career. Both realize they cannot marry and live on Tom's salary and he will not hear of Lynn's keeping her position. That is their situation when Lynn meets the famous lawyer, David Dwight, through Sarah Dennet, her chief at the bank. Twenty years before he had been Sarah's fiance, but discarded her to marry a woman of wealth and position. Tom objects to Dwight's interest in Lynn. Following a quarrel, the young couple plan to marry. Tom agrees to Lynn's continuing her work. They spend Sunday together in Tom's apartment, planning their honeymoon. Lynn's hopes fade when she learns from Sarah that the bank does not want married women. At the suggestion of her roommate, Jennie Le Grande, Lynn decides to seek Dwight's aid. He is writing a book, he tells her, and wants someone to work on it with him. She would work at his apartment—not at the office. Tom informs Lynn he will not marry her if she accepts Dwight's offer.

Now Go On

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

The youngsters who attended the regular meeting of the Cameraphone Theater Saturday were surprised when they walked into the theater to find a real, live pony in the lobby. As each of the boys and girls came in "Tony," the trick Pony, greeted them with a bow. The larger members went right up to Tony and he, being the perfect gentleman, bowed very politely to the girls, and shook hands with all of the boys. After all of the children had taken their seats Tony was brought to the stage and performed for them. When asked his age he bowed his head three times. Earl Roeser, manager of the Cameraphone, then asked him if he could add. Tony nodded his head and Earl asked him how much three and five made. Tony quickly proceeded to stamp his foot eight times. When told to go over to the other side of the stage and turn around, Tony obeyed the command just like a soldier.

Besides Tony, the trick pony, the members were entertained by Adele Yorio, Loraine Mahew, Russell Hoeltje and Mercedes Brinker.

MELON FEAST

The entertainment was closed when Earl Roeser asked for six boys and girls from the audience to come to the stage. After these children had taken their places, Earl brought out a large watermelon and proceeded to cut it into equal parts before he told the youngsters what was coming.

When the other children in the audience saw the watermelon they all wanted to join the other members already on the stage. Earl then gave each of the 12 children a piece of watermelon and told them that the boy and the girl who finished his or her piece first would receive two tickets to the Cameraphone.

He gave the signal to start and, boys and girls, the watermelon seeds started to fly around that stage. The members of the audience urged each youngster on with loud yells and shouts. All in all it was a grand party.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS

But Madame, it should have been perfectly clear to you that my interest was entirely fatherly.

LET US PAUSE TO WIPE AWAY A TEAR

Today we give in to requests from prominent members of the intelligentsia to print a condensed and slightly reconditioned version of "The Pilot's Story," or "Sold to the Mississippi Gambler." The original pilot's story, by W. D. Howells, is much too long, and too sad, so we have ruthlessly whittled it down. And, of course, provided a happy ending.

They came aboard at Cairo—and you would have thought she was white.

While he was weak and good-natured, but vicious when he got tight.

We saw him drink with the gambler, a rascal with flowing mustache,

Who was known as a fox and a cheater who boarded the boat down at Natchez.

The groom staked his money at monte, and lost all he had in a flash.

And before he thought what he was doing, he sold his dark bride for spot cash.

"Sold me? Sold me?" she shouted "Tell me it cannot be so!"

A sickly smile was her answer, from the lips of the man she had wed.

"Louise," he replied, "I have sold you." And that was all that he said.

And then the pilot stood silent, his trembling hand on the wheel.

"The things that you see on a steamboat," he said, "make a two-fisted man's blood congeal.

"I am only a trusted employe, and have not the right to impose,

"'Twere it not for my job I'd have busted that bridegroom right on the nose.

Tax Payers: Take Notice Of These Two Pledges

Speaker Garner's recent demand for an immediate and drastic reduction in the expenditures for government everywhere under the flag is echoed in the national platforms of both political parties.

The Republican plank urges "prompt and drastic reduction of public expenditure and resistance to every appropriation not demonstrably necessary to the performance of the essential functions of government, national or local."

The Democratic plank pledges "an immediate and drastic reduction of governmental expenditures" in order "to accomplish a saving of not less than 25 per cent in the cost of federal government," and calls upon the several states "to achieve a proportionate result."

Regardless of the result in November, therefore, the next President and the next Congress of the United States are pledged before the country to relieve its taxpayers by bringing about a general and drastic reduction in the cost of government.

To make this pledge in a party platform is far easier than to fulfill it after a party enters power.

In fact, this pledge can only be fulfilled in the following three ways:

First, by curtailing federal activities to federal purposes as set forth in the federal constitution.

Second, by reorganizing and reducing governmental agencies, federal, state and local.

Third, by eliminating duplication and waste and purging government everywhere by the abolition of corrupt practices and the extermination of incompetent public servants.

In this national clean-up, it is, of course, the bounden duty of the federal government to blaze the way.

Unless, however, STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENTS ARE FORCED BY OVERBURDENED TAXPAYERS TO FOLLOW WHERE THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT LEADS, expenditures for government will not be drastically reduced, and the overburdened taxpayer will not get the relief to which he is entitled.

In this country the cost of government has increased from three thousand millions of dollars in 1913 to FIFTEEN THOUSAND MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN 1931.

This is an increase of more than four times per person, an increase totaling 500 per cent.

As a result, ONE DOLLAR OUT OF EVERY FIVE earned by an American today goes for the upkeep of 250,000 tax gathering and TAX SPENDING AGENCIES.

And 18,000,000 American citizens are now dependent upon tax rolls for their support.

In view of this appalling increase in expenditures for government, federal, state and local, it is fatuous to pretend that public expenditures can be drastically reduced and American taxpayers relieved until the activities of government have been curtailed and ITS EVERY AGENCY REORGANIZED AND PURGED.

Economy or Revenge?

Kline's Method of Slashing Police and Fire Forces Reflects Political Considerations.

Mayor Kline has swung the ax over the police and fire departments as an economy measure. We have no complaint to make about steps honestly taken to reduce city expenses. But the peculiar method followed by the Mayor indicates that he was not half so much interested in saving money as he was in punishing men who have not supported him and in building up police and fire departments which will provide a smoothly running political machine for the future.

It has been revealed that nearly 500 officers are eligible for pensions and that ample money has been appropriated or is available in the pension funds to take care of the necessary number to effect the desired economy.

Many men with 20 years or more service were retained, while others, not yet available for pensions, were discharged.

The procedure is strangely reminiscent of the Mayor's famous "Bread and Butter Speech."

Tunnel Traffic

Bad Lighting and Poor Supervision Make Liberty Tubes Unsafe for Motorists.

Much can be done to improve traffic conditions in the Liberty Tubes. The Highway Safety Committee of the Pittsburgh Motor Club is making a survey of the problem preparatory to suggesting changes to County Commissioners concerning traffic handling and atmospheric conditions.

Poor lighting has been one of the most generally discussed phases of the operation of the tunnels. The reflectors used for the ceiling lights are too small and cause high and low shadows, which make vision extremely difficult. The driver of a car who goes from bright daylight into the uncertain gloom of the tunnels needs a period of time for his eyes to become adjusted to this condition even though he may light the headlights of his automobile. The change in light greatly increases the danger of accidents. This condition could be rectified at a small cost.

The tunnels also are in need of better police supervision. The system of the Holland Tunnels between New York and New Jersey could be followed advantageously. In those tubes a motorist must select one of two traffic lanes when he enters the tunnel. In no case is he allowed to swing from one to the other. The left traffic lane is for high-speed vehicles. The right lane is for low-speed vehicles. Weaving from one line to the other has caused many bad tunnel accidents in this city.

Cupid Takes a Cut

Marriage Licenses Decrease From Last Year and Also From Last Leap Year.

"Look before you leap" possibly is one explanation in a proverb of the fact that marriage licenses so far this year are considerably less in number than in the same period last year. This is leap year, too, and, sad to relate, the permits to wed for the first six months of 1932, totaling 3,015, make a very poor showing compared to the 4,758 in the same duration of time in the last year supposedly given to the maidens in which to do the proposing.

Cupid, probably the least prudent of the gods, never before has been accused of being at all calculating or in the least concerned about the future. His job has been to shoot his little arrows, and it is hardly possible that he is neglecting it. Love still makes the world go ringing around-the-rosy, and the trouble probably is that Cupid is being handicapped at last by those old proverb-makers. Perhaps the girls are thinking of not only the one quoted but also of "marry in haste and repent at leisure" as well as the one to the effect that love flies out at the window when want comes in at the door.

A plague on the proverb-makers!

A woman in a backless, high-water bathing suit is not such an alluring sight as she imagines she is; but a man in a sketchy bathing suit is the last blow to romance.

The Queen of Gamblers is a woman who has had two or three poor deals in the matrimonial game, and still calls for another, with the luck running against her.

Many a modern wife is just as proud of her ability to rustle up a tasty-looking meal out of a couple of cans and a few lettuce leaves as her mother was of her ability to roast, bake, boil and serve a hearty family dinner.

Women may be beating man at most of his own games these days; but in the old love-game he still holds all the trumps. And she has no more chance against him than a flivver has of winning an argument with a truck.

Two Englishmen have succeeded in spliting the atom. And now they can make a couple of dry politicians out of one atom and a couple of gigolos out of another.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 5.—August Janssen sends a menu from his original Hafbrau Haus on lower Broadway during its flourish of 25 years ago. Along with Luchow's on Fourteenth street, it was famous for its hoppy, satisfying suds—a precision about temperature that smacked of the laboratory.

Each beer was drawn at the exact heat of the cellars in which it was brewed. The bar had more than 30 kegs on tap constantly and, in the manner of Stauch's at Coney Island, a gong would boom to signalize to the laity each fresh tap, a custom from the Nurenberg inn.

Among the beers listed were these, quoted verbatim from the menu: "Burger Brau Pilsen—light, better, slightly veiled. Highly recommended by physicians at Carlsbad for people suffering from obesity and digestive troubles. This is the lightest of all beers.

"Munchner Hofbrau from the brewery belonging to the King of Bavaria—dark, sweet, creamy. (How are you holding up?) Similar to the finest extract of malt, containing all nutritive qualities for run-down constitution and nervous disorders. 'Der erst Kuss welch ein Genuss, Der erst Zug nie lang genug.'

"Nurenberger Tucher Brau (brewery belonging to Freiherr von Tucher in Nurenberg), called the Burgundy of all beers; very dark, creamy and full of character. Recommended for delicate people, especially those desiring to join the fad of increasing weight rapidly."

Imported beers, dispatched elegantly on highly varnished lorries drawn by wide-hipped dapple grays, were delivered at brownstone fronts in cases of one dozen quarts for $3.50 and domestic brews, per case of two dozen pints, at $1.50. The most expensive champagne listed was the classy Brut Imperial at $4 a quart. The cheapest was Cliquot at $2 a quart.

Rhine wines ranged from 75 cents a quart to the $2.50 special, favored by Anna Held. Clarets were from 60 cents to $2 a quart. Sauternes and Burgundies around $1 a quart and fine old Sherry at $1 a quart. Brandies were 15 cents a pony or 25 cents a drink.

All cocktails, save the Absinthe, were 15 cents and included the Old Fashioned, Martini, Vermouth, Rob Roy, Bronx, Zaza, Star and Shamrock. Fizzes, excepting those made of Sloe Gin, were 15 cents. The cordials plain were 20 cents, frapped 25 cents, and included: Benedictine, Mazarine, Chartreuse, Curaco, Maraschino, Champenoise, Grand Marnier, Apricot Brandy, Creme de Menthe, Creme de Vanille, Parfait D'Amour, Anisette, Danziger Goldwasser, Prunelle Brandy, Gilga Kummel—you're welcome to the free ads boys—and Absinthe drip. The Pousse Cafe was fashioned into its rainbow tint for 35 cents and Nat Goodwin used to toss one off in lieu of breakfast.

The original Hofbrau was a series of rooms, with an escutcheon bearing the name across the doorways. On heavy rafters quaint scrolls of German proverbs and funny, fat, unbelted Germans bursting themselves blowing enormous horns were frescoed for the faithful. Also panels picturing tipsy knights, standing storkwise on one leg, and trying to thread needles after fierce beer-drinking contests. I recall, too, one room in a timbered Jacobean shadowiness that was an exact replica of a place I visited in Germany—The Bratwurst Clockelein—"The Little Bell of the Fried Sausage," a perky and famous little tavern clinging so perilously to the side of the Martins Kapelle.

Among worshipping customs at the Hofbrau were the beer markers, which could be secured from the oberkellner. Here they were free, but in Germany they are sold by peasant women, quaint knitted figures of celebrated German characters and fastened to one's stein to make sure of getting the right one back when refilled.

But it was the hearty Hofbrau dishes that touched off a Niagara drool. Run a moist eye over these: Wiener Rostbraten, Gansweissauer mit Bratkartoffein, Paprika Wurste, Rinderbrust en Casserole, Knackwurst and Lubecker Saussischen—not one priced over 80 cents and each a filling meal.

On a long ago visit to Berlin, Karl Kitchen piloted me to Otto Barth's Pilsener palace where thermometers are stuck in the beer. If not the right temperature they are yanked out. But I couldn't wait and downed mine with the thermometer sticking up—like the spoon in the coffee. Ye olde dog at ye olde tricks!

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Outside the hotel room where I work there is a swimming pool.

It is a very beautiful swimming pool. The water in it is so pure, so brilliant, that it is like a great clear block of tourmaline. Across the surface of the water the light plays in a gleaming filigree and shadows of leaves float like dark flowers, and at midnight, there on the peaceful waters, rocks the frail, pale crescent of the new moon.

A dream pool! And as though they, too, were part of the dream, beautiful, nearly naked girls lie all around its rim. All day they lie there, dozens of them, their delicate bodies exposed to the sun. When they started, two weeks ago, their bodies were blue white, with faint green shadows, bleached sickly by the winter's artificial life. Now they glow like the rich flesh of ripe fruit—apricot, orange and peach. They are suntanned.

They are a marvelous sight, these young women. They look as Eve must have looked, striding straight and golden through the flowery fields of Paradise. They seem tireless, capable of enduring any effort or strain, fitted to be splendid wives, heroic mothers.

Looking at those young females, you might expect any miracle of radiant health and power—

BUT YOUR EXPECTATIONS WOULD BE ALL POP-EYED, STRANGER.

For these glorious gals are not primitive Eves, potential mothers of a super-race. They are, I regret to say, just a bunch of lovely, lolling loafers, and their appearance of glowing health is simply synthetic tan.

Chances are, if you gave any one of them an honest, two-fisted chore to perform, they'd pass out cold; and any gentleman who marries one of them expecting a regular partner is preparing the biggest surprise party of his life.

Not that I am holding it against the youngsters, mind you. They are the product of their times, and they meet all the tests. Moreover, if you don't get unreasonable and demand a 100 per cent proof, bottled in bond, pre-war performance, they are merry and charming. But sometimes, between giggles and gush, you find yourself doing a lot of heavy thinking.

Synthetic tan!

That's a poor excuse for real health, and a tragic substitute for real humanity.

YET ISN'T MUCH OF OUR HUMAN BEHAVOIR SYNTHETIC IN THIS YEAR 1932?

We claim to be brave. We perform a lot of showy stunts. But how brave are we when it comes to enduring the common discomforts, the dragging monotony which was our forefather's daily fare?

We claim to be clever. We exhibit marvelous inventions. We use amazing conveniences and contrivances. But who does all this inventing and contriving? Is it not done by a few score men, with no effect at all on the part of the millions they serve? Do most of us, as individuals, exhibit as much ingenuity in our whole lives as grandpa and grandma did in one day, working with their clumsy contraptions? Is our cleverness not that of the monkey, clutching eagerly at any new jim-crack?

We claim to be wise. We reel off weighty quotations from daring brains. But how much thinking do we do for ourselves? How wise are we in weighing and judging the true values of life? Is our wisdom not that of the parrot, echoing stupidly any smart wise-crack?

Synthetic tan! How pretty it looks; how piffling it really is. And what dreadful things it does to the human soul that substitutes its cheap and easy effectiveness for the brawn and bronze of honest, noble effort!

What Would You Think?

You Would Think That He Was THINKING

THINKING? PERHAPS SO, PROBABLY NOT.

This picture of a female chimpanzee owned in Germany raises again the question, "Do animals think?"

This looks like a thoughtful chimpanzee. On the other hand, it is quite certain that if chimpanzees or other animals do think, they do not assume human attitudes like that of Rodin's "The Thinker."

This high type lady simian has probably been taught to assume this attitude by her trainer.

Do animals think at all, and if so, OF WHAT DO THEY THINK?

Many have said, reasonably, that since animals cannot TALK it is probable that they cannot THINK consecutively.

We ourselves, as you can soon prove in your own mind, CANNOT THINK WITHOUT THE USE OF WORDS.

As we think our thoughts take WORD-FORM. You cannot think as simple a thought as "I shall get myself a new hat tomorrow" without actually using in your mind the words "get" and "hat" and "tomorrow."

This lady chimpanzee has no words and if she has none, how can she have any thoughts?

It would probably be more accurate to say that animals FEEL, FEAR, DISLIKE, WANT, and even WARN, but cannot do any actual thinking.

But that makes little difference, since life is really made up of emotions, while words and thoughts merely EXPRESS the emotions.

A mother's delight looking down upon the face of her newborn child needs no words, and no words could add to her perfect happiness. And the baby too young to speak, laid upon its mother's breast, needs no word-thought to express contentment.

"Do animals think?" is an interesting question, but a more IMPORTANT question is this:

"What is the real difference between the animals and ourselves?"

They probably have not our thoughts, but they have our feelings. They suffer pain, physical and mental. A dog mourns the loss of his master. The piteous mooing of a cow when its calf is taken away tells the sorrow of a real mother.

Are the animals our lower brothers, struggling upward in the scale of evolution, pitifully limited on all sides, victims of what would seem to be a frightful system of injustice on the earth?

If so, they are not so far different from us human beings, also pitifully limited, struggling, and the vast majority of us living in anxiety and, like this lady chimpanzee, THINKING VERY LITTLE.

DON'T BE VULGAR

By Winifred Black

Morals? Well, no, I'm not going to have the assurance to talk about morals, or immorals either. I am not a preacher, or even the daughter of a preacher.

But manners? That is something else again, and I should like to beg the endurance of the listeners while I make a few well-meaning remarks on the subject of manners.

"Hypocrisy," they say, "is the homage vice pays to virtue."

I'd like to plead for a little more of that particular homage in the daily life and conversation of the men, women and gigolos we meet in our daily walk and conversation.

There's the "queer" story, for instance. Any story that is a good story, with a good point to it, belongs—provided there is present no young innocent mind to be smirched.

But a vulgar, pointless, stupid story that has nothing to it but sheer bestial vulgarity—why should we listen to such a thing without a protest?

And we do listen to it—you and I and the rest of the everyday world. We hear it, hate it and wish we were somewhere else—but we listen, just the same.

We listen because we haven't the courage and good taste to protest, either by leaving the room or by pretending we do not even understand what the whole nasty thing is about.

Morals? Tut, tut! That's an affair of your conscience. But manners, good taste—isn't there such a thing left in the world?

"Gentlemen, Gentlewomen." Why, the very words make us laugh.

And yet, somehow, is it quite clever of us to allow ourselves to be run over, with the mob of nobodies, and made over into a pattern that is anything in the world but agreeable to the eye?

"Mid-Victorian." What a term of reproach! Well, do you know, I'm just fool enough to think that the Mid-Victorian women had more sense, more taste and more real knowledge of the really important things of life than the Mid-Hooverite of today.

Vulgarity, they say, is slowly going out of fashion. Hurrah! Perhaps the day will come when we will speak with contempt of the vulgar Mid-Hooverites.

Hasten the day, say I.
